Gunfire in Night Club Slays Man at Vancouver

Hundred Terrorized By Shots

(From BUP, CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—One man was slain and another wounded early today in a bizarre shooting in the nation's largest Chinatown.

The wild gun slaying came when hard-pressed Vancouver police were in the midst of a major new campaign against a rising wave of crime.

Detectives quizzed a short, dark-complexioned suspect and scores of horrified patrons from the Mayling Cabaret on the fringe of Vancouver's colorful Chinatown in an effort to find a motive. The incident, occurred at about 2 a.m., near the dance floor in the club.

Dead is John Henry Donaldson, 27, a driver for Kingsway Ambulance Ltd.

In hospital is Larry Brown, with a bullet wound in the upper leg.

Donaldson died seconds after being shot twice in the stomach from a distance of five feet with a .32 calibre revolver.

EYEWITNESS

Sally Phillips, a North Vancouver waitress, told police she was three feet from the gunman when he stood up and screamed "everybody sit down or I'll let you have it."

"His first shot went wild," she said. "Then the second shot hit the tall fellow (Donaldson). A third shot whistled right past my head and hit the back of one of the booth seats."

She said the gunman was tackled by a club employee and two off-duty police constables, William T. Daley and Jerry Myers.

"They hit him hard but he managed to squeeze off two more shots before they knocked the gun from his hand."

GRABS GUNMAN

Ernest Vlaovito, employee of the Mayling Club, said he was the first man to reach the suspect after the shooting, during which about 100 persons sat frozen in horror.

"I grabbed him and chopped him a couple of times across the bridge of the nose," he said.

"One of the police officers was trying to grab his gun arm, but he still fired a couple more shots."

Vlaovito, a one-time ambulance driver, was a friend of Donaldson's and had been talking to him a few minutes before.

"Then I heard a couple of shots and saw Johnny stagger and grab the railing around the dance floor.

FELL IN HEAP

He staggered about 15 feet holding on to the railing, then fell in a heap on the floor."

Constables Daley and Myers jumped the suspect as he headed for the door.

JUST MISSED

Another waitress, Mrs. Evelyn Robinson, said one of the shots "just missed" her head. She said the suspect was awfully calm while waiting for detectives to arrive. He was complaining to the police because they wouldn't let him have a cigaret."

Mrs. Robinson said she didn't think the suspect knew he had killed anyone.

Donaldson came to Vancouver from Johannesburg, South Africa, four years ago. He joined Kingsway Ambulance two years ago. He has no known relatives in Canada.

Million Strike In U.K.

Trans Canada Pipe Project Affected

LONDON (CP)—A million workers engaged in aircraft and other vital export industries began a wage strike at noon today.

Ten huge industrial belts through Britain were affected by today's walkout of engineering workers who are allied with striking shipyard men in a 40-union confederation.

The strike halted the manufacture of dozens of products ranging from sewing machines to Britain's world-selling "whispering giant," the turbo-prop Britannia. Bristol Airplane Company appealed in vain for its 16,000 workers to keep at work on the Britannia.

Work also stopped on one of the biggest single dollar contracts in Britain. $52,000,000 worth of pipeline materials for the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline. The materials were being prepared at Stockton-on-Tees.

(At Calgary, N. E. Tanner, president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, which is building the natural gas line from Alberta to Quebec, said he has no idea what effect the strike tieup will have on building plans. His company plans to have the 2,287-mile pipeline completed by 1958, with the first leg from Alberta to Winnipeg in operation this fall.)

The walkout started a few hours after settlement of a railway labor dispute and announcement that a strike by 200,000 shipyard workers may soon be ended.

Unions representing the industrial workers plan a progressive expansion of their walkout to close 4-300 plants employing 3,000,000 persons by April 6 unless there is a settlement of demands for a 10 per cent pay increase.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR ROSS NOW GWUITALAS OF KWAKIUTL

The newest member of the Kwakiutl Indian Tribe is Gwiutalas, pronounced Gwee-yu-tha-lasx. He is better known to residents of British Columbia as Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

The lieutenant-governor was made an honorary member of the tribe today by Chief Mungo Martin, in a colorful ceremony at Thunderbird Park.

The induction into the tribe came after Mr. Ross had made the first cut in the 100-foot cedar log which is to be carved as a totem gift for Queen Elizabeth.

Gwiutalas means "Man of great hospitality." (See also, Page 15.)

Manchester U. Enters Final In Cup Play

LONDON (Reuters) — Manchester United, mighty giant of English soccer, today reached the finals of the Football Association Cup by defeating Birmingham 2-0 at Sheffield.

West Bromwich Albion and Aston Villa fought to a 2-2 draw in the other semi-final match at Wolverhampton. They will replay the game at Birmingham Thursday.

Manchester United is in a good position to accomplish the Soccer "double"—winning both the Association Cup and the First Division league title—a feat last done 60 years ago. It also is in the semi-final round in the fight for the European Cup championship.

More Temblors Rock 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sharp after-shocks of Friday's big earthquake series jolted the San Francisco area early today.

A three-alarm fire in San Francisco followed a tremor that jolted many residents out of their sleep shortly after midnight. But assistant fire chief Bruno Bassi said the fire "was probably not" caused by the shock.

The after-shock, followed by several which were less severe, hit at 12.14 a.m.

Friday's quakes jolted San Francisco and the bay area, injuring 30 persons and causing cumulative and widespread damage almost impossible to assess but probably ranging into the millions.

At 11.30 p.m. Friday, 49 tremors, many of them minor, had been reported.

Bassi said the first alarm today came eight minutes after the 12.14 shock was reported.

Fifty persons were routed and three suffered slight injuries in the fire.

The fire department urged all residents to check for gas leaks, cracks in chimney flues and broken water lines.

The smallest discernable gas or water leak must be reported and repaired immediately, the department said.

Friday's main temblor was the worst since the disastrous 1906 quake here.

The shocks tolled the big bell on St. Patrick's Church on Mission Street in San Francisco. They stopped the huge clock in the tower of the Ferry Building, landmark at the foot of Market Street.

Some office workers on Market Street said it appeared to them the Ferry Building tower had shifted. They said they now could see the faces of two of the four clocks on the tower where before they could see only one. But inspectors called it an optical illusion.

U.K. Won't Restrict Canadian Imports, Macmillan to Tell PM

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent will receive assurance from British Prime Minister Macmillan here next week that the United Kingdom has no intention of trying to restrict the flow of Canadian goods to European markets.

He also will likely be asked for Canada's views on participation—as a full member or only as an observer—in a North Atlantic parliamentary assembly, first proposed formally last December by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

The Canadian government has been worried about the possible effects of the European common market and the proposed free trade area on Canadian markets in Europe.

Britain is not a member of the common market, a principal feature of which is a customs union, but wants to participate in the free-trade area if certain conditions are met.

The chief conditions are that overseas territories of member nations be excluded from the area and that agricultural products be excepted from the agreement. An accord between the United Kingdom and other European nations on these con-

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Winch's Memory Soothes House

The spirit of Ernest Winch, friend of the aged and unfortunate, seemed to linger over the House Friday on the occasion of what would have been his 78th birthday.

Not an angry word was spoken all day and both sides of the House seemed less acrimonious than usual.

In front of the Speaker's desk lay a small and inconspicuous wreath of violets and rosebuds—a silent tribute to a man who was respected by most and hated by none.

For, as Mr. Speaker Irwin said:

"Complete dedication to a cause is given to few men. It is well that we should keep green the memory of a man of whom it can be truly said that he gave all he had to the cause of the downtrodden, the aged and infirm . . ."

Mr. Irwin told the House that a similar floral tribute to the one in front of his desk had been sent to Mr. Winch's family in Burnaby.

"I sincerely feel I have correctly interpreted your wishes in this matter," he said.

The seat left by Ernest Winch has yet to be filled and CCF Opposition leader Robert Strachan raised the question as to when a by-election would be held in his constituency of Burnaby.

"The Premier as yet has given no thought to this by-election," said Mr. Bennett, using the third person to good effect. "But within reasonable limits it will be considered."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Lois Haggen (CCF-Grand Forks - Greenwood) never says anything in the House unless she feels that it has to be said.

Friday, when members were discussing the Elections Act, she asked:

"In my constituency a number of patients in hospital lost the vote. Could the returning officer visit hospitals to accept ballots from patients?"

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black replied there was no such provision at the moment.

"Could there not be?" Pursued Mrs. Haggen.

"We will consider this matter," Mr. Black replied.

Reopens Talk With Nasser

CAIRO (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold again met President Nasser today on the complex problems plaguing the Middle East.

Accompanied by his deputy, Ralph Bunche, the secretary-general went to Nasser's rest home on the Nile near here for talks expected to continue through the day. The discussions were expected to cover the issues of the Suez Canal, the Gaza Strip, the Gulf of Aqaba and the deployment of the UN Emergency Force.

Hammarskjold arrived here Thursday and held an opening six-hour session with Nasser. He [illegible] Friday with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi.

ditions would mean that Canadian agricultural products, chiefly wheat, would not be frozen out of the British market.

The Canadian prime minister, Trade Minister C. D. Howe and External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson are scheduled to arrive here Monday for a day and a half of meetings with Macmillan, Lloyd and other British officials.

British spokesmen here say Macmillan will assure Canadian leaders that the United Kingdom will continue to consult the Commonwealth at every step of the devolvement of the free trade area and will do nothing to damage the traditional Canadian markets in Britain.

Menawhile, warm British welcome of the United States decision to play a bigger role in the Baghdad Middle East Defence Pact was obvious as Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower neared conclusion of their talks on world strategy.

ATOM TALKS

Atomic aspects of military defence were expected to dominate what probably will be the last working day of a three-day conference of the Western Big Two.

Officials said there is a possibility Macmillan and Eisenhower will hold a final meeting Sunday morning, but it is hoped the main work will be concluded by tonight. Eisenhower plans to leave for Washington Sunday.

Macmillan will remain until the middle of next week to confer with Prime Minister St. Laurent, who is to arrive Monday.

Macmillan and Eisenhower, with their foreign secretaries and advisers, reviewed defence issues for 90 minutes Friday, and the main theme was believed to have been the streamlining of Britain's defence efforts by reducing manpower and increasing firepower.

LONDON (UP)—The United States decision to join the Baghdad Pact's military committee drew cheers from western nations and denunciation from the Soviet bloc.

Israeli sources saw the step as the most important move yet toward blocking both Egyptian and Communist expansion in the Middle East since the Israeli invasion of the Sinai Peninsula.

France, while not a member of the five-nation pact, welcomed the American decision as a guarantee against U.S. "go-it-alone" policy in the Middle East.

The Soviets maintained America was behind the pact, which Moscow says was conceived as an "aggressive, warmongering institution" to threaten the Soviet Union.

The action-filled three-day meeting will mark the final get-together of old Rotary District 151. Last year the district was split, with the offspring, District 152, embracing Vancouver Island and a major portion of Washington.

District 151 comprises about 2,200 members and District 152 about 2,700.

Teamster Boss Faces New Charge in Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said today that teamsters union cash flowed to Dave Beck from the west coast even after he was promoted to the union's presidency in 1952.

Robert F. Kennedy said this is one of the points that will be brought out when Beck, the union's west coast boss until his promotion, is called as a witness Tuesday. Kennedy is chief counsel of a special Senate committee investigating racketeering in labor and industry.

Kennedy said $270,000-plus, which Beck repaid west coast units of the teamsters union starting in 1954, after income tax agents began digging into his affairs, is "by no means the end of the picture on Mr. Beck."

Kennedy also said the committee knows where Beck got the money to make the $270,000 repayments. He did not elaborate.

NO LOAN RECORD

Beck has said he borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 from the union, without interest or security. But he said he has repaid it all. Beck says he borrowed the money before he became president four and one-half years ago of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America.

Committee investigators testified Friday their study of union records indicates no loans to Beck.

On Friday committee chairman John McClellan (Dem., Arkansas) listed $709,420.14 in teamster union funds which he said were either lost, misappropriated, unaccounted for or used for questionable purposes. A big part of the total was the loan to Beck.

More Social Welfare Disclosed by Martin

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government didn't let all of its social welfare benefits out of the bag with the budget.

Health Minister Martin announced Friday that the government, in addition to its willingness to increase federal-provincial pensions $6 month, also proposes to raise income ceilings applying to pensions for the needy between 65 and 69, the blind and the disabled.

This easing of the means test would eventually make an additional 13,500-odd persons eligible for the pensions and allow those currently receiving the $40 monthly—it would go up to $46 July 1—to have higher incomes. Mr. Martin estimated the cost to the federal government at about $5,950,000.

But both the pension increase of $6 monthly, proposed by Finance Minister Harris in his March 14 budget speech, and the boost in income ceilings require provincial agreement because the provinces share costs of the pensions.

Mr. Martin got himself into the government's social welfare act during his speech in the Commons budget debate. But by the time he finished, Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) had found what he considered a flaw in the plan.

A perennial advocate of higher welfare benefits, Mr. Knowles said the government is proposing to increase the maximum permissible income of married couples getting the needy—or old age assistance—payment by only $120 a year while the proposed boost in the assistance to both of them would total $144 a year.

"On the basis the new ceiling will not permit a married couple to get all the pension that is proposed." Amount of the pension is included in the permissible income.

Six-Provinces in Agreement So Far

To date the governments of Manitoba, New Brunswick, Ontario and British Columbia had informed the federal government they agree to the proposal. Press reports indicated Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia also accepted it.

Interim acknowledgement had been received from Saskatchewan and Quebec and Mr. Martin expected to hear shortly from Alberta and Newfoundland.

Income ceilings for those on old age assistance and disability pensions—paid 50-50 by the federal and provincial governments—are the same and would be increased by the same amounts:

Single recipients, from $720 to $840 a year; married, from $1,200 to $1,320; married with blind spouse, from $1,320 to $1,680.

Income ceilings on blind pensions—financed 75 per cent by Ottawa and 25 per cent by the provinces—would be increased:

Single blind person, from $960 to $1,080; individual with one child, from $1,160 to $1,560; married with sighted spouse, from $1,560 to $1,680; married with blind spouse, from $1,680 to $1,800.

The $6 monthly increase in old age assistance and pensions for the blind and the disabled would go into effect July 1.

Mr. Martin, who made no direct reply to CCF attacks on him, dwelt on the scope of increased social welfare payments in the budget. They also included a boost to $46 monthly from $40 in old age pensions for everyone 70 and over; increased payments to disabled and needy veterans and a $1 monthly increase in family allowances for children of certain ages.

He said cost of the increases would total an estimated $132,000,000 a year. Health and welfare expenditures "on all accounts in Canada" now totalled about $1,850,000,000 annually, of which $1,500,000,000 came from the federal government.

Trans-Mountain Share Split Delayed

CCF manoeuvring appears to have killed any chances for passage this session of a bill which would enable a five-for-one split of the capital stock of Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Ltd.

The measure, strongly criticized by the CCF, came before the Commons for brief debate. It was "talked out" at the 6 p.m. adjournment and now goes to the bottom of a list of 35 divorce bills which must be dealt with before the Trans Mountain bill can be considered again.

It is expected that the Commons will have at the most six more hours this session for consideration of private bills such as divorce measures and the Trans Mountain bill. And on two previous occasions the CCF has blockaded the bill by taking up time on divorce bills.

Rev. E. G. Hansell, Socred MP for Macleod, Alta., said old-line politicians are criticizing proposed provincial payments to citizens in Alberta and British Columbia because they see in this "the deathknell of the old political parties in this country."

Speaking in the Commons budget debate, he said there are no cries when companies pay dividends. But when governments—Social Credit governments—"through careful administration" were able to give something back to the people, old-time politicians "shout to high heaven."

But he had heard of no politicians in Alberta or B.C. prepared to go to the electorate on the promise they would stop the payments if elected.

Harold E. Winch believes indigent persons released from prison should receive financial assistance from governments during their initial period of rehabilitation.

The CCF member for Vancouver East said before the Commons estimates committee that many ex-prisoners land back in jail because they are unable to get a job and earn money.

Some method should be devised by the federal and provincial governments to provide assistance over a three-month period in cases where such persons are destitute. If this were done, fewer would return to crime.

'I Was Scared' Says Eyewitness

By NEAL CORBETT
UP Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The violent series of earthquakes that is doing millions of dollars worth of damage in the San Francisco Bay area hit close to home for me—my house is located right on the San Andreas fault.

I felt the first jolt shortly after returning home from the night shift at the United Press office. I left my wife, Nancy, and five-year-old daughter, Lou, at the breakfast table to report the incident—as I had done on several occasions when smaller shocks were felt.

After breakfast I went to bed as Nancy and Lori were preparing to go shopping.

Just before noon I was jarred from my bed. The house rocked, twisted and groaned. Dishes spilled from cupboards. Pictures and wall decorations crashed to the floor. The dresser rocked across the room toward me.

In the past seven years, I had taken minor earthquakes as just a part of San Francisco living. But now the humor was gone—I was scared, perhaps as scared as I have ever been in my life.

I grabbed my clothes and ran through the house putting them on. Glassware continued to crash to the floor. My family was gone and the car was gone.

I ran into the street, which was lined with crying housewives and children who had fled their homes.

One elderly man hurried from house to house with a wrench, turning off the gas supply.

We stood helpless in the street as a number of minor temblors rocked the area. A half block away a reservoir holding one million gallons of water strained at its seams. Police and firemen were evacuating some 1,500 persons in the area directly below.

About that time, my car drove up. Nancy was quite calm, but little Lori was crying bitterly. She sobbed as she told about seeing a store window shatter showing glass into a woman's face.

"It was all bloody," she sobbed.

We quieted her down and went into the house to inspect the damage. Twice later we ran back to the street, but during a score of tremors we sat together on the couch and waited for the shaking to stop.

Now, even Lori took them in her stride—not aware that she was leaving the worrying to mom and dad.

Quake Damage Heavy

Bay Area Folk Huddle in Street

SAN FRANCISCO—Violent earth upheavals, the worst since the disastrous earthquake of 1906, caused untold property damage over a 200-mile area here Friday, but no reported casualties.

There are few persons here now who remember the disaster of 1906 which killed 452 and did half a billion dollars worth of damage—and there are few who will forget the daylong series of 49 quakes that caused near panic—but no loss of life Friday.

Families huddled in streets in frightened groups as houses were twisted and furniture was smashed. But as the area still shuddered over 20,000 of them packed a baseball park to see the Boston Red Sox play the San Francisco Seals.

There was no thought of baseball 12 hours earlier.

SKYSCRAPERS ROCK

Skyscrapers whipped back and forth as panic-stricken office workers fled into the streets.

In the residential section, houses twisted on their foundations, gas and water lines burst, and sections of the scenic coast highway dropped into the Pacific.

RESERVOIR SPLIT

The mid-day quake dumped cornices onto the sidewalks; shattered scores of plate glass windows; literally junked the merchandise of several supermarkets and opened a serious crack in a 1,000,000-gallon reservoir which caused some 1,500 residents to be temporarily evacuated from the homes in Daly City.

BRIDGE BUCKS

The Golden Gate Bridge, world's largest single suspension span, "galloped like a bucking bronco."

Its 65-story towers swayed from side to side as bridge painters clung for dear life to avoid being thrown to their death.

SCHOOLS CLOSED

Women screamed in the streets as they saw the earthquake-proof skyscrapers swaying back and forth over them. Schools were immediately evacuated, with pupils marching out in orderly fire drill fashion. A number were ordered closed.

The quake was felt violently in the United Press Bureau, located atop the six-story San Francisco News Building.

Hanging light fixtures lashed back and forth; loose objects tumbled from shelves and filing cabinets, and staff members were forced to grab for support to avoid being thrown down.

FAMOUS WINDOWS

Each of the windows known as the Five Sisters at York Minster in England is 50 feet high, five feet wide.

QUESTION: "Do you think clean-up of the approach to the Inner Harbor would be a good project for the Capital Improvement District Commission?"

Al McPhail, Edmonton, Alta.: "The Inner Harbor looks just fine as far as I can see, but if the people of Victoria think it can be improved, that's okay by me. I like the people here—I'd go along with them on anything."

McPhail Purcell

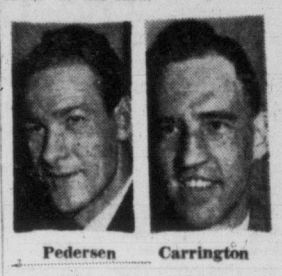
Mrs. C. W. Purcell, 1255 Acton: "I sure do. The odor that comes from there sometimes is certainly terrific. Something should be done about the harbor before the tourist season opens."

Schroter Butte

Mrs. G. Schroter, 662 Niagara: "I think so. The buildings around the waterfront are all very dingy—and that's no way to advertise Victoria as one of Canada's main tourist centres."

Mrs. Hilda Butte, 1134 Oxford: "I'm in favor of it. Any kind of clean-up is a good idea in the springtime. The Inner Harbor definitely should be beautified."

Ingemann Pedersen, YMCA: "It does look rather oily out in the harbor and it would make a lot of difference if the old buildings were painted. They give visitors a wrong impression of Victoria. I'd vote in favor of the idea."



Pedersen Carrington

Art Carrington, salesman, 3937 Douglas: "No, I don't see why the commission should paint every old building on Wharf Street. Private firms should finance the clean-up."

New Ferry Soon For Black Ball

Announcement concerning a new $2,500,000 ferry for service between Victoria and Port Angeles is expected within 10 days, Robert Acheson, president of Black Ball Transport Inc., Seattle, said Friday.

A contract is being drawn up between Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging Co., Seattle, and Black Ball for construction of the new ship.

Construction will likely start May 1 and be finished June 1, 1958.

Original announcement of the proposed service was made in September, 1955, when Mr. Acheson addressed a joint meeting of the Victoria and Port Angeles Chambers of Commerce.

At that meeting he promised a ferry linking Victoria, Port Angeles and Seattle during eight winter months and between Victoria and Port Angeles in the summer.

There is no connection between the Seattle organization and Black Ball Ferries Ltd., a wholly-owned Canadian company here, Col. George Paulin, president, said today.

There had been some "public misunderstanding" on this, he said.

B.C. Servants Well Treated, Black Claims

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said Friday the government's door is always open to its civil servants.

He was replying to Rae Eddie (CCF-New Westminster), who urged again that civil servants be given the same bargaining rights as other workers.

Mr. Black said the Government Employees' Association could appear before the cabinet at any time with suggestions.

The minister pointed out that government workers are covered under a special provincial statute which outlines their grievance procedure.

Salary studies are continually being carried on by the Civil Service Commission, which is given a free hand by the government.

Mr. Black said it was difficult for civil servants to bargain as a group because of the great number of classifications.

"We have always endeavored to treat civil servants fairly," he said, "and I think we have succeeded."

New Jet Record

MIAMI (AP) — A twin-jet U.S. Navy Douglas Sky Warrior streaked to a coast-to-coast record Friday of three hours, 39 minutes, 24 seconds in flight between Burbank, Calif., and Miami.

Officials at the Marine Corps air base said the A-3D's average speed was in excess of 641 miles an hour.

TOO OLD TO HOLD?

'Snap My Elastic' New Army Theme

LONDON (AP) — Britain's lady soldiers were warned today to keep a tight grip on their army-issue panties—the elastic may be too old to hold.

The threat of a wholesale spectacle on some ceremonial occasion involving the Women's Royal Army Corps was raised by Sir Frank Tribe, auditor-general.

He put it simply: Because of persistent over-buying, the army now has enough panties and bras to last the women for 20 years. But the elastic in these items is good for only seven years.

This, a spokesman told a reporter, is something of a problem.

"There is," the spokesman explained, "no date stamp on our undies." And she added dubiously:

"The only way a girl can tell if the elastic is all right is to pull it and see."

The Duff Doctrine

A BILL OF RIGHTS FOR CANADians, long rejected by Parliament, is being slowly written by the courts. This is clearly indicated in the full texts of the Supreme Court's judgment quashing the Quebec Padlock Law.

While that statute is declared invalid mainly because it is criminal law and hence outside provincial jurisdiction, four Supreme Court judges have gone much farther to pronounce the basic liberties of Canadians and assure their protection.

Thus the Bill of Rights concept, by judicial interpretation, now has the support of nearly half the nine members of the Supreme Court and that support has grown steadily in recent years. Once five members, a majority of the court, accept this doctrine it will be the law of the land, binding on Parliament and all the provincial legislatures.

Any lawyer reading the text of the Padlock Law decision will see at once that it is of historic importance apart altogether from the immediate issue of the Quebec statute.

The judicial process now in flow began in 1938, when Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff delivered his famous judgment on Alberta's attempt to limit the freedom of the press.

Our greatest Canadian judge held that Canada has inherited, through the British North America Act, all the civil rights long possessed by the people of Britain. Any attempt to abrogate those rights, he said, was a violation of the Canadian constitution and in a celebrated phrase he added: "It is axiomatic that the practice of this right of free public discussion of public affairs, notwithstanding its incidental mischiefs, is the breath of life for parliamentary institutions."

When delivered, the Duff doctrine received the support of only one other member of the Supreme Court, though the notorious press law of the Aberhart government in Alberta was quashed for other reasons. Today, however, Justices Rand, Kellock, Locke and Abbott revive the doctrine and, in effect, agree that Canada already possesses a Bill of Rights, though parliament and the legislatures have long ignored its existence.

That is to say, neither parliament nor the legislatures can pass any law infringing those freedoms existing among the British people in 1867, when Canada's constitution was declared, in the preamble to the B.N.A. Act, to be "similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom."

The latest judgment of Mr. Justice Abbott, a newcomer to the Supreme Court after a distinguished career in government, is particularly notable. As our constitution now stands, he says, "Parliament itself could not abrogate this right of discussion and debate. The power of parliament to limit it is, in my view, restricted to such powers as may be exercisable under its exclusive legislative jurisdiction with respect to criminal law and to make laws for the peace, order and good government of the nation."

Mr. Justice Rand, in his latest judgment, declares that "apart from sedition, obscene writings and criminal libels, the public law leaves the literary, discursive and polemic use of language, in the broadest sense, free . . . Liberty is little less vital to man's mind and spirit than breathing is to his physical existence."

Though only four of five judges have thus adhered to the Duff doctrine, it does not follow, of course, that the other four are opposed to it. They were not required in the Padlock Law case to pronounce on this matter since they found the Quebec statute invalid on other grounds. Future cases no doubt will bring the whole question of civil rights before the court again and if one more judge will embrace the doctrine it will no longer be a legal argument but a Bill of Rights, which is long overdue.

In the Time of the Making of Nations

IN THESE DAYS WHEN "COLonialism" is an evil epithet often directed at Britain by those too eager to overlook her greatness, the opinion of a distinguished United States writer takes on special significance.

Mr. Joseph C. Harsch of The Christian Science Monitor, one of the ablest analysts of our time, has this tribute to offer:

"We have seen former colonies all over the world strike out on independent roads. Some are making good headway. Others, such as Indonesia, are running into real trouble. Generally speaking, the most successful are those former British colonies which have been patiently and deliberately prepared for self-government."

Therein, perhaps, Mr. Harsch may have spelled out the strength of the growing Commonwealth.

Signs and Such

MR. ROBERT MOSES, VETeran head of the New York State park system, has worked a lifetime to preserve the beauties of parks and parkways.

He is now deeply concerned over the possibility that superhighways in the United States may some day be so enclosed by billboards that drivers along them will pass through paint and board canyons fenced off from all lovely vistas.

He warns against such a possibility and calls for public protection against signs and billboards.

Perhaps the warning should be extended to Canada.

Yet, over the years, motorists have found the monotony of long drives in the United States broken delightfully by the quaint rhymes of the "Burma-Shave" signs. And how dull it might be for the B.C. motorist if the tedium of his highway journeys wasn't broken by that gay message on a yellow background which says "Sorry for any inconvenience" and advertises a certain politician.

As Our Readers See It

'The Forgotten Men'

There is much talk just now about the plight of Old Age Pensioners, but mention is seldom made of the worse plight of those "Forgotten Men" who were unfortunate enough to return alive from the First World War.

The Old Age Pensioners have all their doctors', dentists' and hospital bills paid for themselves and their wives. Whereas War Veterans on Allowance (which is the same as the former) have to pay something every time they go into the DVA Hospital, and their wives have no help at all for medical services.

As our wives are growing old, like ourselves, they require medical attention more frequently, and at times it takes all our monthly allowance to pay medical fees for them.

The Veterans' Allowance was set when bread was 6c a loaf and fresh butter 25c a lb. Once the disability pension was raised, and immediately this amount was deducted from the allowance, so we were no better off.

The bitterest blow was the ruling that veterans of 70 should not be allowed to benefit from the $40 Federal Old Age Pension. This wiped out the allowance, so again, of all people in Canada the old soldiers were no better off. Obviously the Liberal government does not intend these men to live on anything more than a bare existence.

These members in Ottawa who so smugly vote themselves periodic increases and nice fat pensions should pause to remember the old soldiers who went out and fought for them. If it hadn't been for these "Forgotten Men," members in Ottawa might even now be blacking boots for Germans.

OLD SOLDIER.

The Courage to Say

My congratulations on your "Open Letter to Wenner-Gren."

We are fortunate in Canada that our press is free to address such an epistle to any such persons as it deems fit, and that there are still editors with the courage to do it. It should be noted I think that the freedom is based on the courage, for without the one there could be no other. The price of freedom is eternal vigilance. In this case the people of B.C. may yet find time to thank their stars that the press of this province is blessed with the kind of men who stand in no fear of might and money.

I am looking forward to the battle joined in which your efforts will be strengthened by a public fully aware and awakened—and to that day when the forces of bare-faced effrontery have been routed, the large territory at stake saved for those generations of Canadians yet unborn to whom it is our duty to leave a legacy of free speech, a free press and an unrelenting control of the God-given natural resources of this great land vested in the people of the province and the country, forever.

Out upon this sullied Swede.

BENN ADAM.

Good Medicine

Re your open letter to Wenner-Gren. I thank you very much. It was good medicine for me.

1940 was a bad year for me and many more folks too. I lost a son in the RAF. One bright spot in 1940 was Bruce Hutchison, who travelled across Canada telling the boards of trade and the chambers of commerce, how the British were taking the blitz alone.

I heard him at a banquet in the Hudson's Bay store, Winnipeg. There were three of us at the table of honor, Mr. Henderson, Mr. Edwards and myself. We were the first in Winnipeg to feel the blitz. We lost our sons. They all joined the RAF in 1938.

To hear Mr. Hutchison speak of the homeland and how the British people took it, was wonderful. If our sons could have heard him he would have got their everlasting blessing.

But if they knew what Wenner-Gren was up to now, they would turn over in their graves. And remember the snub Wenner-Gren got in 1940?

If he could get a foothold in the country now, we would soon find out he has not forgotten.

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Great Conspiracy Is Under Way

THOUGH I have mentioned it here every spring for the last hundred years or so, a great fact deserves to be repeated for the public's information. I mean that things are getting harder all the time. Shovels, for example, as I noted so often before, are getting constantly heavier and duller. Every gardener knows that as he grows older and wiser. The shovel manufacturers are losing their cunning. They are putting more weight into the steel blades and they are shortening the handles.

Hutchison

With the light, old-fashioned shovel a man could dig all day and never feel tired. Moreover, he would not be bent from the hips up. Nowadays all gardeners past middle age are tired and bent over their weighty, short-handled shovels.

THE young gardeners seem able to wield these clumsy instruments but they are too ignorant to remember the finer tools of the old days. The Legislature certainly ought to look into the shovel industry. And into the hoe industry, too, and the saw industry, whose blades no longer cut efficiently but tire a man out in an hour or two.

While private enterprise can hardly be blamed for this condition, it is also true that the ground has become continually harder and more difficult to work. Some deep, organic change is under way on the earth's surface. Some subtle movement of the planet is affecting the northern hemisphere.

Every gardener has discovered that fact for himself on reaching the age of fifty years but the agronomists, astronomers and other scientists are in conspiracy to hide the truth from the public.

MOREOVER, the same planetary shift is making the weeds thicker. Every year they grow more numerous and more rank. Twenty years ago a man could cope with them quite easily. Today, even with his increased skill and experience, and his new chemical sprays, a gardener is helpless.

I assure you quite seriously that this and other towns will soon be covered with weeds, and dandelions will grow in the main street. Unless the planet shifts back into balance or the manufacturers make better gardening tools, we are through, that's all.

After long study, I am convinced that a still more sinister process is at work. Nature herself is turning against mankind. The laws of justice and equity, the morality of the universe, is breaking down.

NOW, this is a serious statement but every experienced gardener knows it to be true. Why, I could prove it to you in an hour's walk about the burgeoning countryside today.

Observe how a trained and dedicated gardener, one who has spent half a century perfecting his art, attempts to grow a simple, hardy growth like aubretia, which used to be almost a weed and could never be exterminated. And observe how, in the best-managed garden, my own for illustration, aubretia no longer grows. It absorbs all our offerings of good compost and chemicals, it submits to every device of cultivation but it languishes and dies.

YET you can see, half a block away, the same kind of plant thriving, blooming and ravening across the soil though its owner neglects it scandalously, never feeds it or even weeds it.

Or you can observe, if you go farther, roses blossoming happily on some abandoned farm gate while they perish in a hard-working and expert horticulturist's garden, though they are continually plied with nourishment and sprayed once a week.

It is all very well for the egalitarian philosopher, the communist, the enemy of private property, the revolutionary of the toiling masses to say that nature stands on the left of the great social debate, abhors class distinctions and distributes her rewards with impartial justice.

On the contrary, mother nature—like any female—acts only on impulse and prejudice. She has no sense of justice. She seldom helps the faithful husbandman, who spends his life supporting her.

NOW she gives her favors to the brief, inconstant springtime lover, the good-looking youth, who will desert her a few months hence and, deserting the earth and its children, will repair to a summer camp and take up with some other younger woman in a bathing suit, just as you will see, at this season, the faithless gardeners returning from three months in Honolulu to find their gardens doing fine, while the all-winter laborers, who have toiled steadily the year around, find their bulbs ruined by daffodil grubs and can't get a nasturtium to germinate.

SOMETHING is going seriously wrong somewhere this spring. Yet our public men are talking about irrelevant trifles like taxes and inflation.

Instead of talking, let them get in and dig with the heavy, modern shovel, let them investigate nature's illegal combination in restraint of growth, let them produce a green sprout instead of a debating point, let them study the deflation of the gardener and the over-taxation of his strength, and then men like me may vote for them.

At present I am voting for a single, practical policy. I stand four-square for lighter, sharper tools and unalterably opposed to dandelions. Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party—that poor old broken-down party at the end of a shovel.

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

A Difficult Task Made More Difficult

HAVING taken off a bit of time before starting on a short trip abroad, I have spent quite a little of it wondering about the Middle East and the turn in our affairs. We have had forced upon us vast but undefined responsibilities in another great region of the globe. There are some who think that by the role we have played in the United Nations since the Egyptian crisis last autumn we have won the esteem and the confidence of the Afro-Asian nations, and that they will now accept us as being uncontaminated with "colonialism." Our optimists think we have achieved a position in the uncommitted world of Asia and Africa which is at once anti-Communist and purged of historic grievances and suspicions against Europe.

Lippmann

I do not share this view. It seems to me naive and wishful thinking. Our connections with the West are inseverable. The Communist competition is very strong. And a new accommodation between the East and the West will not come easily. It is perhaps the greatest and most difficult task which lies before us.

Irreparable Error

I think rather that the events of the past few months have made this difficult task much more difficult. For we have fallen into what may prove to have been an irreparable error in the way we took our stand on the Anglo-French-Israeli intervention.

Instead of insisting from the outset that their attack was provoked by Nasser, and that the intervention and the provocations must be cured together, we have insisted that the intervention must be liquidated first before the causes which provoked it are dealt with.

We put all our pressure on Britain, France and Israel. We put no pressure on Nasser, and we have cleared Egypt without obtaining any serious assurances from anybody—from Nasser, from Krishna Menon, or from the Soviets—that this would not bring about a return to the status quo ante from which the explosion erupted.

The result is that on the great issues of the regime of the Suez Canal and of the pacification of Palestine, our policy has meant that before negotiations are to begin, we have restored and in fact aggrandized Nasser's bargaining power. We have provided him with the big trumps before the diplomatic game is played.

Since the Second World War we have entered a new epoch in the relations between East and West. We are at the end of the centuries which began with the great European voyages and were followed by the imperial conquest of so much of Asia and of Africa.

Though there are pockets of die-hard imperialism, it is no longer debatable whether imperialism and colonialism are to be liquidated. They are to be liquidated.

How Soon?

The questions everywhere, be it in Cyprus, Algeria or Goa, are how the imperialism is to be liquidated and how soon.

What is not yet in sight is anything that could be called an understanding of the new international order which is to follow the imperial and colonial epoch.

For national independence, and the disestablishment of the old imperial regimes, will not alone produce a new order in which East and West can live peaceably together. Neither the new nations nor the old nations can live in isolation from one another, and they must therefore work out an order of relationship which they can accept.

They are interdependent, as we can see clearly in the case of the Suez Canal and of the oil of the Middle East. Europe needs access to the oil, and the Arab countries would be sorely stricken if they could not dispose of their oil to the West. They cannot dispose of it to the Soviet Union.

But if this East-West interdependence is to be stable and durable, there must be a reasonable equality of bargaining power in working out the principles and the details of the new relationship.

Since Nasser's seizure of the canal, since the miscalculations of the two London conferences, since the fiasco of the intervention, and since our own mistaken policy in the United Nations, the balance of bargaining power has turned drastically against the West.

This is reflected in the fact that the United Nations and the United States are not negotiating with Nasser. They have been appeasing him, finding themselves so short of negotiating power.

Radical Opponent

In Nasser, both as a political figure and as a symbol, we are bound to recognize, it seems to me, a radical opponent of an accommodation between East and West. Nasser's rebellion against the West has a momentum and a direction which, if it is not contained and restrained will carry him beyond any negotiated settlement which the West can accept.

There is every reason to believe that Nasser will not voluntarily agree to any kind of international regime for the canal which guarantees to the users rights that they can count upon.

It is plain that he means to use the strategic importance of the canal as an instrument of his anti-Western and pan-Arab movement. And it is quite evident that against Israel he intends to keep on waging war, as hot a war as appears to him a safely calculated military risk.

The crux of the Nasser problem is that his position in Egypt and his influence in the Arab world would soon collapse if he agreed to negotiate and to abide by settlements with the Western nations. He must remain in rebellion against them, never for long, allowing the conflict to subside.

If Nasser is not effectively checked, it will be idle to suppose that American influence can then be maintained by the Eisenhower doctrine, by pacts, by arms deliveries, by some economic aid, and by resounding declarations against the menace of Communism.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG — By GUS SIVERTZ

Old-Time Spring and the Days of Sport

THIS was always a terrible month for kids. The calendar marked it as the beginning of spring but the keen winds that whipped up dust devils from the streets were a sharp reminder that winter was reluctant to give up the battle. March was like a fickle woman who just could not say yes and could not say no—a changeable jade. And it was a restless time so that one was all churned up inside with strange longings and wild urges to do crazy things.

Sivertz

We would start to play duck-on-the-rock and it would somehow end either in a fight or by some boy being hit on the head by the "duck". Tip-cat was all right for a while but it soon palled.

The big boys still played soccer and rugby but the devotees of baseball were eyeing the grass in the sheep fields below Edmonton Road and putting neatsfoot oil on their gloves, working them soft and flexible in their fists.

Satisfying Sound

So we knew it wouldn't be long before one could hear the sweet crack of a horsehide ball cleanly hit for a three-bagger. My, that was a satisfying sound. And the players waiting to bat would be hefting the bats and swinging them to loosen up smooth muscles.

In other fields the speedy lacrosse players would be getting in shape for the season, looking to the gut on their sticks, driving balls hard and fast at practice goal shots.

It seems rather strange that little Victoria—essentially so British in origin—should always have been so preoccupied with such sports and to have produced such a large number of outstanding athletes in other fields than cricket and tennis.

But we young fry had all sorts of sports heroes. In lacrosse alone there were Allie McGregor, Stan Okell, Boss Johnson, Ed (Cotton) Brynjolfson, Joe Dakers, the Baker boys, Bob McInnis, to name just a handful of those whose stick-wielding placed them on a par with the famed New Westminster Salmon bellies.

Champion Teams

In soccer and rugby Victoria could field teams that could give a good account of themselves against such famous aggregations as the great New Zealand All Blacks and visiting Old Country teams.

The old James Bay Athletic Association whose tall wooden building nestled against the bank below Belleville Street, right next to the CP docks, turned out some topnotch scullers—singles, fours and eights.

And with the invasion of Victoria by the Patrick family, at a later date, the city became suddenly ice hockey conscious and sparked west coast interest in this peculiarly Canadian winter sport. Such names as Newsy Lalonde, Cyclone Taylor and Moose Johnson were known to every kid in Victoria as a galaxy of stars made an orbit around the brightest star of them all . . . Lester Patrick.

I am glad that my old friend Archie Wills has started to tell the Lester Patrick story in The Times pages as it is one that could be an inspiration to every Canadian boy with even the tiniest spark of sportsmanship in his body.

Most surprising was Victoria's production of good baseball players, and we had our quota in Spring Ridge where Chuck Kinlock was probably the biggest individual "tin god". Chuck lived at the foot of Camosun on the edge of one of the big sandpits and would play in spring and summer evenings down in the Goodacre fields.

There were also the Shanks brothers, both good players, a couple of Sniders, and Billie Brown.

And it remained for baseball to rival ice hockey in having produced one of the all-time great players of the game.

This was, of course, Hal Chase who started on the back lots at Victoria and ended a brilliant career in the American big time.

I saw him once only at the old Oak Bay oval and it was sweet to see him in action. His place was first base but he was also a wonderful batter and our other players had very little chance against Hal.

After leaving Victoria's amateur teams he must have played in the American minors first and then graduated to the big leagues. in 1915 he was with the old Buffalos where he chalked up 33 home runs for the season.

League Leader

Next year Hal Chase was with Cincinnati where he was named a "League Leader" in official records, batting .339, making 184 hits and batting in 84 runs.

I lost track of him afterward as, with a great number of other young Canadians I was in a game where they played for keeps on the fields of France and Flanders—but it was good to have seen a man like Hal Chase playing clean amateur ball on a Victoria home field.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

By SILENUS

Ugly Rumors

Just lately there have been rather a lot of disquieting questions asked, in the Legislature and elsewhere, about Victoria's new hypothetical Court House. This column, speaking for itself, is happy to note that the Minister of Public Works refuses to be drawn out and maintains an inscrutable reserve. Long may he do so. In matters such as this the status is best left quo.

—5th Century Terracotta
SILENUS

This column was taking the morning air outside the venerable palace of justice the other day when the Court House Seagull glided down with a tear in his eye.

"That Gregory!" he squawked. "Arrgh!"

"What has Mr. Gregory done?"

"He's after 'em about that new Court House again. Next thing we know they'll up and build it just to keep him quiet! I tell you, it's getting serious!"

"No, no. Everything will be all right. The place is good for a couple of hundred years more. Solid. Don't worry."

"Just the same, it bothers me. I've been living here, egg and bird, for more years than I like to count, and I couldn't just pull up stakes and move on at my time of life. That Gregory will needle them into it, I know he will. This lot hates to miss an opportunity to turn everything upside down, and as soon as they can think of a way to make everybody think it was their idea, they'll up and do it. Down she'll come! And up will go some awful slabsided lump of glass and concrete with no decent foothold anywhere on it. You wait and see!"

"There would have to be skylights for you, whatever happens. And a flagpole."

"Don't care if there aren't. They won't be able to move me. I'm here till the last stone goes, and then I think I'll just have to move to Vancouver, like the judges do. Mind you, there's more to this than just gull accommodation. Think of the justice!"

"Justice is justice."

"Sure. But I've been watching it around here for a long time, and I've even travelled a bit. You get the best justice out of old buildings. 'S a fact. Look at that new Supreme Court building in Ottawa. All shiny and impressive. Well, it's just not comfortable! You can tell the judges are uncomfortable too."

"Careful what you say!"

* * *

"And look at this wonderful old place. Dark corridors. Steep stairs. Carpets. Fireplaces. Windows that open. Panels and gingerbread all over. It's sort of cosy, and comfortable. The courtrooms are sort of dim and dignified, and a fellow can catch 40 winks without causing too much concern. It's a good atmosphere. But put the law into one of those glary glass greenhouses, and what happens? There's too much light, so they put in shades. Then it's too dark, so they put in that fluorescent stuff that makes everything look like it was lit by the Northern Lights. Result: everyone gets nervous, the justice suffers. And then there's the judges. Instead of a comfortable room and a short step to their Bench, they'll get a bare cell and half a mile of skating on slippery linoleum. No good, no good."

"You take a very gloomy view. Even if they do build it, which is doubtful, maybe they'll restrict the architect a bit."

"No, they won't. I flew round a few architects the other day. They've all got plans ready for the competition, and there's not one that looks like a Court House. There's no hope. None."

"You're just depressed over your moulting. Summer plumage will fix you up. Cheer up, Seagull! All is not lost, and nothing will be done without your O.K., I'm sure."

"It's no use. Nobody wants an old beat up bird any more. Nobody listens to me. That Gregory! He ought to have more respect, he ought. Practically raised in the old place. Arrgh!"

Stifling a sob, the stout old champion of the status quo rose in the air and flapped mournfully off towards the Parliament Buildings. I wish someone would tell him that the Legislative Chamber is no place for neurotics.

UN CORRESPONCE

By CHARLES LYNCH

Pearson Hoed Rough Road

NEW YORK—We do not deem it part of our franchise here that we must become defenders of the United Nations' faith, but it seems only fair that the record be kept straight on the eve of what looks like another boilup in the Middle East.

Lynch

The record to which we refer is that of the Eleventh General Assembly, and the events now unfolding in the Middle East stem for the most part from the assembly's actions.

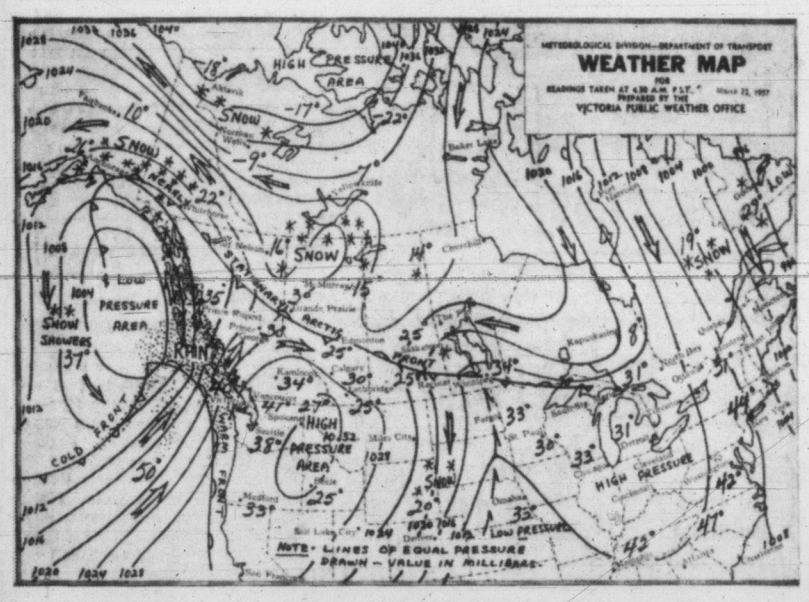
It is a fact that, although the assembly transacts its business in the world's best-lighted amphitheatre, and in the presence of more microphones than they have over at Radio City, there remains a great deal of mystery about what the assembly actually did. Some of this is due to the vagueness of the resolutions that were passed; some of it is pure political expediency on the part of powers who are willing to make the United Nations the goat rather than take their lumps themselves for a job poorly done.

The resolutions under which secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold is attempting to operate now are just about as vague as they can be. There need be no doubts about why this is so—the reason is simply that the General Assembly could not agree on words that were clear in their meaning.

No man knows this better than Canada's minister for external affairs, for he tried on two occasions toward the end of the assembly to get things spelled out. It was his contention that unless they were spelled out, things would quickly get themselves in a mess and the United Nations Emergency Force would be put in what could be an embarrassing position.

Mr. Pearson put forward that viewpoint in two of the most forceful speeches heard during the assembly. In each of those speeches he spelled out, chapter and verse, what Canada felt should be done about the Gaza Strip, about the Gulf of Aqaba, about the United Nations Emergency Force, and about the demarcation line between Israel and Egypt. His entire theme was a cry for peace, for stabilization, for negotiation.

Both times his words found warm support from Britain, from the United States, and from most of the NATO countries. And both times, the assembly turned him down. On each occasion, the United States veered away from the Canadian position in deference to the feelings of the African and Asian nations.



WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—An active Pacific storm that developed rapidly off coast Friday evening is now nearing the coast. It will move inland over coastal areas by mid-afternoon preceded by rain and strong winds. Interior sections will have generally overcast skies ahead of the system but only a little rain or snow. By Sunday a second system is expected to be nearing the coast to bring a renewal of the wind and rain. Interior regions will again get off rather lightly from this system. Temperatures will trend toward milder values as these disturbances bring milder air from the southeast Pacific toward the coast.

Pope Eases Rules on Fasting For Communion, Evening Mass

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope has liberalized rules for evening mass and the communion fast to meet changing conditions of modern life.

The new rulings announced today extend liberalizations that the Pontiff made in 1953. They become effective next Monday.

The Pope now gives Roman Catholic bishops the right to celebrate evening masses daily "so long as it is required for the spiritual welfare of a considerable number of people."

The 1953 liberalization for mass and the communion fast had permitted evening mass on a limited basis, and on a sort of trial period. The practice proved successful.

The new rules require priests and Roman Catholics to abstain only three hours from solid food and alcoholic drinks before attending mass and receiving holy communion.

Although addressed to bishops, the new rules apply to all priests, who now may celebrate evening mass at their own discretion.

The fast conditions to be observed before receiving communion at both morning and evening mass are also relaxed.

Black Denies Colquitz Overcrowded

A charge that Colquitz Mental Hospital is overcrowded was denied in the Legislature Friday by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) made the claim, and urged the government to build new quarters.

Mr. Black said the hospital was designed to hold 300 patients, and at present there are only 286.

The minister added that the site of a new mental hospital on Vancouver Island would be announced soon after the end of the present session.

Many Island centres have been bidding for the hospital, and Mr. Black said another site at Duncan is still to be investigated.

Orangemen Attack Tax Aid for Schools

Will 'Unite' Against Social Credit If Catholic Schools Exempt, Bennett Warned

The Loyal Order of Orangemen has warned the B.C. government it will "unite against the Social Credit Party" if the government exempts private schools (including Roman Catholic schools) from municipal taxation.

In a letter to Premier Bennett and his cabinet, the order claims a section of the Municipal Act exempting private schools from taxation is "the first step toward Roman Catholic-controlled separate schools in B.C."

Premier Bennett's executive assistant, Ron Worley, said Friday night that the letter had not been received.

The letter was released Friday by the Victoria branch of the association.

In the legislature Thursday Opposition Leader Robert Strachan put the CCF on record as opposing the bill and John Tisdalle (SC, Saanich) said the government should call a public plebiscite before assenting to the tax exemption.

HAILSTONES HIT FLORIDA

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hailstones, some of them reported as big as a man's fist, fell in central and south Florida Friday. The only major damage was reported in a three-square-mile section of orange groves at Lake Wales.

PRESIDENT of the student's council at Victoria College next term will be Doug Stewart, 18, college freshman. Elected Friday to take over from out-going president Stewart Smith, he currently is vice-president of the present council, member of curling, rugby and soccer teams. YOUR INCOME TAX

File Returns Early For Quick Refund

By W. GORDON HOLMS, CA

Already the income tax department has issued thousands of refunds this year to those enterprising taxpayers who filed their returns early.

Everyone can't get a refund and some unfortunates will have to pay more than they have already paid.

If you think you have a refund coming, get your return in early. Once the April rush gets under way, refunds must necessarily be made at a much slower pace.

A word of warning to those who still have more to pay: don't send cash through the mails. Use a cheque or money order. If a letter containing cash is lost you will have to pay twice.

Sums up to $500 in cash have been received by the income tax office in the Belmont Building, a situation that makes officials wince.

Official History Fine Picture of Tense Period

'Fighting Five-Ocean War With Two-Ocean Navy'—Task Beyond Strength

(Reviewed By Derek Lukin Johnston)

THE WAR AT SEA, Vol. II, by Capt. S. W. Roskill, DSC, RN. (HM Stationery Office. £2.2.0).

The second volume of the Admiralty's official history of the War at Sea, 1939-45, covers the 17 months from Jan. 1, 1942, to May 31, 1943. Commencing in the dark days of the swift and apparently irresistible advance of Japanese power, the story of the Allied sea forces in 1942 was like an elastic band stretched to the point where it might snap in any one of a dozen places.

The Japanese near-dominion over the Pacific lasted only six months, until their defeat off Midway Island in June, 1942; but this easing of the strain was not felt in the Atlantic for nearly another year. In March, 1943, as many as 40 U-Boats could concentrate on two convoys huddled together for mutual protection.

However, that month witnessed (for history and not at that time for the anxious sailors and shore staffs) the apex of German submarine power, and the book ends on the rising note of U-Boat defeat, Japanese evacuation of Guadalcanal, and relief to the Mediterranean from the capture of Tunis and the North African coast.

FINE HISTORIAN

Captain Roskill has already revealed himself as a first-class historian, and readers of this second volume will not be disappointed. His grasp of perspective and powers of selection are admirable, and the narrative flows as easily through the complerities of ocean strategy as in the details of an individual action.

What becomes increasingly clear as the book recounts the disasters of early 1942—Singapore's capitulation, the loss of the Dutch East Indies, and the disruption of Indian Ocean traffic by the Japanese fleet—is that Britain was faced with a task beyond her strength. She was trying, in the words of the author, "to fight a five-ocean war with a two-ocean navy."

Whereas in the First World War Britain's naval forces had received the cumulative aid of the French, Japanese, Italian, and American fleets, in 1942 two of these Great War allies had become enemies; the fleet of a third was anchored at Toulon; and American seapower had been temporarily cut in half at Pearl Harbor. The Canadian Navy offered valuable support but it was far from the strong and experienced force it came to be in 1944.

RN'S BURDEN

Thus throughout 1942 the Royal Navy had to bear the chief burden of fighting convoys across the Atlantic, around the North Cape to Russia, and through the Mediterranean to Malta; searching for German commerce raiders; keeping several battleships and carriers on constant alert for the Tirpitz and other heavy German units; and protecting trade in the Indian Ocean.

As with Dr. Johnson's celebrated simile of the dog walking on its hind legs, the wonder is not that it was done well but that it could be done at all.

Dreadful penalties had to be paid for the insufficiency of naval strength. One of the most tragic was the disaster to Convoy P.Q. 17 which sailed for Archangel in early July, 1942—39 merchantmen with an escort of cruisers and destroyers.

They beat off several German air attacks with small loss; but the Admiralty became alarmed at indications that the Tirpitz and supporting forces were in the area. The risk of destruction of the whole convoy and its valuable escorts by the powerful German squadron were deemed too great to face; the First Sea Lord himself, Sir Dudley Pound, ordered the cruisers to withdraw and the convoy to scatter, the merchantmen proceeding by diverse routes to Archangel.

MISGIVINGS

The peremptory terms of the order gave the British escort and convoy commanders no option but to obey, although they had grave misgivings. The separated ships were in fact butchered by U-Boats and Norway-based aricraft, and only one-third of the original 39 reached Archangel.

The Admiralty's appraisal of the Tirpitz's movements was at fault, and she never seriously threatened the convoy. Captain Roskill is critical of the First Sea Lord's orders over the heads of the commanders afloat. Yet on other occasions Admiralty intervention had been proved correct.

Differences of opinion between headquarters and local commanders have provided an acute and unsolved problem since the early days of radio. Had Jellicoe accepted as correct an Admiralty message received about midnight after the Battle of Jutland, he might have caught and destroyed the battered German High Seas Fleet before it could reach the safety of its harbors the next morning.

Captain Roskill lightens his narrative with the touches of humor which have become traditional in naval signalling. At the grim moment when the escorts were leaving Convoy P.Q. 17, one of the supporting British submarines signalled a destroyer that she intended to remain on the surface as long as possible. "So do I" was the reply.

In writing of Dieppe, the author feels that the decision to do without heavy naval gunfire support was a mistake. After the action senior naval officers expressed the view that even one battleship "would have turned the tide in our favor."

American naval actions in the Pacific are well described, but in less detail because of course they have been reported at length by Samuel Eliot Morison, to whom Captain Roskill acknowledges his debt.

The author has given a fine all-round picture of the most tense period in the Second World War at sea. His objectivity cannot disguise it from being a moving and deserved tribute to the fortitude and endurance of the British Navy and Merchant Service.

BOOK TALK By JAMES SCOTT

Two New Novels Reflect Our Fear

Sometimes when one considers a cross-section of the books which are written and which we read it seems as if the charge that the human race is a neurotic race is absolutely true. Just this week, for example, looking through the titles of a batch of books which has just arrived, I find some pretty good evidence that we are all subject to an acute worry neurosis.

The biggest case in point in this lot is a book called The 27th Day, a first novel by a young Toronto-born writer who now makes his living in California—John Mantley.

James Scott

This novel belongs to that group which sets up a crisis at some future date—not too far away—in which the fate of mankind is at stake. Ever since the bomb went off at Hiroshima, this worry has been plaguing us. We are aware that we have the fate of the race in our own hands and we are so distrustful of ourselves that we live with the worry that before too long we may destroy ourselves.

Naturally this is excellent stuff for fiction and is a theme which is tempting to many writers. But writers only reflect what their public is concerned with and the fact that many, many books like The 27th Day have been written is surely good evidence that we are a fearful people who may well be losing confidence in ourselves.

More Intelligent Worlds to Conquer

At any rate, Mr. Mantley is a well-polished writer who knows how to spin a good—if frightening—yarn. The plot here revolves around the possibility that there are many other worlds where intelligent life has been in existence for a long time, that many of these worlds have people who are far advanced from us in terms of intelligence.

One of these worlds now, for good reasons, wants to take over earth and they decide to do it by letting the people of the earth destroy themselves.

Four people are picked at random from all parts of the globe—an American reporter, a pretty English girl, a great German scientist, a private of the Russian army and a Chinese peasant girl—and are given a box each which only the owner can open. Inside are three capsules each capable of destroying all human life within a radius of 3,000 miles. The five recipients are then returned to earth by the men from space who are confident that one way or another this will be enough to make mankind destroy itself.

FRIGHTENING

What happens is an interesting comment on what this author considers to be the hazards to our existence. The five people, of course, are not left alone with their power. Governments and nations become involved and the picture then painted is frightening to say the least.

It's a fast-moving, well-written tale but underlying it all is this dreadful fear neurosis which is attacking humanity.

The second exhibit I have at hand is a French translation of a book by Andre Soubiran called Bedlam. This book which has sold over 100,000 copies in France tells the story of a man who, to escape prison, hides out in an insane asylum.

The central portion of this book deals with the terrifying world of the mentally sick—really sick ones, all diagnosed as criminally insane.

In all there are 29 inmates in the ward and the case history of each one is told in detail. All the while the hero himself is succumbing to the pressures of this dreadful environment and daily his fear that he will lose his reason becomes greater.

Once again we have a story based on man's own sense of insecurity and his lack of confidence in himself.

Not being a sociologist, I am not too sure what the significance of such books as these may be. At a quick guess one would say that they reflect the insecurity of our times. Perhaps this is so.

However, I have to report that as far as I know they have left no ill effects on this reviewer. I enjoyed both books because they deal with a current problem, are well and movingly told and, despite the neurotic implications, are amusing and diverting to read. Unless your neurosis is acute they are not dangerous.

Author Michener Poses Some Sobering Questions

THE BRIDGE AT ANDAU, by James Michener; Random House.

The footbridge across a drainage canal near the Austrian town of Andau was a nondescript old pile of lumber.

But some day perhaps when freedom again shines over Hungary it may become a sort of European symbol of liberty. It was at this bridge that James Michener, American novelist and war correspondent, watched the exodus of Hungarians.

Michener spent many days questioning the refugees last fall and his latest book, The Bridge at Andau, reports what he learned.

Some of the stories of heroism and of terror unspeakably cruel are fantastic, but Michener claims exhaustive documentation.

He also asks some sobering questions, most of them on behalf of refugees. Did we incite the Hungarians to revolt and then abandon them? Did we fail the refugees? What is next?

So I phoned the number hot on the trail;
As a greenhouse is warm when the rain does soak,
A pleasant place to go have a smoke.
You can putter about . . . tying knots,
Planting seeds and stuffing pots.
And a grapevine's fun for business men,
It's a sort of an outdoor kind of a den.
The man on the phone went on to say,
"It's practically yours, if you take it away";
It struck us both with rather a shock,
He just lived, in the very next block.

So last Sunday morn, a St. Patrick's Day start,

Of dismantling this greenhouse all apart.
When I got there, in my best old clothes,
A lady was singing, "My Wild Irish Rose."
I knew she was sitting . . . and playing the piano,
A thrilling voice . . . a power soprano.
With my crow-bar . . . I gently pried,
A crashing of glass . . . & she ran outside.
"Be-Gorra," she cried, "sure enuff thot it doom."
"It's only me . . . Casey . . . lowering the boom."
She laughed, went back & played some more,
'Cause I'd clapped & shouted . . . "Encore . . . Encore."
Then I'd wait for a note to hardly pass,
Wham . . . I'd crash thru . . . with some busted glass.
Neighbors came out & windows were raised,
And my crashing effect was highly praised.
So, I hope Hans Gruber is listening to me,
As I've this smashing new note . . . for his GREAT SYMPHON-EE.

Faculty of Discernment Important to All Progress

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

It is probably no more than a coincidence that the two major Canadian west coast symphony orchestras have both scheduled for their final concerts of the season, Beethoven's monumental Ninth Symphony, the "choral."

Vancouver Symphony's performance will be broadcast this Sunday at 9 p.m., over CBU, while the Victoria Symphony rendition will be heard at the Royal two weeks later, the weekend of April 7 and 8.

For those who are not overly familiar with the work — and comparatively few will be, seeing that for obvious reasons it is performed much more seldom than any other — Sunday's broadcast should prove of particular interest in preparation for the local "live" performance.

In fact, not to make a point of hearing the broadcast if at all possible is to neglect an opportunity of sharpening one's appreciation, and therefore enjoyment, of the Victoria concert.

TRIPLE PLEASURE

I realize that that comment sounds as though I were trying to belittle the Vancouver orchestra and ensemble, which is certainly not my intention. I am merely trying to say that if critical faculties are alert and therefore one is listening with discernment, the pleasure of attending a performance is practically tripled.

But, on the other hand, discernment cannot be at its best without some basis of comparison for the mind to note. It would be something like seeing an oil painting for the first time in your life. How could you evaluate and receive its full import without the yardstick of previous experience?

FRIENDLY ENEMY

It always comes as a surprise to me to discover that some people regard criticism as an enemy of artistic endeavor. The truth is that we cannot serve our musician, artist, writer and theatrical fellow citizens better than by learning to be keenly, constructively critical of their efforts.

A parent, blind to its child's faults, is, potentially, the child's worst enemy. The mother who fatuously believes Tommy to be a second Glenn Gould, or Mary another Bea Lillie, is steering her offspring toward that heartbreak which in such case, may result from impartial judgment of experts.

If we want to build fine symphonies, art galleries and community theatres we, as individuals, can serve best by striving for discernment — and then speaking the truth.

MUSIC FESTIVAL ENTRIES ACCEPTED TO MARCH 30

Last date for entry in the Greater Victoria Music Festival has been advanced from today, March 23, for one week, to March 30. Entries postmarked on that date will be accepted by the secretary at Box 308, Victoria. There will be no advance of fee for these entries.

It is also announced that, in order not to conflict with the bands and orchestra conference at Kelowna, opening day of the festival will be May 7, and not May 8, as noted in the syllabus. Other dates remain unchanged.

YOUNG MUSICIAN RAPT IN STRINGS

"Angel With Harp" might be a painter's title for this charming photographic portrait of 12-year-old Nancy Dale, Seattle. Nancy is an outstanding young harpist who has won numerous medals and awards in competition and has appeared with leading Seattle organizations as soloist. She will make a guest appearance in Victoria April 3, as soloist with the Schubert Club women's choir at Oak Bay Junior High.

Theatre-Wise Woman to Portray Title Role in Guild's 'Jane'

An experienced director and actress who came to Victoria from Saskatchewan two years ago is Mrs. Phyllis Dulmage. She and her husband, Jim, also a talented director-actor, are members of the teaching staff at Belmont Junior-Senior High School.

At the moment Mrs. Dulmage is engaged in both capacities. She is rehearsing the title role of "Jane" in the Victoria Theatre Guild production which will open at Langham Court Theatre, March 30. Meanwhile a group of her students received a fine adjudication in this week's Victoria Schools Drama Festival.

Since coming to this city Mrs. Dulmage has been noted for her excellent work in high school drama. Joining the Theatre Guild soon after arrival, she has also done some outstanding things in that field, most recent of her productions being James Barrie's "Dear Brutus," which was the guild major show last December.

In "Jane," a play based on a Somerset Maugham short story and being directed by well-known guild actor, Don Ross, she plays the part of a dowdy middle-aged woman who suffers an amazing and amusing transformation.

The troubles she encounters and precipitates in doing so provide an entertaining evening of fast-paced comedy.

Israeli Orchestra Superb Despite Slim Resources

By HUMPHRY DAVY

One of the most remarkable achievements of Israel in the field of music is its superb philharmonic orchestra formed as the result of the Nazi holocaust.

It's a big accomplishment when you consider that it is maintained by a small state which has fewer natural resources than south Vancouver Island. It gets its support from people who earn less and have less than Canadians or other peoples of Europe.

The Israel Philharmonia was formed in 1936 by German musicians forced to leave their country because of their Jewish origin. Since then it has become a first-class orchestra famous throughout Europe.

Davy

Its first appearance on records was in 1954. Latest disc is a performance of Robert Schumann's Rhenish Symphony No. 3, coupled with his Manfred Overture. (Angel 35374). Conductor is Paul Kletzki.

Kletzki's interpretations are clear and never forced, and the recorded sound is good.

Obernkirchen Children's Choir: Folk Songs and Fairy Tales (Angel 65031). Here's a record you shouldn't miss if you like crystal clear voices of children—one of the best discs in its class to be released this year.

The German choir composed of 31 girls and six boys, sing German folk songs, including the "Bremen Town Musicians." This number based on the fairy tale of the Brothers Grimm is certain to appeal to youngsters.

This choir is comparatively new, having been formed in 1950 in the town of Obernkirchen. Nine months later it won first honors at the Welsh Festival. The late poet, Dylan Thomas, at the time called them "Angels in Pigtails," a name which remains with them.

POPS LIBRARY:

Turntable Tips—If you like banjo music, "Peg O' My Heart," by the Big Ben Banjo Band (Capitol), is worth many spinnings . . . "Pull Down de Shade," by Lew Quadling, has lyrics with a double meaning, perhaps, but also has a nice melody. (Coral) . . . Georgia Gibbs latest for Mercury, "Pretty Pretty" and "Silent Lips," is a neat coupling . . . Pat Boone also has a winning doubleheader with "Why Baby Why" and "I'm Waiting Just for You" (Dot).

Revival of the Week—"Button Up Your Overcoat" (M-G-M) is presented with great enthusiasm by the Ray Charles Singers.

Mood Music — "A Touch of Paris," by Boris Sarbek and his Orchestra (Epic) is an entertaining 40-minute visit on records.

Selected singles — "Wacker Drive," by Tony Smith and his Asociates (Mercury), "Ninety-Nine Ways," by Tab Hunter (Dot), "You Know Why," by Lilyann Carol (Mercury), and "The Donkey and the Schoolboy," by David Seville (Liberty).

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class)
A (Don't Miss)
BB (Worthwhile)
B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put in time)

(A) "THE RAINMAKER" (Royal)—In addition to providing a background for Katharine Hepburn to prove again that she is one of the most competent actresses of her day, Paramount's "The Rainmaker" is as gentle and truthful as a saying by Confucius, in truth a sermon in celluloid that should make sound good sense to all.

Lizzie (Miss Hepburn) is an old maid and her paw (Cameron Prud'homme) and her two brothers (Lloyd Bridges and Earl Holliman) never let her forget it by their various, well-meaning activities in trying to get her married off. Then along comes brash, ne'er-do-well con man Burt Lancaster, who claims he is a rainmaker extraordinary and can save the drought-hit land and the dying cattle by weird machinations and incantations that include a booming drum, a white-wash arrow and a mule with its hind legs tied together.

ALL FOR $100

"I'll barometerize the cold front and oxidize the warm front, then pressurize the atmospheric occlusions," the con man promises, his face estatically raised to Heaven. "An' my fee fer all this is only a hundred bucks."

"Bunk," snaps Lizzie.

But later, in the barn, where she has fled after seeing her old maid's ugly future reflected in the faces of her paw and her brothers, she discovers in con man Lancaster a mirror that tells her she is not plain but beautiful, not unwanted but desired by a man as a woman.

And Lancaster, in her thanks, actually makes rain when he never thought he could.

The little sermon on man's continued need for understanding and sympathy from his fellow-man is further pointed up by brother Earl Holliman who tells big brother Lloyd Bridges that "It's funny, but I only feel really stupid when you're around."

For her performance in "The Rainmaker" Miss Hepburn once again has been nominated for an Academy Award, just as she was last year for another smashing performance in "Summertime." Honors are not new to the actress. Back in the early 30s she won an Academy for "Morning Glory," later the gold medal as "the best actress in the world" in Italy, and the New York critics' "best actress" award for her "The Philadelphia Story." Although this year's Academy, doubtless will go to Ingrid Bergman or Deborah Kerr, a split vote might turn the tide for Miss Hepburn. If so, surely nobody would mind.

KATHARINE HEPBURN

Watching "The Rainmaker" one can't help but look at Burt Lancaster and think "always a bridesmaid." This capable actor played opposite Shirley Booth when she won the award for "Come Back Little Sheba" and again with Italy's Anna Magnani when she earned an Oscar. Could this be an omen for this year's race?

Fifty teenagers did some of the most pleasant work of their lives when they were hired as rock 'n' roll dancers for Allied Artists' "Dino." They said they really couldn't consider their several days of dancing work—but they accepted their salary cheques.

Operetta's Author Has Multiple Skills

A large cast will appear on stage at Oak Bay Junior High School, Friday and Saturday, March 29 and 30, when Madam Winifred Lugrin Fahey presents her colorful operetta, "The Spirit of the Nile," under auspices of Esquimalt Lions Club.

In addition there will be ballet episodes by students of the Florence Clough Academy.

The operetta is in three acts and several scenes. Aside from having written the lyrics and music, and trained all the singers, Madam Fahey is directing designing and building of the scenery and even lending a hand in the actual craftsmanship.

Stanley Martin, outstanding Victoria bass, heads the big line-up of principals, singing the part of King Rahmon.

Others will be George Farmer, William Fahey, Lincoln Paynter, Leona Hanley, Anne Wakelin, Anne McAndrew, William Metcalf, Anthony Maynard, Brian Jaundrew, Nora Kellie, Amy Walton, Kathleen Clarke, Rosina Lane, Malcolm Shanks, Hazel Stevens and Jacqueline Wright.

There will also be a chorus of slave girls, soldiers, Arabs and priests.

Charles Laughton has been signed to co-star with Marlene Dietrich and Tyrone Power in the screen version of "Witness for the Prosecution." Laughton, now on Broadway in "Major Barbara," will play the role created on the New York stage by the late Francis L. Sullivan. Filming is scheduled for the late spring in Hollywood, under the direction of Billy Wilder.

WORD EXCHANGE

All the missing 4-letter words in this puzzle poem have last three letters identical; only the first letter is different in each case. How quickly can you fill them in?

Pamela is no clinging ——
She does not sulk or ——
When pesty customers annoy her
Her courage never seems to falter,
Thus yesterday at half past ——,
A grouchy gent came in to ——
Who grumbled as some fault he sought,
In the —— meal Pamela brought:
"This fork has got a crooked ——,
I ordered tea, you brought me ——.
This menu is so full of grit
I cannot read a —— of it.
The manager I wish to see,
He'll hear a thing or two from me."
Pamela smiled and tossed her head,
In reply she calmly said:
"I cater only to mankind,
This place is —— and you will find
The exit's over that way."

Answer: Vine, pine, nine, dine, line, line, wine, line, mine.

SUGGESTION FOR A RAINY DAY

Emma McKean offers this suggestion for keeping youngsters amused on a rainy day. It's called "The Cake Game." Small fry devise the components themselves as follows:

First, place a saucer upside down on a piece of paper to draw a nice round "cake." Carefully cut out circle and fold it in half. Fold it in half again, and then a third time. Make another "cake" the same way—one for each child who is going to play.

If crayons are handy, color each cake a different hue. If not, choose a cake flavor — Chocolate, Vanilla, Orange, Lemon, etc., and indicate its initial in each segment of individual circles (see illustration at top).

Now carefully cut out each segment of each circle.

Place all of the pieces in a paper bag or deep box and shake.

To play: Children decide who is going to take chocolate cake, and who is going to take vanilla, or some other flavor, previously marked.

Vanilla cakemaker takes first turn by picking piece from bag. If letter V is on it, he sets it before him. If another letter, he returns it to the bag. Chocolate cakemaker takes turn, and so on.

The idea is to see who can fit all of the pieces of his cake together first. Each player should have the same number of turns.

What is more wonderful than a dog that can talk?

Answer: A spelling bee?

BRING THE KNIGHT TO HER RESCUE

Who says chivalry is dead? Behold the fair damsel in distress above. Somewhere in the irregular divisions of the background a gallant knight speeds to the rescue.

Starting with one of the lettered spaces and moving from one adjoining division to the next, spell out the name of the classic novel of the days of chivalry, Ivanhoe; continue to spell out by Sir Walter Scott. In so doing you will have completely surrounded a portion of the picture.

Fill in this enclosed portion with solid black and you will have a silhouette of the lady's champion.

How quickly can you bring the gallant knight to the lady's rescue?

THIS TAKES A TRANSFORMATION

It takes many steps to make a town into a city. However, TOWN can be transformed into CITY in no more than seven steps by the stepword method of changing one letter each step to leave a common word. The order of letters cannot be changed.

Example of the method: boy, bay, ban, man.

Remember, a good English word must be formed each step of the way.

Answer: One way is — Town, lowa, lots, more, mine, die, City.

IN SECRET CODE

Can you interpret this message written in secret code?

GSV IVKLIG RH XLIIVXG

Here's how to solve it:

Carefully letter the entire alphabet from A to Z. Then directly below it letter the alphabet from Z to A, making sure A is above Z, B above Y, etc. This is important for A becomes Z in this code, B becomes Y, and so on.

If you have written the alphabet both ways exactly according to directions, you will note that G is below T, S is below H, and V is below E. Therefore, GSV spells THE. Now what is the rest of the message?

Answer: The report is correct.

LETTER ENIGMA

Without my 1, 5, 7, I am a garment.

Without my 2, 4, 5, 7, I am a poet.

Without my 1, 4, 7, I am a character.

Without my 4, 5, I am a poetic preface.

Without my 5, 7, I am an inquiry.

With my 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, I am a difficult matter.

Solution: The key word is problem. The others, of course, being rose, Poe, role, poem, probe.

Claire Bloom Stars Sunday

English Girl Seen In 'First Love' at 9

'Music-Makers' Sub for Gleason; Lizzie Borden Trial Sunday at 9

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

The weekend in TV promises to be an excellent one.

Hockey fans will be wondering how the Cougars will fare when the team takes to the ice against Seattle tonight at 8 (Channel 13). Although the outcome of the game means little the last time the two teams met it ended in a donneybrook with the Americans trying to break into the Victoria dressing room. They have vowed to continue the feud once they get the locals into the Seattle corral.

Meanwhile, on Channels 11 and 12, singing stars Dick Haymes, Kathryn Grayson, Count Basie and Sara Vaughan sub for vacationing Jackie Gleason in an hour-long musical show called America's Music-Makers. If it is as good as the Kate Smith opus last week it will be well worth watching.

Another item of Saturday night interest is that George Gobel will have "wife" Jeff Donnell back on the show.

Sunday has its usual list of good shows plus a half-hour filmed tour of Africa by U.S. Vice - President Richard M. Nixon. The tour starts at 2 on Channels 11 and 12.

Undoubtedly the piece de resistance Sunday, however, will be the appearance of England's brilliant young actress, Claire Bloom. Fresh from her ravegathering foray in "Romeo and Juliet," Miss Bloom will star with James Daly and Lili Darvas in TV Playhouse's "First Love." Curtain rises at 9 on Channel 4.

Unfortunately another interesting feature, Omnibus's 90-minute version of "The Trial of Lizzie Borden," will compete against "First Love." According to legend Lizzie Borden killed her mother and father. But after her trial in 1892 she was acquitted. Katharine Bard and Robert Preston will star in the Channel 5 semi-documentary.

TONIGHT

7.00: Channels 2, 6: In the Radisson adventure, "Fear and Fireworks," the great 17th century Canadian and his brother-in-law Des Groseillers search for a sea they have heard about while traveling to Lake Winnipeg.

Channel 5: I Search for Adventure cameras take viewers along on a "Jungle Honeymoon," wherein a newspaperman and his bride hunt live animals and reptiles in the Mexico - Guatemala border jungles.

7.30: Channel 4: Art Linkletter's People Are Funny.

Channel 11: Alfred Hitchock presents John Williams and Charles Davis in "I Killed the Count." It's a case of Scotland Yard getting all fouled up with a surplus of clues.

8.00: Channels 2, 6: Perry Como hosts Ethel Merman and the Mills Brothers, also comic Jack Carter.

Channel 4: Perry's late show features singer Anna Maria Alberghetti, comedian Ed Wynn, Benny Goodman, $64,000 Question whiz kid Robert Strom and singer Andy Williams.

Channels 11, 12: Singers Dick Haymes, Kathryn Grayson, Sarah Vaughan and Count Basie and his orchestra sub for vacationing Jackie Gleason.

Channel 13: Hockey: Victoria Cougars play the Seattle Americans.

9.00: Channel 4: Big Emmy-winner Sid Caesar and his gang put on a commuters skit while Janet Blair gives out with such favorites as "I've Got You Under My Skin."

Channel 5: Lawrence Welk and his gang interpret all the tunes up for Oscars this Wednesday evening.

9.30: Channel 11: In the Hey, Jeannie comedy Jeannie Carson provides a baffled witness for a car crash case.

10.00: Channel 2: Betty Phillips and Ernie Prentice and their folksy Lolly Too Dum.

Channel 4: George Gobel brings TV "wife" Jeff Donnell back for the night.

Channels 11, 12: In the Gunsmoke western drama, Kitty, hostess of the Long Branch saloon, is suspected when a man who has been persistently wooing her is found dead.

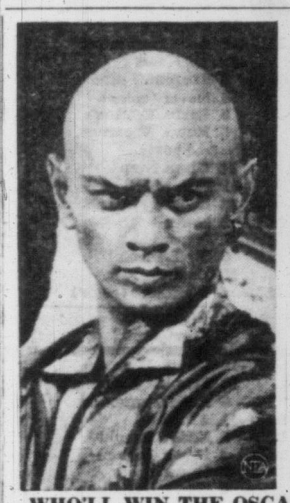
10.30: Channel 4: Gisele Mackenzie, Dorothy Collins and Your Hit Parade in an enactment of the top seven tunes of the week.

SUNDAY

11.30: Channels 11, 12: Novelist Lillian Smith and English author Stephen Potter appear on the Last World panel show.

1.00: Channels 11, 12: Odyssey presents Pierre Martin, French archelogist and the movie "Farrebique," which deals with life on a French farm.

2.00: Channels 11, 12: A filmed report covering the tour of Africa by U.S. Vice-president Richard M. Nixon.



WHO'LL WIN THE OSCARS? One of the most fascinating shows of the year is billed for Wednesday night at 7.30 when Channel 4 carries the 29th running of the Oscar sweepstakes. Yul Brynner and Ingrid Bergman are among the favorites in the widest-open Academy Award race in years. So you can follow the program with more interest the Times has listed in the week's review a complete list of candidates in the major categories. Channel 2 will also carry the Awards live, but from 8.15 to 9.15 only.

Then one day he notices that there is a new girl living next door, she is beautiful. Unfortunately the fair lady is not only older than he but is being pursued by an army of young men.

Channel 5: Omnibus presents a semi-documentary covering "The Trial of Lizzie Borden," who was accused of slaying her mama and papa.

Channel 11: Robert Cummings stars in GE Theatre's "Too Good With a Gun." A gunfighter tries to live down his past, then is forced into shooting a man in defence of a friend.

ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—One of the hottest items in show business is not a chesty glamour girl or handsome profile, but 14 youngsters who collect more fan letters than most grown-up stars.

These children are known even in a bar in Wooster, Mass., where the customers daily don little black hats with ears, face the TV set and sing, "M-I-C-K-E-Y-M-O-U-S-E . . ."

The Mouseketeers, stars of Walt Disney's daily ABC-TV show, "The Mickey Mouse Club," are so popular that even monthly rumors sweep the country that they have been demolished in a car crash, public alarms heretofore restricted to only one other beloved star, Bing Crosby.

Jerry Lewis uses their theme song as part of his nightclub act. Stars such as James Mason and Dorothy McGuire say their children plge to be on the show.

"I don't know why those accident reports get around. Shirley Temple used to be bothered by the same thing," said Bill Walsh, producer of the program, as he sat with director Sidney Miller on the Disney set where the 1957-58 series is being filmed.

Two little five-year-old Hawaiian girls who will be guest stars on the show were dancing a perfect hula on the rehearsal stage. Next door, veteran actor Jimmie Dodd, master-of-ceremonies, was filming a western scene with Mouseketeers Darlene, Sharon and Karen.

Outside the stage were two red trailers, Disney's version of the little red schoolhouse. There the Mousketeers, aged 8 to 15, go to school from 8.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. with four hours out for work.

Furthermore, all mothers are locked out.

"Mothers are absolutely not allowed on the set," Director Miller said firmly. "They are kept in the theatre lobby. They knit and read all day and are very congenial.

Academy Awards Set For 7.30 Wednesday Night on Channel 4

Air Crash Relived Monday at 9.30; Art Carney Charley's Aunt Thursday

There are some good shows promised for the forthcoming week but all pale in comparison to the excitement and froth usually engendered by Hollywood's 29th annual Motion Picture Academy Awards, billed for Wednesday night at 7.30, Channel 4.

As time goes by it becomes more and more obvious that moviedom's Oscar presentations far out-rank TV's Emmy award ceremonies. There is a pitch of excitement and glamor in moviedom's big night that is altogether lacking in the television affair. Comedian Jerry Lewis will emcee the Oscar show, just as he did last year, which should be a delight.

Perhaps the most fun in the Oscar ceremony comes from matching one's judgment against that of the experts. Who is the best actor, for instance? Yul Brynner (The King and I), the late James Dean (Giant) or Sir Laurence Olivier (Richard III)?

Vying for the coveted award among the ladies are Carroll Baker (Baby Doll), Ingrid Bergman (Anastasia), Katharine Hepburn (The Rainmaker), Nancy Kelly (The Bad Seed) and Deborah Kerr (The King and I).

Best pictures include "Around the World in 80 Days," "Friendly Persuasion," "Giant," "The King and I" and "The 10 Commandments."

Best supporting actor: Don Murray (Bus Stop), Anthony Perkins (Friendly Persuasion), Anthony Quinn (Last for Life), Mickey Rooney (The Bold and the Brave) and Robert Stack (Written on the Wind).

Best supporting actress: Mildred Dunnock (Baby Doll), Eileen Heckart (The Bad Seed), Mercedes McCambridge (Giant), Patty McCormack (The Bad Seed) and Dorothy Malone (Written on the Wind).

Best Director: Michael Anderson, William Wyler, George Stevens, Walter Lang and King Vidor. It is thought that the main competition here will be between Wyler for his "Friendly Persuasion"; George Stevens, "Giant"; and King Vidor for "War and Peace."

Best song: "Thee I Love," "Julie," "Written on the Wind," "True Love" and "Que Sera, Sera."

Although there are additional categories the Times thought it worthwhile publishing the above to aid the viewers in following and taking part in the program.

Channel 2 will pick up the Oscar program at 8.15 for an hour.

PROUD STUDENTS PLOT VIKINGS' COURSE

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

NIBBLES AND DRIBBLES

Perhaps I have a tin ear for optimism but it seems to me that the only way the Cougars are going to make sweet music in the playoffs is if Maestro Marcel Pelletier climbs up on the podium and beats off the New Westminster Royals with his baton.

The way I see it, this will have to be a solo. Ensemble work will not suffice.

A sprightly rhapsody at home these last eight games, the Cougars have been an ear-tweaking clinker on the road. Away from home they play nothing but dirges.

Unless they tear up their music and come up with a new arrangement, the Cougars will lose both games in New Westminster and whack the Royals in Victoria.

That's not a prediction; it's just a form chart.

Nothing but past history says the Cougars can't win in New Westminster. But the Cougars' own record is their worst enemy.

Still, it could be.

If Maestro Marcel gets worked up in one of his allegro moods, he could render the Royals down to a creeping andante and provide a jarring coda for Hal Laycoe's New Westminster club.

Stranger things have happened.

Little fellow named Joshua once blew a horn solo and a whole city fell down.

And isn't it true that the brightest story to hit these parts in many a turn is the Victoria College Vikings?

These are the kids we saw playing in midget tournaments a few years ago and now they are heading for Toronto for the Dominion junior basketball final.

Up at the college, the students are digging down deep. College students never have much extra scratch but the odd quarters, dimes and nickels are being pooled to keep up a steady stream of telegrams between the College and Vikings.

But let's hope that the Winnipeg hospitality doesn't hurt the Vikings. The kids today were scheduled to be the guests of a Winnipeg dairy and the high point of the tour was to be an ice cream eating contest between team members. Those who know are betting on Waldo Skillings by a quart.

Casey Stengel continues to hash up the English language in a manner that makes Desi Arnez sound like an honor graduate of the Golden Gavel Club.

For instance, Casey recently held forth on Yankee Bill Skowron as follows:

"Now you take Skowron which started as an infielder and plays the outfield two years and I found he may be better on first because he's too valuable a man not to find a spot for him with his bat. I remember he played the infield some in college and now that's all about him."

Any questions?

Bill Gadsby recently had a look at himself after 11 years of National Hockey League warfare and this is the injury chart the New York Ranger star came up with: Shoulder separation, left leg fractured twice and re-broken twice the same season; both big toes broken; thumb broken; nose broken eight times; 212 stitches taken on face and head and 25 more on other parts of the body.

But Gadsby says, "It's a good life . . . You get to meet fine people, you see the country and supposing you do get hurt. The club pays your medical bills and your salary, too."

NHL to Jell Final Issues

By KENNEDY WELLS, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The National Hockey League's 1956-57 season will be history after this weekend, but much rests on the outcome of the final five games.

Most important probably is the battle between Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins for second place and the $500 for each player that goes with it. Members of the third-place club get $300.

The two teams are tied and each one has one game left, but the Bruins are working under additional stress. They must win tonight against New York Rangers, but if Canadians win too, they will take second spot because of their better scoring record.

Besides second place, a bagful of personal awards and records will be decided.

HOWE HAS EDGE

Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings' right winger, holds top spot in the scoring race with 42 goals and 42 assists for 84 points. A point behind is Canadiens' Jean Beliveau and another point back comes Wings' left-winger Ted Lindsay.

The winner of this race will get $1,000 and the Art Ross Trophy; the runner-up collects $500.

The edge here must go to Howe and Lindsay since they have two games to play, while Beliveau must do all his scoring against Chicago Black Hawks tonight.

Red Wings play both their games against fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs. Lindsay, incidentally, is two assists away from Bert Olmstead's all-time record of 56 set last season.

Finally there is the goaltenders' battle between Wings' Glenn Hall and Montreal's Jacques Plante.

Here again the Detroit player would seem to have the edge. Hall has allowed two less goals than Plante this season, and while he has played one less game, his final two are against the low-scoring Maple Leafs, while Plante must face Chicago Black Hawks, who have showed surprising scoring muscle during the last half of the season.

The winner will get the Vezina Trophy and $1,000.

Cougars Nip Royals in Overtime

Victoria 5, Westminster 4

By DOUG PEDEN

If they had saved that one for next week, Memorial Arena might have been in the market for a new roof.

As it was, Friday night's Western Hockey League game will go down in the record books merely as a pleasantly-played 5-4 overtime victory for Victoria Cougars over New Westminster Royals that extended the Cats' home-ice winning streak through eight games.

The manner in which the Cougars clipped Hal Laycoe's Royals provided a spine-tingling final act to the "Shrine Night" program.

Playoff hockey being what it is, just imagine what the victory roar might do to the seams of that barrel roof if this script could be held over for another showing at the arena next Thursday, when the same two clubs tangle in the second game of their best-of-three western division semi-final.

Doug Macauley has scored midway in the third period to bring Cougars from behind and the teams are still tied at 3-3 heading into the final minute.

LAST MINUTE

Pete Durham carries the puck into the Victoria zone and feeds a pass to Denny Olson. The gangly forward stickhandles around two defenders and pushes the puck between Marcel Pelletier's skates at 19.03.

Royals are ahead, 4-3.

Cougars storm into Royals' end from the faceoff. Pelletier scrambles to the bench at 19.32 and is replaced by a sixth attacker. Cougars are still buzzing around Bentley but fans are heading for exits when Bruce Carmichael slides a six-footer into the net with two seconds remaining to force overtime.

Fans hurry back to seats.

Victoria misses three good chances and Pelletier, back in the nets, has a couple of scares before Lionel Heinrich starts a play that goes, by way of Doug Anderson and Don Chiupka, to Colin Kilburn.

The Victoria coach scores.

Cougars win, after six minutes of overtime.

That's how it ended up Friday, but they'll probably tear up the script before the playoff opens at New Westminster Tuesday.

SCHEDULE WINDUP

Both clubs round out their league schedule tonight, Cougars meeting Seattle Americans, who earned a bye into the final with their first-place finish, and the runner-up Royals hosting Vancouver Canucks.

Gordy Matheson, Vancouver junior who went to Melville Millionaires junior club after attending the Cougar training camp, took over a defence post for the injured Nelson Bulloch Friday and played so well he will miss tonight's game.

Matheson, who will lose his amateur status if he plays more than three professional games, impressed Kilburn in his first pro appearnace and will watch from the sidelines tonight. "We might want to use him against the Royals," said Kilburn.

Bentley is only one shutout away from Pelletier's league record of eight and Wayne Brown quickly snuffed his hopes of equalling the mark Friday when he beat the slim netminder at two minutes of the first period.

Brown, who also collected two assists, fired his 27th goal of the season, after rookie Alan Lloyd had evened the count, to make it 2-1 for Cougars at the end of the period.

Gordy Fashoway, with his 38th, and Olson scored the goals that gave Royals a 3-2, second-period lead.

LESTER PATRICK STORY

Cougars Win Stanley Cup

By ARCHIE WILLS

(Copyright, 1957, By The Victoria Daily Times)

(Seventh Instalment)

Lester was anxious to get back into Stanley Cup competition. He made his first move to fashion a winner with a master stroke in 1920 when he signed Frank Fredrickson, fresh from captaining the Winnipeg Falcons to victory in the Olympics. "Freddie" got $3,500 for his first season, the highest salary paid up to that time. He earned it, too.

Wills

Building a winner, however, takes time and Lester went through many periods of frustration. He even changed the name of his club. He thought Victoria no longer should be labelled "Aristocrats" and chose the name "Cougars," which still remains.

In 1924 the Seattle team had to be disbanded and Lester picked up Happy Holmes, Jack Walker, Frank Foyston and Gordon Fraser. This was all he needed.

By this time he had benched himself and confined his activities to coaching and managing the club. When the schedule ended Victoria were in third place and this always provides Lester with a sound argument for the value of the "playoffs," which the Patricks introduced.

Mighty Canadiens Struck Down

The mighty and colorful Canadiens were the eastern winners and came west to teach Lester's underestimated Cougars a lesson. But, what a surprise they got and what a thrill the fans here packed away in their memories.

It was the biggest sports event Victoria ever had, being the first and only time a world's series was staged in the Capital City.

Lester had scouted Canadiens and discovered that their three star forwards, Auriel Joliat, Howie Morenz and Billy Boucher, played 55 of the 60 minutes.

He built up two forward lines. The series became a shamble. Lester's two lines skated Canadiens into the ice and in the final, and deciding game, Victoria won 6-1.

The two forward lines were another of Lester's innovations and, changing them on the fly, added further zest to the increased tempo.

"Two forward lines made it like a relay race," says Lester. "The pace never let up. Today we have three forward lines which was a development from our experiment in 1925."

Naturally, Lester was pleased to hand Victoria the Stanley Cup and he went about getting his team in shape to retain it next year. When the Cougars were half way through the schedule two of their defence men were out of action. Lester had been skating in practice and decided he'd better get into the game.

'I know I was 42 but I figured, if I could conserve my old legs and use my noodle, I might get by although a lot of the players were half my age and pretty rugged," he recalls.

Get by he did. He single-handed won several games, including an important one against Vancouver in which he scored the only goal in overtime.

In Portland he deflected the puck off his leg into his own net and Hap Holmes, the goalie, was dejected.

"Never mind, Hap, I'll get that one back for you," consoled Lester.

Lester Denied Greatest Thrill

Victoria waltzed into the playoffs again, largely on the cagey stick of Lester. He saw visions of playing once more in a world's series.

But fate struck in the form of Bun Cook's hickory. Lester was breaking in on Saskatoon's net when Bun rapped him across his gloved right hand. Examination revealed that the thumb was broken.

Victoria knocked over Edmonton and Saskatoon in the playoffs and went to Montreal to play the millionaire Maroons in the world's series.

"We went on to win the Stanley Cup," says Lester. "Had it not been for the playoffs we wouldn't have had the chance. We would have been eliminated earlier. However, playoffs add interest and the fans get more kick out of the season, not knowing which clubs will win out. Just take this season in the Coast League. Victoria and Vancouver have given their fans plenty of excitement as to which of them would make the third place. We thought up the playoffs for that reason. To keep the issue in doubt as long as possible. We introduced the playoffs in 1919 and they have been adopted by many other sports since. Certainly, it means more money in gate receipts, but, we are professionals, and honestly admit that we are out to make money, if we can."

Victoria swept through the playoffs, eliminating both Calgary and Edmonton.

"It was a great disappointment for me not to be able to play in that series," comments Lester. "Just think, I would have been playing in my old backyard, before people I had been raised with. Just to have played in a world series at 42 would have been something. But it wasn't to be and maybe it was best that way. The Maroons were a very heavy and hard-bumping team and maybe I would have got something worse than a broken thumb. Anyway, I wish I could have had the chance to play just the same."

He probably was lucky he didn't play in that series. I remember the opening game as I was there to cover the series.

One of the players, Jocko Anderson, was doing a specialty of his, killing off a penalty, when he was heavily charged by Babe Seibert. Jocko's leg was broken.

That took the starch out of the Cougars and the series wound up in four games, Victoria winning the third.

Few knew it then, but that was the last game for Lester and his Cougars.

MONDAY: Lester moves to New York.

Seattle Goalie Injured

There were four victories in the Western Hockey League Friday night but the biggest news was made by a staggering loss.

The coast division champion Seattle Americans absorbed a painful jolt when they lost the services, for an indefinite time, of starry goal-tender Emil (The Cat) Francis.

Francis, former National Hockey League star, was put out of action when he suffered a shoulder dislocation. The injury occurred in Seattle's meaningless game with Vancouver Canucks and, if Francis is out for any length of time, may cost the Americans the coast division playoff championship.

The desperate Americans reached into the Vancouver crowd and plucked out 16-year-old Ken Noble, a Vancouver juvenile player who has played only three years of hockey.

Noble took over in the Amerks nets and stopped 30 shots, to ringing cheers from the Vancouver fans, as Canucks won the game, 9-7.

There was no indication this morning how seriously Francis was injured, how long he would be out or who would replace him if his injury is serious enough to shelve him.

On the prairies, veteran Tony Leswick scored the 200th goal of his pro career as Edmonton Flyers downed Calgary Stampeders, 4-1; and Brandon goalie Lucien Dechene was cut badly on the face as the Regals scored a 4-2 victory over Winnipeg.

Dechene caught a puck on the face in the third period and was replaced by Winnipeg's spare goalie, Julian Klimkiw.

Canadians Tumble In London Tourney

LONDON (CP) — It was a tough day for Canadian players —male and female—Friday in the all-England badminton tournament, the unofficial world championship.

Marjorie Shedd of Toronto was defeated in the singles Semifinals, 11-3, 11-5, by defending titleholder Margaret Varner of El Paso, Tex., who thus entered the finals against Judy Devlin of Baltimore.

Dave MacTaggart of Vancouver, Canadian singles champ, and Peter Ferguson of Woodstock, Ont., were defeated 15-11, 15-11 in the quarter-finals of the men's double by Joe Alston, Pasadena, Calif., and H. A. Heah, Malaya.

In men's singles competition, defending champion Eddie Choong of Malaya and unseeded Erland Kops of Denmark moved into the finals.

Kops defeated Finn Kobbero, also from Denmark, 11-15, 15-10, 15-13, while Choong defeated Alston 15-11, 9-15, 18-16.

Plans for Inter-City Loop Stewing

Victoria tenpin bowlers may be competing in a traveling league next season.

Interest shown in the B.C. zone finals at Gibson's Bowladrome and Strathcona Alleys last weekend has hatched plans to enter two Victoria squads in a proposed six-team loop, which would include two entries from Vancouver and one each from New Westminster and Nanaimo.

Spectators were packed in like sardines at Strathcona last Sunday night as Wally Iverson came from behind to capture the provincial crown with a 24-game total of 4,499.

Also sizzling on the fire is a proposal to stage a series of doubles matches between Victoria and Vancouver duos. It appears certain the doubles competitions will be started next winter and their fate will probably depend on fan attendance.

Final major tenpin competition of the season gets under way at Gibson's Sunday with the running of the team event in the 17th annual city handicap championships.

Viking Views

By ROBIN FARQUHAR

How about these Victoria College Vikings?

It has been said that a true champion is the one who can come from behind to win.

If this is the case, the Vikings are champions of the first order.

They came from behind in the Saskatoon series after losing the first game and went on to win the final two games and take the series.

They came from behind in the Winnipeg series—again after losing the first game to win the next three, each by a larger margin, and won the best-of-five series.

And they came from behind in the final game of the Winnipeg series. After being down four points at half time, they went on to win the series-winning game by 20 points, scoring 50 points in the second half.

Our hats are off to our very own Vikings—Western Canadian junior basketball champions.

And speaking of hats, we have received word that all the boys bought Stetsons in Alberta. At least the people in Toronto will know that they are Westerners.

Toronto—city of the subways, CNE, Maple Leafs, and the Canadian junior basketball finals. That's where the Vikings are heading for Sunday morning. They spent Friday and today recuperating in Winnipeg from the most rugged of all their series so far.

And from all reports, they can use a little recuperation.

Not only have they been having trouble sleeping at nights, but they also had a bit of a rough time from the Winnipeg Imperials.

In the third game of the series, Waldo Skillings was ridden into the bleachers by a Winnipeg player, and on the same night Ken McCulloch found himself on the receiving end of a Marciano-type right to the midsection.

Following the final game, Waldo phoned home and disclosed the fact that he was a "mass of bruises."

However, they received more than enough reward for their pains when they found themselves holding the western Canada title.

And now, all eyes are turned to Toronto and the Canadian finals. It will be a best-of-five-game series starting Tuesday night.

The other big team at the College, the rugby XV, has been somewhat eclipsed by the successful basketballers, but nevertheless they go on winning games and trophies.

On Thursday they waltzed over the spunky Oak Bay High School ruggers to the tune of 22-6.

Next weekend they will hop a plane over to Vancouver to tangle with one of the numerous UBC teams in an exhibition game.

★ ★ ★

The ping pong tournament was finally completed at the College last week, with Bill Matkin beating out Gordie Wilkie in the men's bracket, and Laurel Beale downing Dot Hunt for the women's title.

★ ★ ★

Sunday the College golf tournament will be held at Gorge Vale starting at 1.30. Topping the list of 20 entrants are Mike Kolb and Doug Monroe.

★ ★ ★

And, finally, next Friday night will be the annual College awards banquet and dance.

At 6.30 the collegians will sit down to a big spread of edibles, following which the athletic and activity awards will be presented. After this the dance will go on until 1 a.m.

WINS LEGION RACE

Fraser Caps Prep Career

Ian Fraser capped a brilliant high school cross-country running career Friday at Victoria High School.

The slim runner loped across the finish line of the annual Canadian Legion 5.2-mile road race with a clean one-eighth of a mile lead over his nearest competitor in 26 minutes 17 seconds to win the event for the third time in three years.

It was his last distance race under the tutelage of Gordon Hartley, his coach of three years of running for Vic High.

Fraser's time, three seconds slower than his 1956 clocking in the same event, was established over a course that was one-quarter of a mile longer than last year's route.

In second spot was Lawrence Valiant, also of Vic High, with a time of 27.03—but he had to battle for his position.

Starting out strongly, Valiant pressed Fraser until the mid-point of the race, when the winner lengthened his stride and pulled away from all pursuers.

NAVY THREAT

Meanwhile, Joe Johnstone of Navy, the victim of a poor start, had been moving through the ranks of runners. He reached, and passed, the second-place finisher just as Fraser was shaking off all challengers.

Valiant then stepped up his pace to gain his runner-up position in the field of 22 runners. Johnstone's third-place time was 27.36.

In fourth spot was Ed Pomeroy of Vic High, who was followed by teammates Peter Jubb, Monty Vanden, Bill Williams and Bruce Simpson before John Gilliland of Victoria College captured ninth place.

Also competing were runners from Esquimalt and Langley High Schools.

Complete list of runners, with times, follows:

1. Ian Fraser, (Vic High) 26.17; 2. Lawrence Valiant (Vic High) 27.03; 3. Joe Johnstone (Navy) 27.36; 4. Ed Pomeroy (Vic High) 28.36; 5. Peter Jubb (Vic High) 28.45; 6. Monty Vanden (Vic High) 28.03; 7. Bill Williams (Vic High) 29.09; 8. Bruce Simpson (Vic High) 29.25; 9. John Gilliland (Vic College) 29.36; 10. Wager (Navy) 29.40; 11. Walton (Navy) 29.58; 12. Dave Shaw (Esquimalt) 30.06; 13. Norman Hamilton (Vic High) 30.40; 14. Terry Jones (Esquimalt) 30.50; 15. Andrew Black (Langley) 31.02; 16. Dan Langert (Langley) 32.14; 17. Gilbert Bussiere (Langley) 32.25; 18. Peter Roche (Vic High) 32.52; 19. Bill Johnson (Langley) 32.55; 20. Bill Hamilton (Vic High); 21. Bill Arkinstall (Langley); 22. Roy Ford (Vic High).

Tinling Bests Harper In Low-Scoring Duel

Toppling of the last unbeaten rink, Fred Tinling's win over Harvey Hodge, and another upset by Webster vied for elbow room under the spotlight as play in the fifth annual men's bonspiel at Victoria Curling Club headed into the final stretch Friday night.

Getting the most attention from the packed gallery was Tinling's battle of strategy with Glen Harper, skipping Hodge's Duncan quartet. The veteran Brier curler squeezed out a 3-2 victory in what may be the lowest score ever registered in a B.C. bonspiel.

Tinling was ahead, 2-1 after the fourth end, hitting singles on the second and fourth ends while Harper was counting on the third.

The fifth, sixth and seventh ends were blanked as the skips jockeyed to get the last rocks on even ends. Harper counted on the eighth to tie it up at 2-2 and Tinling fired through an empty house on the ninth to keep the last rock for the final end.

He needed another great shot to pull out the victory, drawing around a guard rock to the inner ring on his last toss to get the winning point.

Harry Spottiswood of Port Alberni, jumping into an 8-1 lead, knocked the Ed Valleau rink, skipped by Tony Folk, out of the unbeaten ranks with a 9-6 win over the Duncan foursome, leaving only Charlie Hodgson and Harold Hole of Victoria the only rinks still alive in two events.

Webster continued his string of upsets as he tripped Alf Milham's Vancouver rink, skipped by veteran Art Gooder, in an afternoon game, coming through with a difficult raise on his last rock to grab an 8-7 victory.

Most finals in the bonspiel are expected to be played tonight at 7.

AUSSIE LINCOLN BREAKS FOUR-MINUTE BARRIER

MELBOURNE (AP)—Mervyn Lincoln today became the second Australian to break the four-minute-mile barrier on home soil when he covered the distance in 3.58.9 in a special track meet.

He followed in the footsteps of John Landy who ran the mile in 3.58.6 Jan. 28, 1956, and matched that time in a special race April 7 the same year. Landy holds the world record of 3.58 set at Turku, Finland, in 1954.

Lincoln won today's race by more than 100 yards. He ran the quarter-mile in 59 seconds, the half-mile in 2.00.3 and the three-quarter in 3.00.

His official time was given as 3.58.9, but under international rules it will be recognized as 3.59.0.

JUST WANTS IMPROVEMENT

Names Don't Bother Lou

By The Associated Press

Kansas City manager Lou Boudreau isn't bothered by the tag his club carries:

"The Yanks' American League farm team."

The Athletics have no fewer than a dozen players who at one time or another were under contract to the New Yorkers.

"I don't care what they call us so long as we improve," the handsome pilot said after Friday's Yanks-KC game at West Palm Beach, Fla. "In fact, it wouldn't hurt us if some of the Yanks' class rubbed off on us. It's better than being a last-place team."

Boudreau's operatives had just been licked 3-0 by the Bombers, but just the same he said he thought the Athletics were going to improve because of their hitting. He also is high on Milt Graff, who hit .314 for Birmingham last year and came to Kansas City as a throw-in in the big mid-winter deal.

No matter how you look at it, the Athletics appear to be all the Yanks need. Off-season it's trading. In-season, it's playing. Until Friday the world champions had lost two in a row and had looked forlorn in both outings.

But Tom Sturdivant and rookie Jim Depalo combined to whitewash the Athletics on four hits. For Sturdivant, this was his third time on the mound. In a total of 14 innings, he has given up just eight hits and no runs.

Elsewhere the Cincinnati Redlegs whipped Detroit Tigers 2-1; Milwaukee Braves edged Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in 10 innings; Philadelphia Phillies licked St. Louis Cardinals, also 4-3; Chicago Cubs had to go 11 innings to beat Baltimore Orioles 5-2; New York Giants defeated Cleveland Indians 8-4; Washington whipped Brooklyn Dodgers 7-2 with Camilo Pascual going the route for the Senators, and San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League vanquished Boston Red Sox 5-2.

Chess Table Etiquette Explained

Have you been worried about your deportment at the chess table?

If so, your worries are over. The Chess Federation of Canada has just published a handbook, "Chess in Canada," which Lou Kellie of Victoria, in charge of its publication, calls the "Emily Post of Chess."

Kellie, recently appointed to the board of governors of the federation, has included laws governing the game, rules for all types of competitions, methods to be used in group play and the CFC system of rating players striving for the titles of "expert" or "master," in the handbook.

Continuing its program to encourage chess among schools and youth organizations, the CFC will assist in staging the world junior championship tournament at Toronto, Aug. 3-18, and will hold the first Canadian junior championship tourney at Quebec City in July.

The Canadian closed chess championships are scheduled for Vancouver early this fall.

Hidden-Hole Contest

Mrs. H. G. MacKenzie recorded a net score of 26½ to win the silver division of a women's hidden-hole competition at Colwood Golf Club Thursday.

Mrs. A. E. Bayliss took bronze division honors with a net 25 and Mrs. W. L. Burt topped "C" division with a net 24.

Costa, Heem Run Too Much--- Miguel Weens for the Keeds

NEW YORK (UP) — Little Miguel Berrios, brand new American featherweight champion and semi-finalist in the tourney for the vacant world crown, said today, "I must ween the beeg title for my four keeds."

Stocky, broad-shouldered Miguel—a V-shaped Puerto Rican terrier — attained his new promience by chasing Brooklyn's speedy Carmelo Costa about Madison Square Garden's ring Friday night and flooring him once while en route to a single-point, 12-round, split decision.

Each weighed 125 pounds, just one under the feather limit. Miguel was favored at 8-5.

Victory in the nationally-televised and broadcast fight, which drew 4,204 cash customers and $12,061, earned 24-year-old Berrios the right to meet Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria, Africa, in the semi-final 12-rounder at Washington, D.C., April 26.

Later the Washington winner will fight Cherif Hamia of France, European champion, for the world title left vacant by Sandy Saddler's recent retirement. Hamia, Bassey, Berrios and Costa were ranked in that order as top contenders when the four-man tourney was arranged.

Puerto Rico-born Miguel, who has lived in New York five years, is the father of three sons and one daughter.

"I must ween for the keeds," he said. "I was poor boy in Puerto Rico—never had much. I want'a geeve those keeds all the theengs I never had. When I ween worl' title I kin do eet."

Miguel was surprised at last night's split decision. "I thought I ween beeg," he said. "Costa, heem run too much all night."

A United Press poll of 11 ringside writers favored Berrios, 11-7.

But Costa was yelling today, "I thought I won easy. But they just won't give me a decision in my home town."

It was an interesting fight, but hard to score at times because of the contrasting styles and tactics. The three ring officials were in agreement upon only four rounds—the second and 10th for Berrios and the fourth and fifth for Costa.

Up-Islanders Threaten City Golf Domination

Victoria golfers have dominated the seven previous Daily Times Vancouver Island Match Play Open golf tournaments, but they may have a struggle to extend their streak of successes this year.

Leading a three-man contingent from Courtenay for the qualifying round of the Open at Gorge Vale March 31, is Eph Robinson, two-time winner of the Gorge Vale crown, who is playing to a three handicap.

Also in the Courtenay trio are Wally Herman and Don Barton.

R. E. Evans is the only golfer entered from the Cowichan Golf and Country Club to date but steady Gordon Whan and Clayton Wright, perennial threats from the Duncan club, are expected to be in the fold before entries close March 28.

Match play will start after the 18-hole qualifying round, beginning at Uplands April 7, and continuing at Victoria Golf Club, Colwood and Gorge, in order, on successive weekends. Finals are slated for Uplands May 5.

The starting field will be limited to the first 120 divoters to submit entries.

Entry forms, which follows, must be mailed with entry fee to Lee Derman at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

TORONTO (CP) — National Golf Day will be held in Canada Saturday, June 1, with Marlene Stewart and Al Balding playing against the weekend golfers.

Miss Stewart, from Fonthill, Ont., won the American amateur in 1956, and Balding, Toronto pro, has been playing the winter circuit for more than three years. They will play at Toronto St. George's Club.

Golfers competing against Miss Stewart and Balding donate $1 for the development of juniors in Canada.

Leaf's Smith Ends Brief 'Retirement'

TORONTO (BUP) — Left-winger Sid Smith, 31, today was back from a planned retirement from the National Hockey League which he never even started.

Smith, an all-star forward with the Toronto Maple Leafs two seasons ago, announced earlier this week he would play his last NHL game when the Leafs meet the Red Wings at Detroit Sunday.

Yesterday, however, he signed a contract for next season. The terms were not disclosed but Smith was wreathed in a big smile when he came out of general manager Conn Smythe's office.

"I'm certainly very pleased with the contract," Smith said. "It was a pleasant surprise."

Smith has been with the Leafs for the past eight seasons. So far this season he has scored 17 goals, compared with the dismal four counters to his name last season.

Button Matches At Gorge Sunday

Vic Painter and Bill McColl of Colwood will make their first defence of the city open golf buttons at Gorge Vale Golf Club Sunday when they face the challenge of the Uplands pair of Bob Morrison and Frank Scroggs.

Cliff Horwood and Jack Walker of Victoria Golf Club will also be making a first button defence when they meet Gorge Vale's Norm Boden and Ted Bradshaw in a junior match.

The senior tee off at 1 p.m. with the juniors starting 15 minutes later.

SCHOOLS DRAMA FESTIVAL

Juniors Chosen For Honor Show

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Nominated for the first time to an honor performance of a Greater Victoria Schools' Drama Festival, students of Mount Douglas High School and James Bay Elementary were "thrilled to the eyebrows" Friday night with adjudicator Mrs. Dorothy Goldrick's choice of their respective entries, "Make Room for Rodney," a comedy, and "Make Him Smile," a fantasy.

Announcement came at conclusion of Friday night's session at Oak Bay Junior High School. Act I of "The Cradle Song," Oak Bay Senior High's entry, directed by Miss K. B. Youdall, will complete the program of three plays tonight at Victoria High School.

Miss Mary Miller's Grade III-size actors will create a delightful contrast to the quite mature casts of the two high school plays. Director of the family comedy, "Make Room for Rodney," is Alan E. Jones.

The difficult choice of three honor plays was made from a list of seven out of the total entry of 29. Others named as possible selections were University School's "Julius Caesar" and "In the Zone"; S. J. Willis Junior High's "Pinocchio" and George Jay's "Guki, the Moon Boy."

Senior high schools took the stage Friday night, with three light comedies.

Good Diction Noticeable

"Roughly Speaking," by Emmett Smiley. Presented by Victoria High School.

Sherry Fenton	Wendy Love
Andy Fenton	Barry Stovel
Mrs. Ella Fenton	Pat Cromie
Mrs. Harrison	Marilyn Young
Mr. Henry Fenton	Bob Smith
Elmer Gorsuch	Charlie Luxton
Larrabie Chatworth	Roger Steed
Fay Fenton	Pat Horne
James Fenton	Ian Norje
Margie	Colleen MacGillycuddy
Uncle Ford Fenton	Tom Hosie

Director: T. W. Mayne.
Stage Manager: Paul Butterworth.

Characters in this amusing comedy were taken well, Mrs. Goldrick considered. All voices were clear and diction good. She felt that, at the denoeument, there might have been a more general stirring of excitement. Interpretation had been satisfactory and teamwork was good, she commented.

"Make Room for Rodney," by Marion Holbrook. Presented by Mt. Douglas High.

Rodney Lodge	Jerry Booth
Katie	Arla Smalley
Phyllis Lodge	Judy Worthington
Mr. Lodge	Tom Rogers
Mrs. Lodge	Edna Sudlow
Josephine	Margot Tomlin
Lyman Cunningham	Sandy Pogson
Bill Thompson	Trevar Gibson

Director: Alan E. Jones.
Stage Manager: Tom Rogers.

This was a finished performance, Mrs. Goldrick considered. Cues were picked up smartly; voices were good and characterizations extremely well done, she commended, adding that she had liked the way the actors used all parts of the large stage in their movements. She particularly praised Jerry Booth for his musicianship.

Period Sets Complimented

"Finders Keepers," by George Kelly. Presented by Oak Bay Senior High School.

Mrs. Aldrid	Diane Beale
Eugene Aldrid	John Anderson
Mrs. Hampton	Diana Livesey

Directors: Miss K. B. Youdall.
Stage Manager: Michael Rankin.

The adjudicator liked the clever idea of using screens to indicate the character of a turn-of-the-century drawing room. She considered the use of the period set and costumes was a considerable help to play and actors.

She thought the cast of three excellent, praticularly Diane Beale in the timing of her speech and movement, and Diana Livesey, who had shown "just the right amount of distress."

Friday afternoon session was held at George Jay Elementary School.

"Let's Pretend," by H. H. Hall. Presented by Gordon Head Elementary School.

Psyche	Raye Collins
Denny	Harold Sutton
Bully Bill	Terry Gains
Tom Toady	Bobby Baldwin
Mr. Riddler	Brian Painter
Miss Method	Judy McMahon
Nana	Norma Valiant
Mrs. Randall	Sharon Rosson
Mr. Randell	Frank Basham
Guiseppe	Billy Burkholder
Jacko	Tom Hopkins
Ilonka	Ann Hammond
Tim Burns	David Gill
The Quail Family	Tony Cosier, Elaine Valiant, Anita Bissenden.
The Flowers	Jean Ritz, Jean Young, Angela Gibb, Anne Warburton, Dale Okano, Brenda Hatch.

Director: H. H. Hall.

This was a rather confusing play and altogether too strong meat for the children, Mrs. Goldrick felt. She advised that the young actors should learn to speak to each other and not out to the audience; also that they must pretend to be the people in the play.

Voices had been too light to carry well, she found. Raye Collins was praised for the clear quality of her voice; Brian Painter for making a really good exit, and Tom Hopkins for his delightful representation of a monkey.

"The King's Creampuffs," by Martha Swintz. Presented by Brentwood Elementary.

King	Roddy MacDonald
Queen	Nancy Tidman
Algernon	Jacqueline Rice
Princess	Wendy Brown
Page	Peter Gardner
First Witch	Esther Koppel
Second Witch	Peggy Forsberg
Herald	Michael Woods
Baker	Henry Baade
Ladies-in-Waiting	Maureen Crampton, Alice Cameron, Pamela Lowtes.

Director: E. W. Hatch.
Stage Managers: Alan Shiner and John Keel.

This was a light, gay, jolly type of play which she had enjoyed seeing the children do, said Mrs. Goldrick. All voices were good and cues picked up well. Teamwork and climax were well done, she considered and there had been good reactions from the attendants. Particularly commended was an excellent scene between the two witches.

"Guki, The Moon Boy," by Beulah Folisbee. Presented by George Jay Elementary.

Anton Antinov	Adrian Andrew
Guki, the Moon Boy	Darryl Stokes
Vaska Nikolv	Valerie Cool
Leo Nikolv	Barry Whitelaw
Peter	Tommy Beesley
Nicola	June Smythe
Alexis	Shiela Duggan
Beam	David Squires

In warmly praising this entry, the adjudicator termed it "a fascinating play, very well done." All movements was good and there was some nice grouping, she considered. There had been a particularly good transition, Mrs. Goldrick noted, and really fine use of light and shade throughout.

Darryl Stokes in the title role had been most expressive, she felt. Adrian Andrew was commended for his sustained and realistic portrayal of an old man.

Pensioners

WEST COAST ADVOCATE —During the present controversy over old age pensions, one particular aspect has not received the attention it deserves, and that is the fact that pensioners lose their right to pension payments if they establish residence anywhere outside Canada.

They have earned their place by the fire, they have established their claim to being Canadians and should not be required to give further proof of their affection for their homeland.

The United States has obviously recognized this fact and pays pensions anywhere on the globe.

But our own older citizens, who perhaps wish to spend the twilight of their lives with relatives in the old country, or who for reasons of health —and economy!—would like to live in Mexico or Jamaica, cannot do so without forfeiting their pensions.

No increase in expenditures or taxes is connected with the abolition of this arbitrary limitation, and we can see no reason why the government should not take the appropriate steps immediately.

Festivals

PARKSVILLE-QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS — Eleventh annual Drama Festival, opening next Tuesday night at Errington, offers residents of this district still another insight into the frailties of human nature—or, as William Saroyan puts it, the whole human comedy.

By sponsoring this annual series of plays, Errington dramatists and the community program branch of the Department of Education take us into the land of make-believe.

Those who attend the festival next week will leave with a broader viewpoint . . . with a greater recognition of the fact that it takes all kinds to make a world, even in the land of make-believe.

In short, drama festivals present an entertainment and enlightenment package deal which has few rivals.

Take a Bow

SIDNEY REVIEW — Athletic achievement by a co-ordinated group is usually commendable, despite the very-obvious fact that some group must win every contest.

Brentwood Community Club has held a place close to the top or at the top in various Island and provincial sports contests. The players themselves are to be highly commended, but beyond this commendation lies an even more significant factor.

To come to success in a regular pattern over the years means that the teams, which inevitably change with age groups among juvenile participants, are provided with exceptional training.

The teams and trainers can take a bow for a very gratifying performance culminating in the winning of the Island championship by the juvenile girls' basketball team.

Forest Product 'Safety Week' Set for May 6

The B.C. government has proclaimed the week beginning May 6 as "Forest Products Safety Week," Premier Bennett announced Friday.

Last year's week-long campaign resulted in a large reduction of accidents in the forest products industry, he said, "and it is vital that the 1957 campaign should be an even greater success."

Mr. Bennett said the success of safety week depends on teamwork.

"Labor and management leaders, press, radio and TV can do much in educating workmen to follow safe working practices. Forest products workers must be helped to develop the maximum safety consciousness, for success or failure of the campaign will hinge largely on the workman himself."

The premier said he would call on everyone engaged in the forest products industry to support the efforts of their safety committees during safety week and throughout the year.

"We want everyone to join in the war against accidents," he declared.

Brentwood Boatyard Plans Sidney Move

BRENTWOOD—Firm of Clark Bros. Boat Works is considering closing its plant on Beach Drive at the foot of Marchants Road and moving to Shoal Harbor, near Sidney.

Henry Clark, a partner, stated the date of transfer is still indefinite. Stanley Clark, other partner in the firm, has built a home at Shoal Harbor, and it is understood the property will be developed as an industrial site.

In the 20 years the firm operated here it built both pleasure and commercial fishing craft, and during the Second World War turned out a fleet of freighter lifeboats especially designed for use in areas under submarine attack.

The firm hopes to sell the Brentwood plant as a "going concern" serving sport fishing interests.

Sooke Considered As Refugee Area For 18,000

SOOKE — Civil defence officer, Capt. P. W. deP. Taylor, addressed members of the first aid class at the final session of the nine-week course in the Sooke Elementary School this week.

Capt. Taylor appealed for more sector wardens and cooks for emergency feeding.

He said: "We in this area might have to house and feed 5,000 to 18,000 people should disaster come to Victoria; it would not be a happy 'All Sooke Day'.

Examinations for those completing the course will be conducted by the St. John Ambulance Society in the Sooke Elementary School next Wednesday.

ONE REBEL

Jaycee Club In Uproar Over Shirts

NANAIMO — Junior Chamber of Commerce "uniform" here will from now on consist of a blue shirt with yellow trimmings.

Most of the 30 Jaycees agreed on this at a recent meeting but one did not and will, instead, wear a bowler hat.

Before members decided on the shirt colors, a committee chairman twice resigned and was reinstated and the selection of shirt colors became a temporarily turbulent affair.

A suggestion of wearing yellow shirts was discarded as they "would probably frighten the children."

IWA Protests Martin Policy On Hospital

DUNCAN — A letter protesting the "arbitrary decision" of Health Minister Eric Martin regarding hospital construction for this area has been forwarded the minister by the International Woodworkers of America, Local 1-80.

Mr. Martin has said a hospital must be built at Duncan to replace the old King's Daughter's Hospital, before Lake Cowichan can expect to go ahead with its hospital project.

Residents of Lake Cowichan have donated about $70,000 towards a new hospital, in the hope the government would sanction the building.

The IWA took the minister to task for ". . . deciding in your office, without consulting the people involved."

Government policy is to refuse to sanction small scattered hospitals, preferring larger hospital which could be more adequately equipped.

Nanaimo Jaycees Advocate 'Holiday' Plan for Island

NANAIMO — The Junior Chamber of Commerce is to prepare a brief advocating long-term development of Newcastle Island as "Holiday Island."

The Jaycees' promotion director, Laurie Patten, in urging preparation of the brief for Mayor Pete Maffeo, said "There is Nanaimo's new industry—and it can be a big one."

He said the island development should include tenting and trailer space and cabins at the south end, with an amusement park near the small lake on the island.

J. R. Dudley, executive manager of the Nanaimo Chambe of Commerce, said a 20 per cen increase in tourists to the Var couver Island city is expecte this year. He said 53,000 tour ists visited the chamber's tour ist bureau last year.

ICE CREAM MACHINES AND AUTOMATIC WASHERS, TOO!

Life in Navy's Newest Submarine Hunter Eye-Opener to Matelots of Former Skeena

Final acceptance trials for the new destroyer escort Skeena took place off Vancouver Friday. One of press party aboard was Times City Hall reporter Pete Loudon who made wartime cruise in original Skeena. Three of the crew of the old ship are serving in the new. Here are Loudon's impressions of Skeena's rebirth:

By PETE LOUDON

We used a toilet plunger and a bucket for our "dhobey," now they have automatic washers.

We had a record player and now they have television, hi-fi and a piano in the messdeck.

The reincarnation of HMCS Skeena, witnessed on a shakedown cruise Friday, couldn't have startled me more if the gunner's mate had served tea at high noon in the seamen's mess.

They go to sea now with special sea dutymen closed up on a breech-loading ice cream machine.

Where we used to de-spot our blues with fluids filched from fire extinguishers, now they have a dry-cleaning unit—complete with steam press.

They've got bunks mattressed with foam rubber—each one with a reading lamp.

Once we slept on the deck in the old Skeena when there was no room left to sling another hammock. Sea water, leaking into the messes, sloshed around us. We were as wet when we went on watch as when we came off.

It's a Far Cry

The Skeena that's bringing the name back to Esquimalt is a far cry frm the Skeena that back-boned the west coast fleet from 1931 to 1939, or prowled the wartime Atlantic . . .

There were 10 of us, very ordinary seamen, in HMCS Assinboine. We got a "jetty-jump to Skeena, a loan draft for one trip, while the "Bones" was being patched.

It was August, 1942—a black time in the North Atlantic. We were in a blue funk. If Skeena didn't return from convoy duty in time, Assiniboine would sail to Canada, for refit and leave and we would be stuck for more months of escort.

But despite the discomforts of a cramped ship, the leaky ventlators, a night "flap" with star shells and depth charges, Skeena proved to be a "happy ship." That is the proudest title a ship can win. It's awarded by her severest critics—the men who sail in her.

She had a novel trick at the start that braced even the "scaredest" among us. She cleared harbor with Col. Bogey's march booming from her loud hailer, echoing back from the craggy rock gates of St. John's, Nfld.

Her grub was good. Her crew was tops. And her captain made a game of drills that would be tiresome on lesser ships.

In between the real actions, they'd pipe, "A, B and X guns' crews throw all torpedoemen down the lower messdeck" or "repel boarders" and with half the crew playing enemy and dropping from the rigging, there were battles Nelson would have cheered.

We left the convoy with the British at 30 West and came home in company with Saguenay. The 10 of us were drafted back to Assiniboine and Skeena went on with her war.

Her record shows she rescued over 300 men from the sea. She fought wolf packs that sent 16 of her merchantmen charges to the bottom in one engagement. She shared in sinking four subs, three flak ships, three armed trawlers.

Deserves the Best

Her battle honors were Atlantic 1939-44, Normandy 1944, and Biscay 1944. Twelve of her captains rose to flag rank.

She died in a gale on the rocks of Iceland in October, 1944, and 15 of her men rest there yet.

Now born again, she emerges as a $24,000,000 Buck Rogers fantasy, twice as big and with a Sunday punch that makes her one of the world's foremost potential sub-smashers.

And if her men mostly will stand their watches below decks, her officers direct her course from a bridge sealed from the weather, if they eat ice cream at sea, relax with TV and hi-fi, these privileges have been earned for them.

They go with the battle honors.

HERE'S LOUDON, 15 years ago aboard old Skeena, doing his wash as Nelson may have done it with a bucket of "hotters" and a plumber's friend.

Storage Firm Buys Former Roller Rink

Central Cartage Planning $500,000 Warehouse Trade

A $500,000 furniture storage and truck freight business will be established in the old Douglas Street Roller Skating Gardens, it was announced today.

The old roller rink, closed a month ago due to lack of business, has been purchased by Hill the Mover, a nation-wide firm, and will be operated by its Victoria subsidiary, Central Cartage Ltd.

Central Cartage president, J. C. Stinson, who announced the expansion plan, explained a merger with the national firm took place last December.

He said the firm has bought from various owners a complete city block, bounded on the north by a Home service station and on the south by Page the Cleaner. R. W. Page was former owner of the roller rink.

Mr. Stinson said trucks bearing the name of the parent company and the subsidiary will both work from the new warehouse.

The local freight branch will eventually be known as Canadian Motorways, the freight division of the organization. The furniture division will bear the name of Hill the Mover.

Plant to Cover Whole Block

Plans for renovations of the present building are now being studied. The roller rink will be extended to provide garage facilities and if warranted, the plant will be expanded in the future to cover the rest of the block.

"The new storage facilities will rank with the most modern in Canada," said Mr. Stinson.

He added that the investment involved in the extended services represents well over $500,000.

The firm in Victoria, still operating under the Central Cartage sign from a warehouse at 535 Yates, now operates about some 30 vehicles. The equipment was recently expanded by purchase of three tractor-trailer units and four more such units have been ordered.

At the same time, the branch will become a loading and clearing point for any of the 3,500 other company vehicles based in other parts of Canada. About 40 persons are employed by the organization here.

Opening of the new premises will in effect make Hill the Mover a coast-to-coast operation.

It was reported the closure of Douglas Roller Skating Gardens does not mean the end of roller skating commercially in Victoria.

A Vancouver businessman plans to re-establish the roller drome which operated in past years at Victoria ballroom.

MONTE ROBERTS

Some newspapermen are in the habit of keeping scrapbooks, in which are pasted the by-line stores of which they—the newspapermen—were reasonably proud at the moment of writing.

We have one such newspaperman on the staff of the Times. He is a man of many years experience in the writing business, and the other day he started leafing through his scrapbook.

Here are some of the statements he discovered he had written:

"There are several thousand people in this area I have not had the privilege of meeting."

"A pig could actually be said to have discovered New Brunswick's longest cave."

"Defence packaging in Canada has at last had its wraps removed."

"Chances are your milkman knows you better than you know him."

"There is a present dearth of first class Canadian zoologists."

"The year was only five days old when a tiny, frozen body of a boy came tumbling out of a bin of coal and landed at the feet of a workman."

"If your toothbrush has been around long enough to consider it an old family friend, give it the brush-off."

"Jenny trudged up the creaking stairs to the choir loft."

"Civilization has reached a pretty peak when Indians buy their canoes from the factory."

"Excuth me, but I'ff loht my teeth on t' train."

"No bird looks quite so natural when stuffed as an owl, as it's a stuffy bird anyway."

"Packaging breaks down into five groups: ream, skid, bundles, case and roll."

"Head of the Ukrainian Church has condemned absorption of the Uniate Church of the Western Ukraine by the Russian Orthodox."

"Here, Mrs. George Blackmore, the former Lena Miller, has been practicing her embalming profession since 1936."

There was more, much more, in the veteran newspaperman's scrapbook.

But the above is enough to make you understand why he has stopped keeping scrapbooks.

In fact, it's a wonder he doesn't try to get into some other line of work.

Esquimalt Man Badly Hurt In Car Crash

Condition Poor Says Hospital

One man is in poor condition and a second in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital, where both were taken late Friday with back injuries suffered in an auto smash on Sooke Road.

The seriously injured man was identified as Peter Hallas, 19, 625 Lampson, who is believed to have been driving.

Both were rushed to hospital in Langford ambulance, summoned by Colwood RCMP.

Their car, of which they were sole occupants, apparently missed a curve and stop sign on Metchosin Road at the intersection of Sooke Road about 10.20 p.m.

It had been traveling east on Metchosin Road and continued into the front yard of a house across the road before coming to rest.

Newsboy Warns Car Owners Garage Afire

A passing paper boy awoke occupants of a house at 2805 Cook about 4.50 a.m. today to tell them their two-car garage was afire.

A 1954 Pontiac was extensively damaged in the blaze. It is owned by Sam Pasacreta, upstairs occupant of the Cook Street house owned by Eric Naslund, who aosl kept his auto in the garage.

Mr. Naslund's car, a 1947 Plymouth, was moderately damaged, firemen said.

There was no known reason for the fire, which did little damage to the garage.

SLEEP COSTS TIGHT DRIVER TIGHT MONEY

"Tight money" policy is felt at every level, including traffic court.

Michael Stanley Lenko, Sidney, was fined $250 in city police court today after pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving about 2.15 a.m. His licence was suspended.

Magistrate H. C. Hall asked:

"Do you wish time to pay?" (New Criminal Code allows for instalment payment of fines.)

"What is the maximum time allowed?" Lenko wanted to know.

"Don't ask me questions," cautioned the magistrate, "answer mine."

"One year?"

"Nonsense. I'll give you a week to pay," the court said.

Cons. Glen Short said he found Lenko asleep at the wheel of his car in the 3100 block Douglas, where it had crossed to the wrong side, mounted a curb and tore out 30 feet of fence at 3184 and 3190 Douglas, where it came to rest on the front lawn.

Vancouver Wants Duplicate Of Totem Going to Queen

Work began officially today on British Columbia's centennial gift to Queen Elizabeth—a 100-foot totem pole to be carved by Chief Mungo Maryin of the Kwakiuti Indian tribe.

The first cut in the giant cedar log was made by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at a ceremony in Thunderbird Park.

Prior to the ceremony it was learned that a group of Vancouver citizens hope to commission the Indian carvers to make a duplicate of the Queen's totem as one of the city's centennial projects.

TWO LOGS

Powell River Co., which donated the "raw material" for the royal totem, sent two almost-identical cedar logs from the Queen Charlotte Island.

Mungo Martin chose one for the Queen; the other, still at the Island Tug and Barge Co. wharf after being towed down the coast, is sought by the Vancouver group.

At today's official ceremony, Premier Bennett was represented by Lands and Forests Minister Ray G. Williston, who explained the carving on the pole would depict the Indian's idea of the beginning of life in the province.

REPRESENT ALL

Mr. Williston said there would be ten main phases to the design. It will be carved in the Kwakiutl art style, but would represent all the carving tribes in B.C.

Work will be done by Mungo and David Martin and Henry Hunt, the three native carvers who created the world's tallest totem, now standing in Beacon Hill Park.

Lieutenant-Governor Ross accepted the totem on behalf of the Queen beore using a "D" adze to make the first cut.

Funeral Monday For Former City Liquor Vendor

Born in Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, Mr. Pillar had lived here since 1889.

He is survived by his widow, Anna M.; one son, Charles H. L. Pillar, Vernon; two daughters, Mrs. E. M. Johnston, Los Angeles, and Mrs. J. B. McAlister, Rolston, Alta.; six grandsons and one granddaughter; one brother, Henry, in Portage La Prairie, Man., and one sister, Mrs. J. Burkholder, Morrisburg, Ont.

The funeral service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral at 1 p.m., with interment at Royal Oak Burial Park. Hayward's have charge of arrangements.

Ottawa Blocks Park In Colwood

Ottawa has rejected an application from Colwood Ratepayers' Association to buy 62 acres on top of Triangle Mountain for development as a centennial park project.

Ted Botting, secretary-treasurer, said today Crown Assets Corporation had informed the association that it put the property on the open market in order to realize as much as possible through its sale, and had received several "good offers."

As a result, the association will proceed with plans for a children's playground as its alternate centennial project.

Fined $250 After Fort St. Crash

Convicted in city police court today for impaired driving about midnight Friday, Henry Bell, 1733 Amphion, was fined $250 and his driver's licence suspended.

Cons. Glen Short observed the accused drive at speeds estimated at between 40 and 45 miles an hour on Fort prior to hitting a pole on the wrong side of the street near Morrison, swinging back to the proper side and striking another pole at Morrison and Fort.

Shortly before, Bell had driven east on Pandora and struck a parked car at 1317 Pandora, after which he failed to stop and proceeded onto Fort, Cons. Short said.

LEGISLATURE'S CLERK COMMENTS

House Name-Calling ---Is It Good or Bad?

Is a name-calling, shouting debate such as happened in the legislature Wednesday night over the Cassiar Road a good thing or a bad thing in democracy?

E. K. (Ned) DeBeck, clerk of the House, expressed a dual view of it in a letter to the Times today.

As a private observer he believes such a debate is a good thing.

But as the official clerk — "whose responsibilities include an endeavor to see that all proceedings are conducted in a regular and orderly manner"—he must disapprove.

NO ANIMOSITY

"In these rather rare occasions when there is a flare-up, there is no animosity," Mr. DeBeck said.

Speaking as an observer of the legislature for many years, Mr. DeBeck said he believes "such occasional scenes indicated that the members fight vigorously for their cause and are a healthy sign and commendable . . ."

Said Mr. DeBeck:

"If a member of the government feels that he is being wrongly accused, or a member of the opposition that an injustice is being done, each is insistent on having the floor to have his say—neither will give way—other members on each side chip in to help or even to have order—and the battle is on.

"Surely this is a demonstration of the earnestness of the proponents . . . in the cause of British Columbia.

". . . I can assure our citizens . . . that from my experience, the members of our legislative assembly are as nearly as possible 100% out for the betterment of our province according to their various beliefs."

Citizen Thwarts Would-Be Burglar At Camosun Store

Attempted break-in of Camosun Grocery, 1436 Camosun, about 11.40 p.m. Friday, was thwarted by a citizen who saw a man throw a brick through a front door window.

Scared off, the man ran west on Pandora after smashing the glass, police were told.

Witnesses said there youths, about 18 years of age, wearing dark clothing, were near the store just before the window was broken, and scattered immediately.

Store owner Mrs. Jessie Imason was notified and attended. There was apparently no entry to the premises.

COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

Jewish God Judge, Creator, Redeemer

Jewish people don't owe their religion to anyone, a Vancouver rabbi said here Thursday.

"Judaism is not the religion of one man, nor the creative effort in the specific area of a single person," Rabbi B. Goldenberg told a "Comparative Religions" class at Victoria College evening division.

"It is a collective religion nurtured and developed by a group and modified by the group's collective historical experience," he said.

Although Moses is recognized as the "greatest Jew," the days of his birth and death are not celebrated and his name is "purposely" left out of the liturgy of the Passover, a Jewish holiday marking the exodus of the Jews, led by Moses, from Egypt.

Judaism recognizes God as creator of man and the universe, judge and redeemer of mankind and lawgiver, Rabbi Goldenberg said.

As creator, God's work has not been completed "because He wanted man to become His partner in co-creating the world," by carrying on His work.

As judge, "God cares for the passing parade . . . His care and His concern are constant and dynamic."

"God is judge of the individual, the group, and history," the rabbi said.

"As individuals, we can retard or fulfill God's plan for us."

As redeemer, God forgives us our sins when we are truly penitent.

"The sin of retarding our fulfillment is not necessarily a blot on our souls," he said.

"When we are truly penitent we remove the stumbling block of sin . . . and stand higher in the scale of values than the religious and the pious."

As lawgiver, God has given us "actual concrete revelations, telling us how to conduct our affairs in every situation—while sipping a coke in a drugstore, arranging a business deal or voting in the provincial election."

Rabbi Goldenberg will continue his discourse on Judaism at a meeting in the college next Thursday at 8 p.m.

YOU SAID TO ME-

By ETHEL TULL

A Sunday message of help and comfort for those puzzled, depressed or low in spirit.

You said to me, "I'm sure that God can make use of suffering and mistakes, if we leave the way open for Him."

You are young and you have just been through a very deep sorrow and disappointment, yet you can still say, "We are so grateful for this way of life."

The way you are speaking of is, in your case, that of a young husband and wife praying together each morning, and then being very still and lifting up your hearts to the great God who has shown you that if you are willing to listen with your minds He will send you the good thoughts by which you can direct your lives.

You have your note books in which you write down the thoughts which come to you in that time of quiet, for it is so easy to forget or to disregard what is not recorded in writing. Then you are able to check with each other to consider the best way to follow your guidance.

These early morning times together with God have kept your love for one another strong and beautiful, for you have been able to see more clearly each other's point of view in the light of the Holy Spirit's scrutiny, and to clear up any misunderstanding which may have arisen between you. You have not sought each for your own good, but for what will help to make the other great.

When sorrow came, you were able to face it together, and out of it has already grown a better understanding with someone outside your home. God is using and will use your suffering—yes, and your honest mistakes, too—to give to others a vision of His power and love they might never have had if you had not "left the way open for Him."

'And Suddenly . . . It's Spring!'

Spring flowers are the perfect foil for a pretty girl— whether they're nestled on an eye-catching hat or nodding brightly beneath a tree. Above, they provide a lovely background for two lovely young women . . . Mrs. William Wendland, left, 1533 Edgeware Road, and Mrs. Carroll Apolzer, 2559 Graham Street.

There's a fine old romantic saying that "In Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to what a young girl has been thinking of all winter . . ." Like lovers everywhere, these two are taking advantage of the balmy weather to stroll along the waterfront below Beacon Hill Park.

"Spring rides no horses down the hill
But comes on foot, a goose girl still,
And all the loveliest things there be
Come simply so it seems to me.
If ever I said, in grief and pride,
I tired of honest things, I lied . . ."

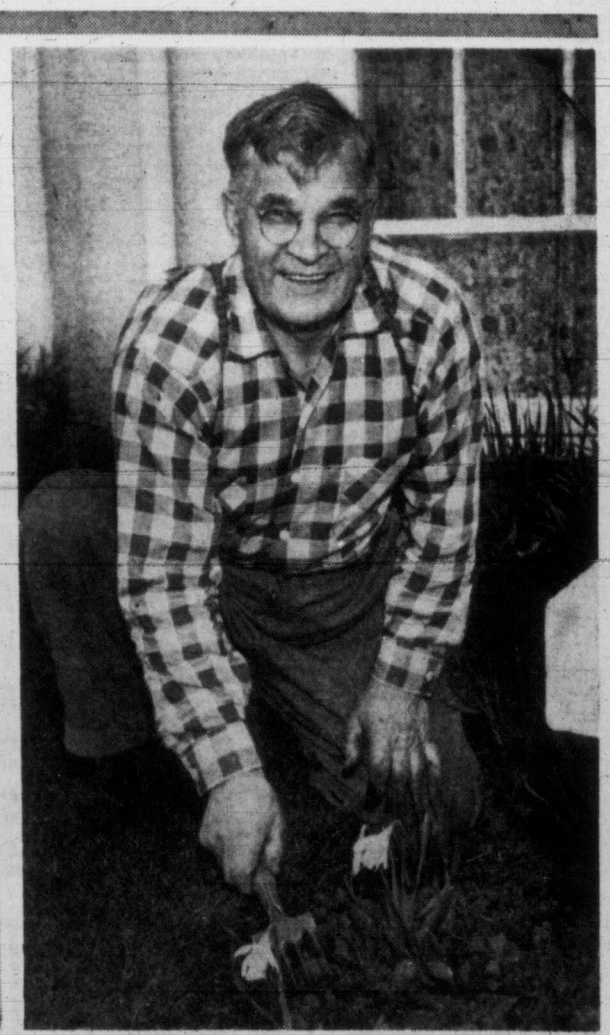
How do youngsters greet the season? With yo-yos and agates . . . with dirt on their faces and pussywillows in their hands . . . with rips in their blue jeans and freckles on their noses. And when they're just four, like Bonnie Lynn, they get on a swing and SWING. Bonnie is the elfin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Arbuckle, 2345 Cranmore.

To Mrs. Alfred Kowalski the meaning of spring is pane-fully clear—spelled out in soap streaks and elbow grease on windows of her Dallas Road home, film-blurred with the rime and grime of winter on the waterfront, and starting point for a strenuous session of house cleaning . . . which must be done before any housewife can settle back to soak up the season.



Everyone knows where a young man's fancy turns in the spring—but his father's fancy? It turns to the garden and he's likely to be just as absorbed in his flowers as he was in his first love. Above, Peter Stalberg cultivates lovingly about his daffodils blooming at 412 Dallas Road.

SHOPPING GUIDE

New Terry Cloth Blousons Show the Way to Summer

By PENNY SAVER

Summer clothes, in all their brilliance and gaiety are arriving in town to tempt winter-weary shoppers. Typical of the casual and comfy clothes are terry cloth shirts with the top fashion bloused look and drawstring at the waistline. No sleeves to keep out the sun on these wee shirts, and the neckline is Italian style. They come in yellow, pale blue or white, to wear with favorite sports outfits, bathing suits, shorts and pedal pushers. I think that these would be especially good as tennis shirts. The price on the tag says $3.95.

Here's an amazing buy for your study or office. For just 95 cents, you can have a sturdy, handy stapler, complete with 1,000 staples. You'll find a use for one of these gadgets in almost every room in the house, and the whole family will be using it for a variety of things. This is a very good price for a stapler, and the box of staples can be replaced at low cost.

Little blue globe pencil sharpeners are not something new, but they have taken on a new selling point. Now they can be bolted to desk or window sill for easier use. Turn the tiny handle, and the pencil is sharpened in a whiz. For schoolchildren, who always seem to lose several sharpeners during the school year, this is wonderful. Each costs 75 cents.

When you're buying paper clips, spring type, for office or classroom, chances are you order the ordinary kind you've always used: ones with top hooks that enable you to hang the cluster of papers or book on the wall. One thing about these clips, though, is that the wings (the part you squeeze together to release the grip) stick upwards, and make it difficult to stack sheafs of papers, for they are constantly catching on things. The new clips I found have wings that flip downward against the paper once the clip is in place. If you wish to hang the papers up, just flip the wings back up again. These are just some of the little things you'll find in up-to-the-minute stationery deparments in town. The clips are 10, 15, 20 and 25 cents each.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

Gardening—Healthful Hobby For Children and Parents

By NANCY CLEAVER

"I know not which I love the most,
Nor which the comeliest shows,
The timid bashful violet
Or the royal-hearted rose:
The pansy in her purple dress,
The pink with cheek of red,
Or the faint, fair heliotrope, who hangs,
Like a bashful maid her head."

Phoebe Carey—Spring Flowers.

Nancy

There are few bouquets for the house which a mother appreciates more than the first bunch of flowers from his own garden which a child produces! He is so proud of these blooms! It more than repays her for the time and trouble and expense of letting her son garden. She knows, too, that if he gets a satisfying taste of gardening when he is young he has the beginning of one of the healthiest and best of hobbies which he can enjoy all through his life.

If a parent usually plans his garden on paper, his garden blueprint will interest his child. It is useful for him to watch an adult using paper and pencil to record his thoughts. At first, a little child will be content to "be a helper." But just as soon as he has his own tiny garden he too, should make a drawing of what he is going to grow in it.

If the family live in a home with plenty of ground for both vegetable and flower beds, then a little space can be set apart as the child's own garden corner. But even in crowded housing areas, growing things on a small scale can be managed. One mother living in an apartment was keen that her daughter should have the joy of growing flowers. So she bought large flower pots, collected pebbles for drainage and purchased earth and fertilizer. They grew frilly petunias very successfully from a box of tiny seedlings purchased at a florist's.

A small boy or girl is apt to be such an enthusiastic "waterer" that seeds of tiny plants may be washed away from the place where they belong. For that reason, allowing a youngster to use the hose, without being watched, is not a good idea. It is much better to substitute watering with a child's watering can which he can fill himself from a pail full of water or an outside tap.

Many of the sets of children's gardening tools are too fragile to be very satisfactory. A child of four or more can be shown how to use the ordinary rake or hoe or trowel carefully. He can learn from experience the importance of having a place for tools and putting them back where they belong after they have been used.

A child will enjoy planting seeds such as nasturtium seeds which are large enough for his tiny fingers to handle. Mother may find him digging one of them up just to make sure the roots are growing—but nasturtiums like children, can stand quite a bit!

May you and your child have a satisfying and rewarding time in your garden this year!

Pastel Setting for a Ceremony Friday in Metropolitan United

White stocks and pale pink tulips in tall baskets of white straw formed a floral background in Metropolitan United Church last evening for the ceremony in which Miss Lillian Kathleen Knox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Knox, 1852 Fern Street, became the bride of Clifford Haslam, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Haslam, 1001 Balmoral Road. Dr. F. E. H. James officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a bridal dress of lace and tulle with ballerina-length skirt, strapless bodice with lace jacket with lily point sleeves and tiny Peter Pan collar. Inserts of permanent pleated tulle highlighted the bouffant skirt poised over satin, and irridescent sequins and seed pearls formed a dainty pattern on the bodice. Her chapel veil misted from a small coronet. White iris, bebe pink roses and pink tulle formed her bridal bouquet.

For "something old and something borrowed," the bride carried a handkerchief, over 100 years old. Completing her ensemble, she wore the groom's gift, pearl earrings, and an heirloom bluebird set with pearls, a gift from her mother.

Matron of honor was Mrs. James H. Jack, sister of the bride. She wore a mauve-grey silk crystalette gown in princess style with pale pink accessories and bouquet of white hyacinths and mauve heather with pink roses. With her ensemble, she wore pearl jewelry, the bride's gift.

The groom had his brother, William Haslam Jr., as best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with stocks and tulips were Albert Taylor, Donald Taylor and Bruce Taylor.

During the signing of the register, Stanley Martin sang "The Lord's Prayer."

A three-tier cake, made by the bride, centred the main table at a reception held in the Olde England Inn. Silver candelabra with pink candles flanked the cake, and bebe pink rosebuds on blush pink tulle surrounded the cake. R. W. Booth, Nanaimo, proposed the toast to the bride, his niece.

Mrs. Knox, mother of the bride, wore a rosewood crepe dress with lace jacket and navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias. Mrs. Haslam chose a navy blue dress with pink accessories and gardenia corsage.

For traveling, the bride wore a pink coral knitted suit with pale pink French kid gloves, pink hat and black patent leather shoes and purse. On her chargrey princess line topcoat with squirrel neckpiece was pinned a corsage of pink-to-red rosebuds.

Following a honeymoon trip on the mainland, the newlyweds will make their home at 1974 Oak Bay Avenue.

Up-Island Wedding of Interest To Many Friends in Victoria

A wedding of interest to Victoria and other Island points was held recently in St. George's United Church, Courtenay, when Rev. Frank Johnson heard the vows of Miss Doris Jeanette Vokes, Petrolia, Ont., and Harry William Squire, of Royston. White freesia and baskets of pussywillows and daffodils were placed at the front of the church for the ceremony. Dave Arnott played traditional wedding music and Mrs. LeRoy Bond sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by John Tullis, Vancouver, the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vokes, Petrolia, Ont., was gowned in white Chantilly lace and taffeta in princess style with portrait neckline, lily point sleeves and gracefully styled floor-length skirt with deep panels of taffeta from an empire wastline.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion net was held to a headdress of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a spray of Talisman roses on a white prayer book.

Maid of honor, Miss Elsie Neuman; bridesmaids, Miss Diana Kuppers and Miss Ethel Winthrop, of Vancouver, and bridesmatron, Mrs. Roy Frelone, were gowned alike in aqua ballerina-length dresses of crystalette, styled identically to the bride's gown. They wore headdresses of white feathers and carried pink carnations.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Squire, Royston, had as his best man, Fred Pisto, Courtenay and ushers, Roy Frelone, Frank Loor and Robert Shipley, all of Victoria.

A reception followed at the Elks Hall in Courtenay where a wedding cake surrounded by heather sprays and pink carnations centred the bride's table.

Mrs. Vokes, mother of the bride, wore a blue ensemble with pink accesories and white corsage, and Mrs. Squire chose a powder blue suit with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses. Angelo Gigliotti, Vancouver, proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for a motor trip to San Francisco, the bride wore a yellow tweed suit with brown accessories and a light green topcoat. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. Mr. and Mrs. Squire have now made their home in Courtenay.

SABA'S GENIAL STAFF LOOKS FORWARD TO FORTHCOMING STORE EXPANSION

At present Saba's are busily engaged in replanning the entire store in order that the sportswear department may be greatly enlarged for the convenience of growing numbers of shoppers.

Pictured above are Mrs. Helene Abondance and Mrs. Beverly Turner eagerly discussing a new sportswear importation. These two affable salesladies are keenly anticipating the enlargement of their department.

Friendliness, with well placed advice and assistance, is the keynote of our service . . . which you will note the moment you are greeted by Mrs. Abandance, a comparative newcomer to Saba's. Her gay Parisian charm is refreshing and captivating, and her knowledge of her department makes her invaluable to customers. When someone wants just the right blouse or sweater, Helene invariably manages to produce it.

Mrs. Turner has a flair for the smart and the chic, and a style-sense that is a great help to those who come to her with fashion problems. She possesses excellent taste and will be only too happy to advise and make suggestions with regard to the new styles and fabrics which we will be introducing in our new main floor sportswear department.

Combined with highly personalized service and a high level of quality merchandise, Saba's expanded sportswear department will take in much of the main floor area of the store. However, there will be no lessening of service . . . no "help yourself" attitude. Service will continue to be highly individualized and attentive . . . with a host of new merchandise . . . skirts, play clothes, swim suits, blouses, sweaters . . . everything to round out the smart woman's wardrobe.

You will enjoy shopping at Saba's where the friendly and casual atmosphere is notably marked with competence and attention to detail. Pay us a visit soon, at 1130 Douglas Street. ***

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Watch Your Back View, Others Do Constantly

Sometimes an exit is more important than an entrance! Then, too, that most important man is often behind us, pulling out our chair or following us through doors and down aisles.

Since we seldom see ourselves backview we may forget that others see us from that angle many times during each 24 hours. Today I am going to list a few things to check on concerning your back view.

1. If your belt is too tight or too wide it will make those pads of fat just below the waistline in the back appear more prominent. Belts which dip down a bit in the back are slimming and a graceful rear view.

2. Your shoes may look well groomed front view but be scuffed on the heels. This is often a result of driving a car. Naturally heels which are run over ruin the view in question.

3. Many women have an attractive hairdo front and side view but it may be sloppy, rugged, poorly groomed or unbecoming backview. The woman who has a short neck should not wear her hair long in the back. Neither should she wear high collars. Both make her neck look shorter than it actually is and may entirely hide it from view.

4. Be sure that your skirts do not need pressing. Often this is essential because of sitting, even when the dress as a whole is not wrinkled.

5. Of course crooked stocking seams are most awkward and can make a lovely leg look deformed. The seams may be straight when you first put your stockings on but may pull out of line after moving about a bit. It is a good idea to look at them in a mirror just before you go out.

6. You may look slim from the front but out of proportion rearview because of fatty deposits on the upper hips and thighs. Exercise will improve this situation greatly.

7. Any defects in the way you walk will be emphasized from backview. A walk which is not graceful and smooth is reflected in wobbling or switching or bouncing hips.

Also, the truth of the business is that people just naturally look at us more critically from this position because they are not diverted by our facial expressions, and also can stare at us without being rude.

HERBS IN THE HOME

By PATRICIA RAE

Where Does Your Herb Garden Grow? In Rockery, Squares or Wagon Wheel!

The mere thought of planning an herb-garden in spring makes me quite "garden-sick"; but I must have my fun by helping you with yours! First let me tell you about the sweetest and easiest herb-garden I ever planted—this was about 3 feet by 1½, backed by the egg packing-shed on our poultry farm and surrounded on three sides by a narrow cement path. In this plot I made a tiny scented garden, every plant in it carefully chosen for its aromatic properties.

It is the leaves of these herbs that have the scent, not the flowers, and even in winter the variegated greys and green of the plants are fragrant and interesting.

As it was such a small bed and conspicuous, I kept each herb carefully clipped. This gave a neat, "Tom Thumb" effect and the little harvest of leaves, buds and flowers was carefully dried on a wire-rack for use in mothproof mixtures. (I'll tell you about these later.)

Herbs in the aromatic garden were: Rosemary (described in previous articles); Southernwood, an ornamental lemon-scented shrub, with graceful green-grey bushy habit; Wormood (a "cousin" of Southernwood), grey-leaved, with little yellow ball-tassel flowers; Santolina, or Cotton Lavender, which I've seen on sale here; several kinds of light and dark lavender, including that pet of a plant, Munstead Dwarf. And, in front of them all, a dainty, goldflecked edging of Orange or Golden Thyme (which many confuse with Lemon Thyme, as it also has a citrous aroma when pinched or touched lightly with the hand.) With the morning dew still upon it, or after a shower, this little garden was always at its best—neat, demure and fragrant.

HERBS ALSO GROW IN ROCKERY

I had all kinds of Creeping Thyme growing in the rock-garden too—and great clumps of Cotton Lavender, Thrift, Southernwood and Prostrate Rosemary, which clings so prettily to stones or rough steps.

CHECKER-BOARD DESIGN

If I had no rock-garden, I might consider a checker-board garden, with flat white cement blocks to stand on—the "black" squares filled with herbs. Just think—you could hop-scotch from block to block when weeding! Herbs suitable for a rock-garden would do for this—the white blocks should set them off to perfection. You could write the names of the plants on the adjoining blocks in chalk, and then rub them out afterwards!

WAGON-WHEEL OF HERBS

I just took an old wheel and stuck it in the ground, planting variegated Creeping Thyme between each of the spokes. In it, in this order were: Golden Thyme; Silver Thyme; Rose, White and Crimson Thyme. In the centre hub I addeed another of their "relations"—Lemon-Thyme, with upright habit, so that it looked like a little scented tree against a circular carpet of tiny flowers.

You can get wheel-gardens all ready to set up, with nine varieties of herb-seed to plant between the spokes. But perhaps you are the Do-It-Yourself type and prefer to use a genuine old wagon-wheel, to set in the ground as a circular bed, with the herb names painted on the spoke-rims! Or what about cutting it boldly in half and thus having two semi-circular gardens with a little path in between? Charming in a quiet corner near a garden seat, bird-bath or sundial.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About using "Jr.":

My daughter is planning a large afternoon tea and her mother-in-law has offered her the use of her large home. My daughter's name is Mrs. George William Drake and her mother-in-law is Mrs. William George Drake. I contend that my daughter should put Mrs. George William Drake Jr. on the invitations to avoid confusion. My daughter thinks that she in not Mrs. Drake Jr. because the George and William are reversed. If that is a debatable point, would it be all right to put Mrs. Marie Ellen Drake instead of Mrs. George William Drake?

Louise

Louise Davis answers:

Your daughter is correct. She cannot be Mrs. George William Drake Jr. because, as she says, the two names are reversed. Using Mrs. Marie Ellen Drake would not be correct either as that is not her name although it is her signature. It would imply that she is divorced.

I have a suggestion that might be considered a bit unorthodox but which would avoid confusion. After the Mrs. George William Drake she could add in parentheses her maiden name — Marie Ellen Gardner. Your daughter could write the invitations in the form of brief personal notes. The signature would be Marie Ellen Gardner and underneath it she would write in parentheses Mrs. George William Drake.

MAXWELL — In loving memory of Margaret Maxwell, who went home March 23, 1955.
God calls our loved ones, but we lose not wholly
What He has given.
They live on earth in thought and deed as truly
As in His Heaven.
—Always tenderly remembered by husband, James, and daughter, Dorothy.

31A POULTRY HATCHING EGGS, ETC.

What Can You Expect of Kimberchiks?
This Leghorn strain cross netted $4.23 INCOME OVER FEED COST in the three random sample tests in which it was entered in 1955-56. In 18½ months of age it averaged 264 eggs per pullet; in 16½ months it laid 249 eggs per pullet. The average liability is 50.6% with eggs weighing 26 ounces per dozen during the first laying year. In all the 1955-56 random sample tests it was first for early egg size.
The K-137 Kimberchik does very well in cages or on floor litter. In some areas 90% of the Kimber Leghorns are on wire.

GARDON RICHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

MONDAY, MARCH 25, 1957

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Your hopes seem impossible to realize because of lack of abundance, or refusal of an associate to release backing. After noon you suddenly become all fired with some excellent ideas which show how to make your dreams come true. Do this now.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Unpredictable acting official and demanding partner can give you tense time until midafternoon, when tensions ease and you can gain advancement, more assets, right slant on worldly and property matters. Put into effect now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Leaving tasks to be done just to get off to new scenes, takes away from your approval, good will from those who have same mental attitude as you. Instead, finish all duties by midafternoon. Then you can really aspire to the worthwhile aspirations.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Confusion pretty much reigns in dealing with others during early part of day. Later, however, you have such feeling of well-being, happiness that you can delight attachment as well as enjoy creative outlets, hobby, recreation, romance. Be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Colleagues and family act strangely during first half of day. Ignore and do well whatever happens to be your job. Later you find that able, energetic friends and companions back you up, so that everything becomes lighter, more pleasant.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Acting without due reflection early could cause you to make some decided error that would retard your advancement for some time to come. Tread water until midafternoon, when you can pitch in and wind up job at home, office, outside world.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Having fun looks pretty tempting today early. But you made up your mind many things to be done over the weekend. So, pitch in and do 'em. Be sure you get them behind you by shortly after noon, when aspects become fine for sports, recreation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You surely have some disgruntled, albeit not entirely fair, ideas of a resentful or confused nature where a close companion is concerned early. Get your own affairs in order by mid afternoon. Then you can relax, appreciate your home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You can have your mind early so going in a squirrel cage over a frustration that you get nothing done, unless you take yourself in hand. Use self-control. Later you find all kinds of chances to discuss aims with others. Do marketing, etc.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Early confusion over what your desires actually are can confuse others, who draw away from you. So keep quiet, impersonal until midafternoon. Then full speed ahead in all financial dealings with others. Organize your assets. Fix budget.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Those in outside world just don't seem to understand during first half of day what you are trying to do. Get clear picture in your own mind. Then p.m. fine for contacting all others and getting their backing. Have good time tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Whatever creative ideas are yours, or what amusements you seek should await the latter part of the day and tonight. Fix your attention before that time on finding new methods that will lop off inefficiencies. Be down-to-earth.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TUESDAY . . .
Tuesday's child is one of those very determined youngsters who will need to be tactfully made to understand that others need to be considered before he or she puts into motion what is in his or her mind. The early life can have a great deal of confusion where the emotions are concerned, unless you explain them carefully. This will be so helpful, your progeny will then blossom and express fine attributes and qualities. Ignorance of "the facts of life" could be very adverse. So give early right, high standard insights.

News For You
ABOUT A
Vickery-Built Home
Why build an N.H.A. home—there are a good many reasons, but if you qualify, why not build a Vickery-constructed N.H.A. home. They're the best money can buy.

V—ery best for less
Judging from the sale price of similar homes you save approximately $1,500. How can this be? Since Vickery Construction builds more homes than any other construction firm in Victoria, the suppliers and sub-trades give volume discounts that are passed on to you via the lower contract price. Also construction costs are kept to a minimum by a higher degree of efficiency. In addition, Mr. Vickery, or as he is known to the trade, "Mr. N.H.A.," builds the house; the other details, such as finance, accounting, payrolls, are handled by other people. This leaves Mr. Vickery 12 hours in each day to look after construction—and only the construction—of your house. I think it is accepted fact that the average carpenter employed by Vickery Construction Ltd. completes more work than his counterpart in other construction firms. Why? Because of Mr. Vickery's system of building. Mr. Vickery's leadership, management and know-how, and because the carpenter is paid more.

I—t is a better home
Vickery Construction Ltd. is the top rated N.H.A. contractor in Victoria. What does this mean? Simply that the Central Mortgage & Housing Corporation know, through thousands of house inspections, that the construction, materials, equipment, workmanship and guarantees are of the highest degree and quality. Every hope is expressed for all workmanship, materials and equipment for a period of one year. As you know, it costs money to send workmen back on a home—only the contractor who knows that he has built the best home can afford to give this guarantee. This feature is rarely offered by a contractor in Victoria.

C—ertainly it is built faster
If you are renting you save several months' rent. Three months is the usual period of construction. This period of complete construction can only be accomplished ignoring the usual periods required for drying, etc., are allowed by the largest contractor who can obtain the services of subcontractors without delay. Because the subtrade values Vickery Construction business this company receives a priority on the services of the subtrade.

K—eeps costs down by eliminating mistakes
You get more assistance and service. Northwest Homes by its liaison with the applicant looks after all colors, all changes, all choice of fixtures and equipment and checks on your house twice a week until you have moved into the house. The average contractor usually cannot afford this time and service unless he contracts at a high price. To give some indication of the size of this business, according to our last check, approximately one-third of all N.H.A. mortgages for 1957 have been for Vickery Construction Ltd. and its associated building company.

E—very thought
Is given to building a better home, that has everything you desire—why buy a second-hand home built for someone else? Why not have a house that costs you less? A house that you know is the best because you saw it built—and is guaranteed house. Possibly you are the person that says he cannot build till he sells his house.

R—ing us
Or see us today. We can probably build for you while we are selling your present home. Ask for Doug Robertson, Claire Walsh, Marcel Perus, Hal Johnson, Vivian Roberts, Clarence Ryde or Byron Price. 5-2458 anytime.

Y—es
You can build in Cadboro Bay, Shorncliffe, Lansdowne, St. Charles and Rockland Avenues, Sherwood Oaks, Esquimalt, Richardson St., Meadowlands Dr. We have all kinds of N.H.A. lots—we'll give you the total cost, including the lot, the down payment—everything.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—We have a very damp basement. What can we do to correct this condition?—J.C.

A—Temporary measures include forced ventilation with a fan and installation of a dehumidifying device. For a more permanent solution to the problem you might consider applying a sealer to walls of the basement and, in an extreme case, digging down all around the foundation in order to apply a waterproof coating to the masonry.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Separate Montbretia Now To Encourage Flowering

Q—Clumps of montbretia are matted together producing thin, grass-like leaves, and scarcely any flowers last fall. Can I dig them now to separate and replant them? Mrs. M. C., Michigan Street.

A—Now is the time to do this work. When you dig the clumps of montbretia, you will find the roots are individual corms resembling gladiolus corms, though smaller. Those on the outer edges of the mass are likely to be larger than those inside, so would suggest you plant these in small groups in a new location.

Q—What kind of lettuce seed shall I sow now for using in May? I have a cold frame. K. A., Shelbourne.

A—Great Lakes and Tom Thumb will both be good in a cold frame for early use. Both are leafy, but of fine quality. Germinate the seed with bottom heat on the kitchen stove if necessary, but transfer to cooler, lighter place immediately they sprout. Prick out a flat as soon as possible to make sturdy little plants to go into a flat as soon as possible to post in the frame, and once the plants are established, give plenty of ventilation during day

BEASTALL ADVISES

Tree Injuries Self-Healing When Given Intelligent Care

By JACK BEASTALL

Questions received in the past few weeks have been concerned with the care of fruit tree cuts and wounds, a subject which has received much argument although nobody has proved that white lead does anything more than keep out rain.

We know that rain will rot wood, and where a cut is so situated that water might lie in the wound some form of protection should certainly be provided.

Jack Beastall

Paint is better than nothing on this type of cut, although a carefully-fitted cap of sheet lead or roofing felt, or a seal of cement is superior.

We should always bear in mind that plants are considerably more efficient than humans in repairing wounds, and can, when necessary, grow entirely new sections.

In this connection we are told that only the cambium layer of cells, which lies between the soft bark tissue and the less active wood tissue, has this power of renewal.

Therefore, when we make cuts on fruit trees we should make certain that the cambium is left in the best possible state to continue growth, form the protective cells we call callus, and safely heal the wound.

QUICK HEALING

The most common wounds caused by gardeners are the cuts made in pruning. These normally heal in a short time providing each is cleanly made and located immediately above a bud.

Die-back occurs when the cut is made a short distance above a bud, because there is no growth beyond to draw the sap and keep the cambium alive.

More attention is needed when larger limbs are removed with a saw. Here again, no stub should be left which might die and provide entry for disease spores.

Such cuts should be made flush with the main branch or the trunk, and the cambium should be carefully trimmed with a sharp knife to remove all jagged and torn tissue which would die and hinder healing.

SEAL GUMMY TREES

On healthy and vigorous apples or pears there is no need to apply paint to these larger cuts, but on cherries, plums, peaches, apricots, that heal wounds by secreting a gummy substance which hardens in air, and on slow healing trees such as walnuts, all medium and large cuts should be sealed.

Although paint is frequently used it is not the best material for this purpose. A good quality hot or cold grafting wax provides better protection and encourages callus formation beneath.

Apart from the gum forming trees, little is gained from painting trunks which have been damaged by tools, machinery, or animals. Here again, the trees can take care of themselves if the wound is carefully trimmed and further damage prevented.

When the trunk is completely girdled by rodents, bridge grafting is the only way to restore the connection between the cambium on the upper trunk and that at the base.

Large frost cracks and crotch splits require mechanical repairs. The bark along a split should be tacked into place with large headed nails, and crotch splits drawn together with threaded bolts, washers and nuts.

In case of fire, unless the blaze is so small that it can be extinguished immediately, the fire department should be called. The average person does not always realize the danger of fire eating through walls or floors and, if not discovered, spreading to other buildings in the street.

The finished vanity is a sleek, attractive built-in that can be adapted to useful purposes in almost any room.

BUILD-IT CORNER

Wall-to-Wall Vanity Simple, Attractive

By PETER WHITTALL

Here is a wall-to-wall vanity that is ready-planned for your home. It can be built in a few evenings by the average handyman, and it can be done with a minimum budget.

The requirements are four sheets of three-quarter-inch fir plywood and two sheets of half-inch fir plywood.

This particular plan, especially designed for home craftsmen, can be built with the six basic hand tools — saw, hammer, screwdriver, mitre square, smoothing plane and spirit level.

The simplicity of the plan recommends it to the beginner, the flexibility of the design recommends it to every housewife.

The basic plan calls for a total length of 12 feet, but it can easily be adapted to any other length if it suits your convenience. The number of drawers and cupboards can be varied just as readily.

VARIED USES

The variety of purposes the finished product can serve is almost endless.

It can be a vanity-and-storage unit in the bedroom or bathroom with a mirror under the hinged top, a linen storage and work surface in the laundry, a desk unit in the den.

Substitute doors for drawers and it's a music wall for the rec room, housing all the components of TV and hi-fi.

In assessing any of these variations, keep in mind that the hinged vanity in the centre, connecting the floor units, can be made any width. And the drawer or cabinet units, built in two-foot widths, can be built in any number you desire.

FLOOR SECTIONS

The first building step is to construct the floor units.

Using the measurments of the basic plan, you cut two pieces of three-quarter inch plywood each twenty-four inches by forty-eight inches. These are the counter top pieces for each unit.

The two floor pieces are slightly smaller — 24 by 46½ inches — to allow for the butt-joint construction.

The ends, the shelves and the partitions all consist of two-foot squares of plywood. Check the measurements on the plan as you go, however, to avoid miscuts.

DRAWERS, VANITY

The tray-type drawers, made of half-inch plywood, can be cut from two-foot squares. Exact size of each drawer bottom is 22⅞" by 22¼".

This type of drawer is recommended for the beginner, since all he has to do is to cut and fit the tray into the narrow runner strips and, when he's satisfied with the operation, simply add the narrow strips to form the four sides of the drawers. Nail or screwnail up through the bottom of the drawer into the edge grain of these strips.

Build the connecting vanity section after the floor units are complete.

The entire unit can be built section by section, in the basement or garage workshop. Each piece can be carried in and placed on a 2x4 floor frame previously built and nailed in place.

THE FINISH

It's wise to delay the final finishing operations — painting to touch up any shaved spots or other installation damage to the finish.

By the way, if you want to make this unit "free standing" instead of attaching it to a plaster wall, sheet the back of each unit with ¼" plywood, attached with a good wood glue and 1½" finishing nails spaced about four inches apart.

A combination of natural and painted plywood can be used to accentuate the pleasing modern lines of this vanity unit.

A simple but effective grain-show finish can be achieved by applying a coat of white pigmented sealer to the raw plywood and wiping it down with a clean, soft cloth before it gets tacky. Next thin out the oil base paint of the desired color with 50 per cent turpentine and brush this on, wiping as before. To complete the job and protect your colored finish, apply one or more coats of flat or gloss varnish.

If you choose a solid color, plan on a three-coat job for beauty and satisfaction. The first coat is simply a clear or pigmented primer, the second is a flat undercoat, and the third is a gloss, flat or semi-gloss finish coat.

For detailed vanity unit plans, see your nearest plywood dealer or write Peter Whittall, in care of Box 335, Vancouver, B.C.

Fabric Design Derives Motifs From Rococo Era

Print designers continue their rebellion against modern starkness this season. Only the character of the uprising changes. From the soft and somewhat humorous prints of the past season, designers have found yet another pathway to the past—this one, a well-travelled road that leads to the baroque and rococo opulence of 18th century France.

This florid style of ornamentation is introduced in a large portion of the new prints. Scaling is either large and majestic or handled in such a way as to create the illusion of large scale.

The geranium's botanical name is Pelargonium.

PLAN WITH BASEMENT ONLY — SECOND FLOOR PLAN

Extending This Plan Could Boost Income

While basically a one-story plan with living room, kitchen, bathroom, two bedrooms or dining room and one bedroom, according to need, the home builder with an eye toward future expansion will not overlook the possibilities of this design.

Development of the second floor into two bedrooms with bathroom is illustrated.

Extension of the main floor into a large room with lavatory and separate entrance could add extra income or provide a parent or teen-aged son or daughter with a pleasing degree of privacy.

For full details and blueprints write The Loder Company, Revillon Building, Edmonton.

Bookshelves In Plywood

If you are planning to install bookshelves with a fine furniture appearance, the best material to use is hardwood plywood, ¾-inch thick. It makes a beautiful, stable shelf, and an advantage is that four 1x6-foot shelves can be cut from a single standard 4x6-foot hardwood plywood panel. Lengths of 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 10 feet are generally available in plywood panels.

Norway pine and jack pine trees grow best when planted in full sunlight.

Appliance-Like Finish Claimed for Enamel

Are you suffering from mid-winter doldrums? A freshly painted kitchen might give you a new lease on life and that extra push to take you into the crocus and daffodil season.

Choosing a color for your kitchen isn't any problem with a rainbow of colors at your fingertips. But knowing the right type of paint is more difficult.

Perhaps you have been marvelling at your kitchen appliances and how easily they are kept clean. It doesn't seem to matter if it's grease splashed from the frying pan or baking fumes from the oven, one wipe with a damp cloth and they've all disappeared.

And it's a good thing that they do clean so easily for you wouldn't buy a new stove each time it gets a smudge on it. But neither would you re-paint walls and cupboards soiled by steam, grease and food acids that are part of every kitchen.

HARD, TILE-LIKE

Enamel is the best type of paint to use in the kitchen where much washing is imperative. And now an enamel is available which gives an appliance-like finish. It's called "appliance-like" because it has the same clean-in-a-moment properties as your kitchen appliances.

This Cilux enamel has a hard, tile-like, smooth surface that repels dust and dirt and the inevitable cooking stains wipe off the walls as easily as from the refrigerator.

Greens, blues, pinks and yellows are fast becoming favorites for the kitchen and enamel keeps the color as bright as the day it was painted.

But if you still prefer a white kitchen you don't have to content yourself with the fact that in time it will turn a yellowish color. For now a super-white enamel ensures that the white will stay white no matter how much grease and fumes it is subjected to.

Of course, every kitchen needs a periodic cleaning and whether your kitchen has a new face or must be content with the old one, an occasional cleaning with mild detergent and water is a must.

Tom Uphill Would Jail Incompetent Vote Officials

ONE HUNDRED YEARS of B.C. history will be sketched by provincial librarian and archivist Willard Ireland at a public meeting at Victoria College Monday at 8.15 p.m., sponsored by the Victoria University Extension Association. His subject will be "British Columbia, 1858-1958 — A Century to Celebrate." A reception will follow the meeting. —Times photo.)

If election officers do not do their duty by voters' ballots they should be given "six months in the pen," Tom Uphill, veteran MLA for Fernie, told the legislature Friday.

Mr. Uphill was referring particularly to the absentee ballot. He said the man in charge of the ballot should be the most important man at election time.

"If he does not do his duty by sending those absentee votes where they belong, he should be treated as a criminal and given six months in the pen."

The Independent Labor member said his daughter told him she had never seen so much incompetency as she had in Vancouver during the last provincial election.

"In the Fernie riding no absentee ballots came in from Vancouver or Victoria," Mr. Uphill declared.

Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo Slocan) said he was "unhappy" about the election set-up.

"In any industrial province you are bound to find a tremendous moving about of people from one community to another in search of employment.

"In my own riding I would estimate that at least one out of every three voters moves out of the district in the space of four years. We should take account of this and make arrangements accordingly," he said.

"Many people do not even know to obtain the necessary forms in order to become a registered voter."

Pre-Election Enumeration Urged

Mr. Harding urged a complete enumeration of voters in B.C. at election time as was done in federal elections.

"This would give the franchise to many thousands who are deprived of the vote," he said, and added: "Very often we appoint deputy returning officers who don't know their job."

He suggested there should be a set date for provincial elections, but said "we would, of course, have to bring in regulations to take care of a government which might be defeated on the floor of the house."

He did not believe a government should be defeated every time a vote went against it.

"On major issues a government should resign when it is defeated. On smaller issues I do not think a vote of non-confidence should be grounds for an election."

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said the government would give serious consideration to Mr. Harding's suggestions excepting his proposal for a set election date.

Arthur Turner (Vancouver East), who proposed compulsory voting during an earlier debate, said: "Any time anyone asks for a licence of any kind is an opportunity to get them on the voters' list."

CCF Opposition leader Robert Strachan complained that on election day a number of ballots were sent to his riding of Cowichan-Newcastle that should have gone to other ridings.

"This is an example of how inefficiently votes were handled," he said.

Mrs. Lois Haggen (CCF-Grand Forks-Greenwood) urged that returning officers should visit hospitals and accept ballots from patients who could not otherwise cast their vote.

Ex-Wife Assaulter Placed on Bond

Robert M. Steel, 2659 Douglas, was placed on a $500 six month's good behaviour bond and given a suspended sentence in city court Friday after conviction for assault causing bodily harm to his ex-wife Myra Steel Monday night.

Mrs. Steel told the court her ex-husband picked her up in his car as she walked to work, stating that he had something to discuss with her.

There was an argument, she said, and he struck her in the left eye with his hand.

Steel said he was provoked into the act and had intended a peaceful meeting. He said he told his ex-wife "I don't want any trouble," to which she replied "Your troubles are just starting."

HIGH BAIL TO BE SET

VANCOUVER — Magistrate Oscar Orr Friday postponed until Monday his decision in an application for bail for 43-year-old John Buckell, charged with two counts of attempted murder.

He told Buckell's counsel, Jay Gould, earlier Friday that he would set bail but that "it will be high."

Buckell was charged with the attempted murder counts and one of attempted robbery with violence after an abortive bank raid in Vancouver last Friday.

Bank accountant Ron Compston and police constable Kenneth Miles were wounded in the incident, and magistrate Orr said he wished to get more definite information on the condition of Compston before setting bail.

Constable Kenneth Miles was released from hospital Friday, almost fully recovered from a bullet wound in the neck suffered while thwarting the attempted holdup.

Doctors said the bullet, which is lodged at the back of Miles' neck, may never be removed unless it causes trouble.

C of C Prefers Fort Rodd Hill As Sea Park, Not for Centennia

A motion requesting the department of national defence to set aside Esquimalt's Fort Rodd Hill for development as a historic site and salt water park, was passed by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce Friday.

The chamber felt the 44-acre property with its two fortresses and beaches should be dedicated as a park as a safeguard against the site being used for a housing subdivision.

In passing the motion, the chamber side-stepped the issue of deciding whether Fort Rodd Hill should be developed as a centennial project.

Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist trade group, proposed its development as a centennial project.

However, G. F. Dunn urged the directors to leave the matter of selecting a suitable centennial project to the centennial committee.

"It would be quite wrong for us to support a particular project at this time when a committee has been appointed to study and select a suitable project," he said. "We should wait until the centennial committee has made its recommendation."

Austin Curtis, president, said he fully supported the development of Fort Rodd Hill as a historic site but not as a centennial project.

He felt the centennial project should be something new to commemorate the province's anniversary.

Other members felt that Fort Rodd Hill isn't suitable as a centennial project because the property would require annua maintenance.

The centennial grant, it wa pointed out, was for develop ment of a new project.

Hundred Terrorized By Shots

(From BUP, CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—One man was slain and another wounded early today in a bizarre shooting in the nation's largest Chinatown.

The wild gun slaying came when hard-pressed Vancouver police were in the midst of a major new campaign against a rising wave of crime.

Detectives quizzed a short, dark-complexioned suspect and scores of horrified patrons from the Mayling Cabaret on the fringe of Vancouver's colorful Chinatown in an effort to find a motive. The incident, occurred at about 2 a.m., near the dance floor in the club.

Dead is John Henry Donaldson, 27, a driver for Kingsway Ambulance Ltd.

In hospital is Larry Brown, with a bullet wound in the upper leg.

Donaldson died seconds after being shot twice in the stomach from a distance of five feet with a .32 calibre revolver.

EYEWITNESS

Sally Phillips, a North Vancouver waitress, told police she was three feet from the gunman when he stood up and screamed "everybody sit down or I'll let you have it."

"His first shot went wild," she said. "Then the second shot hit the tall fellow (Donaldson). A third shot whistled right past my head and hit the back of one of the booth seats."

She said the gunman was tackled by a club employee and two off-duty police constables, William T. Daley and Jerry Myers.

"They hit him hard but he managed to squeeze off two more shots before they knocked the gun from his hand."

GRABS GUNMAN

Ernest Vlaovito, employee of the Mayling Club, said he was the first man to reach the suspect after the shooting, during which about 100 persons sat frozen in horror.

"I grabbed him and chopped him a couple of times across the bridge of the nose," he said.

"One of the police officers was trying to grab his gun arm, but he still fired a couple more shots."

Vlaovito, a one-time ambulance driver, was a friend of Donaldson's and had been talking to him a few minutes before.

"Then I heard a couple of shots and saw Johnny stagger and grab the railing around the dance floor.

FELL IN HEAP

He staggered about 15 feet holding on to the railing, then fell in a heap on the floor."

Constables Daley and Myers jumped the suspect as he headed for the door.

JUST MISSED

Another waitress, Mrs. Evelyn Robinson, said one of the shots "just missed" her head. She said the suspect was awfully calm while waiting for detectives to arrive. He was complaining to the police because they wouldn't let him have a cigaret."

Mrs. Robinson said she didn't think the suspect knew he had killed anyone.

Donaldson came to Vancouver from Johannesburg, South Africa, four years ago. He joined Kingsway Ambulance two years ago. He has no known relatives in Canada.

Million Strike In U.K.

Trans Canada Pipe Project Affected

LONDON (CP)—A million workers engaged in aircraft and other vital export industries began a wage strike at noon today.

Ten huge industrial belts through Britain were affected by today's walkout of engineering workers who are allied with striking shipyard men in a 40-union confederation.

The strike halted the manufacture of dozens of products ranging from sewing machines to Britain's world-selling "whispering giant," the turbo-prop Britannia. Bristol Airplane Company appealed in vain for its 16,000 workers to keep at work on the Britannia.

Work also stopped on one of the biggest single dollar contracts in Britain, $52,000,000 worth of pipeline materials for the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline. The materials were being prepared at Stockton-on-Tees.

(At Calgary, N. E. Tanner, president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, which is building the natural gas line from Alberta to Quebec, said he has no idea what effect the strike tieup will have on building plans. His company plans to have the 2,287-mile pipeline completed by 1958, with the first leg from Alberta to Winnipeg in operation this fall.)

The walkout started a few hours after settlement of a railway labor dispute and announcement that a strike by 200,000 shipyard workers may soon be ended.

Unions representing the industrial workers plan a progressive expansion of their walkout to close 4,300 plants employing 3,000,000 persons by April 6 unless there is a settlement of demands for a 10 per cent pay increase.

Manchester U. Enters Final In Cup Play

LONDON (Reuters) — Manchester United, mighty giant of English soccer, today reached the finals of the Football Association Cup by defeating Birmingham 2-0 at Sheffield.

West Bromwich Albion and Aston Villa fought to a 2-2 draw in the other semi-final match at Wolverhampton. They will replay the game at Birmingham Thursday.

Manchester United is in a good position to accomplish the Soccer "double"—winning both the Association Cup and the First Division league title—a feat last done 60 years ago. It also is in the semi-final round in the fight for the European Cup championship.

30 HURT, MUCH DAMAGE

San Francisco Still Rocking

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sharp after-shocks of Friday's big earthquake series jolted the San Francisco area early today.

A three-alarm fire in San Francisco followed a tremor that jolted many residents out of their sleep shortly after midnight. But assistant fire chief Bruno Bassi said the fire "was probably not" caused by the shock.

The after-shock, followed by several which were less severe, hit at 12.14 a.m.

Friday's quakes jolted San Francisco and the bay area, injuring 30 persons and causing cumulative and widespread damage almost impossible to assess but probably ranging into the millions.

At 11.30 p.m. Friday, 49 tremors, many of them minor, had been reported.

Bassi said the first alarm today came eight minutes after the 12.14 shock was reported.

Fifty persons were routed and three suffered slight injuries in the fire.

The fire department urged all residents to check for gas leaks, cracks in chimney flues and broken water lines.

The smallest discernable gas or water leak must be reported and repaired immediately, the department said.

Friday's main temblor was the worst since the disastrous 1906 quake here.

The shocks tolled the big bell on St. Patrick's Church on Mission Street in San Francisco. They stopped the huge clock in the tower of the Ferry Building, landmark at the foot of Market Street.

Some office workers on Market Street said it appeared to them the Ferry Building tower had shifted. They said they now could see the faces of two of the four clocks on the tower where before they could see only one. But inspectors called it an optical illusion.

U.K. Won't Restrict Canadian Imports, Macmillan to Tell PM

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent will receive assurance from British Prime Minister Macmillan here next week that the United Kingdom has no intention of trying to restrict the flow of Canadian goods to European markets.

He also will likely be asked for Canada's views on participation—as a full member or only as an observer—in a North Atlantic parliamentary assembly, first proposed formally last December by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

The Canadian government has been worried about the possible effects of the European common market and the proposed free trade area on Canadian markets in Europe.

Britain is not a member of the common market, a principal feature of which is a customs union, but wants to participate in the free-trade area if certain conditions are met.

The chief conditions are that overseas territories of member nations be excluded from the area and that agricultural products be excepted from the agreement. An accord between the United Kingdom and other European nations on these con-

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Winch's Memory Soothes House

The spirit of Ernest Winch, friend of the aged and unfortunate, seemed to linger over the House Friday on the occasion of what would have been his 78th birthday.

Not an angry word was spoken all day and both sides of the House seemed less acrimonious than usual.

In front of the Speaker's desk lay a small and inconspicuous wreath of violets and rosebuds—a silent tribute to a man who was respected by most and hated by none.

For, as Mr. Speaker Irwin said:

"Complete dedication to a cause is given to few men. It is well that we should keep green the memory of a man of whom it can be truly said that he gave all he had to the cause of the downtrodden, the aged and infirm . . ."

Mr. Irwin told the House that a similar floral tribute to the one in front of his desk had been sent to Mr. Winch's family in Burnaby.

"I sincerely feel I have correctly interpreted your wishes in this matter," he said.

★ ★ ★

The seat left by Ernest Winch has yet to be filled and CCF Opposition leader Robert Strachan raised the question as to when a by-election would be held in his constituency of Burnaby.

"The Premier as yet has given no thought to this by-election," said Mr. Bennett, using the third person to good effect. "But within reasonable limits it will be considered."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Lois Haggen (CCF-Grand Forks - Greenwood) never says anything in the House unless she feels that it has to be said.

Friday, when members were discussing the Elections Act, she asked:

"In my constituency a number of patients in hospital lost the vote. Could the returning officer visit hospitals to accept ballots from patients?"

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black replied there was no such provision at the moment.

"Could there not be?" Pursued Mrs. Haggen.

"We will consider this matter," Mr. Black replied.

Reopens Talk With Nasser

CAIRO (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold again met President Nasser today on the complex problems plaguing the Middle East.

Accompanied by his deputy, Ralph Bunche, the secretary-general went to Nasser's rest home on the Nile near here for talks expected to continue through the day. The discussions were expected to cover the issues of the Suez Canal, the Gaza Strip, the Gulf of Aqaba and the deployment of the UN Emergency Force.

Hammarskjold arrived here Thursday and held an opening six-hour session with Nasser. He [illegible] Friday with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi.

ditions would mean that Canadian agricultural products, chiefly wheat, would not be frozen out of the British market.

The Canadian prime minister, Trade Minister C. D. Howe and External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson are scheduled to arrive here Monday for a day and a half of meetings with Macmillan, Lloyd and other British officials.

British spokesmen here say Macmillan will assure Canadian leaders that the United Kingdom will continue to consult the Commonwealth at every step of the devolvement of the free trade area and will do nothing to damage the traditional Canadian markets in Britain.

Menawhile, warm British welcome of the United States decision to play a bigger role in the Baghdad Middle East Defence Pact was obvious as Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower neared conclusion of their talks on world strategy.

ATOM TALKS

Atomic aspects of military defence were expected to dominate what probably will be the last working day of a three-day conference of the Western Big Two.

Officials said there is a possibility Macmillan and Eisenhower will hold a final meeting Sunday morning, but it is hoped the main work will be concluded by tonight. Eisenhower plans to leave for Washington Sunday.

Macmillan will remain until the middle of next week to confer with Prime Minister St. Laurent, who is to arrive Monday.

Macmillan and Eisenhower, with their foreign secretaries and advisers, reviewed defence issues for 90 minutes Friday, and the main theme was believed to have been the streamlining of Britain's defence efforts by reducing manpower and increasing firepower.

LONDON (UP)—The United States decision to join the Baghdad Pact's military committee drew cheers from western nations and denunciation from the Soviet bloc.

Israeli sources saw the step as the most important move yet toward blocking both Egyptian and Communist expansion in the Middle East since the Israeli invasion of the Sinai Peninsula.

France, while not a member of the five-nation pact, welcomed the American decision as a guarantee against U.S. "go-it-alone" policy in the Middle East.

The Soviets maintained America was behind the pact, which Moscow says was conceived as an "aggressive, warmongering institution" to threaten the Soviet Union.

The action-filled three-day meeting will mark the final get-together of old Rotary District 151. Last year the district was split, with the offspring, District 152, embracing Vancouver Island and a major portion of Washington.

District 151 comprises about 2,200 members and District 152 about 2,700.

Rotarians here are playing hosts in the best traditions, with each club member responsible for entertainment in their own homes, and to see that the visiting delegates get a good look at the scenic spots in and surrounding the city.

Teamster Boss Faces New Charge in Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said today that teamsters union cash flowed to Dave Beck from the west coast even after he was promoted to the union's presidency in 1952.

Robert F. Kennedy said this is one of the points that will be brought out when Beck, the union's west coast boss until his promotion, is called as a witness Tuesday. Kennedy is chief counsel of a special Senate committee investigating racketeering in labor and industry.

Kennedy said $270,000-plus, which Beck repaid west coast units of the teamsters union starting in 1954, after income tax agents began digging into his affairs, is "by no means the end of the picture on Mr. Beck."

Kennedy also said the committee knows where Beck got the money to make the $270,000 repayments. He did not elaborate.

NO LOAN RECORD

Beck has said he borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 from the union, without interest or security. But he said he has repaid it all. Beck says he borrowed the money before he became president four and one-half years ago of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America.

Committee investigators testified Friday their study of union records indicates no loans to Beck.

On Friday committee chairman John McClellan (Dem., Arkansas) listed $709,420.14 in teamster union funds which he said were either lost, misappropriated, unaccounted for or used for questionable purposes. A big part of the total was the loan to Beck.

PARLIAMENT EXPECTED TO RISE IN 3 WEEKS

By VICTOR J. MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Members of Parliament expect within three weeks to have ended their labors in the present session and to be packing up to return to their constituencies in preparation for the general election.

Both those on the government side and on the Opposition side of the House appeared in agreement as the week came to a close that the Commons would prorogue by April 12 at the latest with dissolution in the following week.

Date of the election still is not definite. But it will be either June 10 or June 17 in the opinion of most members. At present there is a tendency to favor the former date, but June 17 may be finally selected.

VETERAN DIPLOMAT

Faint Hope Seen In Algerian Crisis

Small hope of any immediate solution to the French-Algeria impasse was seen here Friday by veteran diplomat Lieut.-Col. E. W. Fletcher, CBE, FRGS.

He said that the situation is now that the French won't negotiate unless the rebels halt action, and the rebels say they won't stop short of independence.

Algerian trouble has been caused "more by communists than anything else," he said, adding it was the French themselves who introduced communism to Algeria.

Col. Fletcher, who has spent more than 30 years in both Near and Far East, said he believed the mass of French Algerians were "heartily sick" of the conflict there, and would vote against continuance of Algeria as part of France.

Most of the so-called French in Algeria, he pointed out, did not come from France but from Spain, Italy and Greece, but over the years have become French in association and name.

These settlers include a small group afraid of losing their interests should France withdraw, he said. This group was backed by financial interests with lobbies in Paris, and by certain high officials.

Of Morocco, which achieved self-government last year after being a French protectorate, he said the main trouble was that of production and economics.

He indicated France would still have control of Morocco if France had now wound-up virtually operating the country.

There were 40,000 French petty officials in Morocco, and 6,000 French policemen.

"The laxity on the part of the French is that they allowed too many colonists in."

Then there was the "get in, make money, and get out" actions of a small number of the French which did nothing to appease the native population, he said.

The colonel left here today for a speaking engagement in Vancouver and after a cross-country tour of Canada and the United States expects to return to the West Coast about the end of May.

Col. Fletcher, after a generation in the India diplomatic service, also set up the Pakistan diplomatic and consular posts.

He spoke to the Victoria branch of the English Speaking Union here Thursday night.

Cutbacks Cause Import Curb Demands in U.S.

By WALTER BREEDE, JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Surpluses plagued businessmen in several lines in the United States this week.

With spring in the air and hopes for a business pickup riding high, there was talk of too much aluminum, too much food, too much cloth, too many appliances, too many medium - priced cars, too much gasoline and too much oil.

Cutbacks were announced at a number of key spots. Demands were heard for tighter curbs on imports.

Farmers told the U.S. department of agriculture they intend to plant 334,000,000 acres in major crops this year. That's 3½ per cent below 1956 and the smallest acreage devoted to important crops since 1917. Barring a sudden rise in yields per acre, the reduction could push farm prices up.

Sharp reductions in the maximum permissable production of oil were decreed by conservation agencies in Texas and Louisiana.

STEEL CUT BACK

Steel producers cut back a little this week; scheduled output of 2,392,000 tons was the lowest so far this year and 2.3 per cent below the same week last year. Behind the curtailment: Falling demand for automotive steel.

In Detroit, the car industry picture was mixed. Production of some makes was trimmed sharply while others produced to the hilt.

Elsewhere on the U.S. business front, the first week of spring brought the first signs of a possible easing of the tight money situation. Dealers in bankers' acceptances (short - term loans for financing shipments of goods) trimmed their interest rates one-quarter of one per cent.

But home builders complained that mortgage money is as hard to find as ever.

Prices of new cars and some home appliances may go a little lower this spring, predicts Ewan Clague, head of the federal government's bureau of labor statistics. The bureau's cost - of - living index, published at week's end, showed consumer prices in February at a record high. At 118.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average, the index was four per cent higher than in January and at new peak for the sixth month in a row.

And if selected they're almost assured of a trip to the altar within there years, according to AA staistics. Starting salary is $255.

Jury Finds Drowning Accidental

Glen Harry Jacob Pearson, 23, Sidney, died by accidental drowning in Shoal Harbor early Friday, a coroner's inquiry decided Friday afternoon.

Investigation was made by RCMP and Dr. E. C. Hart.

The young man apparently slipped from a walkway leading to floats at Towers' Boat Rentals as he walked to a friend's boat shortly after midnight.

His absence was noted about 15 or 20 minutes after leaving friends. They spotted a package of cigarets which Pearson had been carrying floating near the walkway.

He had been employed as a crewman on a coast steamship.

Funeral arrangements by Sands Funeral Home, Sidney, are set for Monday at 2.30 p.m. in the chapel.

Concealed Knife Carried to Avoid Second Beating

James Ernest Curtis, no fixed address, was fined $25 in city police court today when he pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed knife.

Police said the accused explained the weapon as a protection against getting beaten up in Vancouver.

He was stopped about midnight on Grant Street and given a routine search. The knife was between his boot and leg in a scabbard.

Curtis, police said, had been beaten up in Vancouver and "it wasn't going to happen again," they said he told them.

Court heard a list of previous criminal convictions against the accused.

Thieves 'Soiled' By Inside Job

If you do not fall into either of these categories, report to Dr. T. M. C. Taylor, head of the biology department."

But it suggested in a brief on tourist trade promotion that the "highly protected" animal does not appeal to the sporting instinct like "a comely young woman" who could be picked to appear for the province at the sports shows.

Northern B.C. Milligan Lake Oil Discovery

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—An oil discovery in the Milligan River area of northeastern B.C was reported Friday.

Reports said separate exploration holes drilled on Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Co. and on Northern Foothills Agreement lands each had yielded oil.

Some Petroleum industry sources in Calgary suggest "they could be commercial wells."

The discovery is some distance from the Boundary Lake field—B.C.'s first oil field—and if tests show the oil to be in commercial volume it could indicate another oil field for this province.

The wells were drilled by Dallas Drilling Co., Northern Foothills Agreement group is composed of Texaco, Shell, British American and Mobiloil.

The oil was reported flowing from the triassic geological zone, the same zone from which oil is being produced in the Boundary Lake field.

Natural Gas Stocks Draw Interest, Uraniums Settle in Mixed Pattern

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Enthusiasm switched from uraniums to companies which have interests in natural gas production and distribution during this week's trading on Canadian stock markets.

Uraniums settled lower in the first two sessions as profit-taking drifted through the section following the rise of the previous few weeks. They settled into a quiet, mixed pattern for the balance of the week.

In the last three sessions, natural gas issues drew most of the investors' interest. Although gains were not big, observers said in the next few weeks natural gas issues should either step smartly ahead or hold their present level.

They based their forecasts on the results of extensive developments and projects being conducted by most natural gas companies and firms connected to them.

WATCH GAS WELL

One development watched closely was the new gas well in the St. Lawrence lowlands area of Trois-Rivieres, Que. About a dozen companies are revising their summer's exploration program following the recent success.

Many western oil concerns are surveying their holdings with an eye to the gas pipe line situation, anticipating an increased demand for natural gas.

Activity in other sections of the markets was dull and uninteresting. The trend among industrials, base metals and most western oils—with the exception of firms with gas wells—was irregular.

Profit-taking ruled most groups and there was no leadership from Wall Street, which was also undergoing a week of listless activity.

Pipe lines and utilities recorded the major gains among industrials listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Trans Mountain was up $4.50 to $119.50 and Interprovincial $2.75 to $67.75, Interprovincial Utilities $3.25 to $19.75 and Union Gas $2.50 to $73.50. Page-Hersey Tubes added $5.50 to $120.50 and Algoma Steel $4.50 to $118.50, but volume on these two stocks was light.

ADVOCATE FEATURED

Advocate Mines featured mining trading and closed the week with a 75-cent loss at $8.25. The stock had climbed from $5 in January to $10.25 in mid-week while rumors circulated to the effect that Johns - Manville was interested in Advocate's Asbestos property in Newfoundland.

Canadian Export Gas led western oil issues, climbing 90 cents to $6.50.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials up 1.54 to 454.17; golds off .41 to 76.08; base metals off 1.0 to 207.46; western oils up 4.09 to 162.55.

Index changes at Montreal: Banks up 0.07 to 50.26; utilities up 2.1 to 144.5; industrials off 0.6 to 278.0; combined off 0.2 to 233.5; papers off 3.17 to 1,320.85; golds up 0.54 to 73.53.

Page Hersey Offers 1-for-6 Share Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Page Hersey Tubes Ltd., announced Friday its shareholders of record April 3 will be given the right to purchase one additional common share at $78 a share for each six common shares held. The rights will expire April 26.

PROUD STUDENTS PLOT VIKINGS' COURSE

Students at Victoria College are getting a brush-up on Canadian geography as they proudly plot trail blazed by their Vikings on way to Dominion junior men's basketball final. Flags show results of campaigns at Lethbridge, Saskatoon and Winnipeg and athletic director Hugh Farquhar points to scene of Vikings' final battle. Cats' Script Too Early? Francis Lost to Amerks

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

NIBBLES AND DRIBBLES

Perhaps I have a tin ear for optimism but it seems to me that the only way the Cougars are going to make sweet music in the playoffs is if Maestro Marcel Pelletier climbs up on the podium and beats off the New Westminster Royals with his baton.

The way I see it, this will have to be a solo. Ensemble work will not suffice.

A sprightly rhapsody at home these last eight games, the Cougars have been an ear-tweaking clinker on the road. Away from home they play nothing but dirges.

Unless they tear up their music and come up with a new arrangement, the Cougars will lose both games in New Westminster and whack the Royals in Victoria.

That's not a prediction; it's just a form chart.

Nothing but past history says the Cougars can't win in New Westminster. But the Cougars' own record is their worst enemy.

Still, it could be.

If Maestro Marcel gets worked up in one of his allegro moods, he could render the Royals down to a creeping andante and provide a jarring coda for Hal Laycoe's New Westminster club.

Stranger things have happened.

Little fellow named Joshua once blew a horn solo and a whole city fell down.

* * *

And isn't it true that the brightest story to hit these parts in many a turn is the Victoria College Vikings?

These are the kids we saw playing in midget tournaments a few years ago and now they are heading for Toronto for the Dominion junior basketball final.

Up at the college, the students are digging down deep. College students never have much extra scratch but the odd quarters, dimes and nickels are being pooled to keep up a steady stream of telegrams between the College and Vikings.

But let's hope that the Winnipeg hospitality doesn't hurt the Vikings. The kids today were scheduled to be the guests of a Winnipeg dairy and the high point of the tour was to be an ice cream eating contest between team members. Those who know are betting on Waldo Skillings by a quart.

Casey Stengel continues to hash up the English language in a manner that makes Desi Arnez sound like an honor graduate of the Golden Gavel Club.

For instance, Casey recently held forth on Yankee Bill Skowron as follows:

"Now you take Skowron which started as an infielder and plays the outfield two years and I found he may be better on first because he's too valuable a man not to find a spot for him with his bat. I remember he played the infield some in college and now that's all about him."

Any questions?

Bill Gadsby recently had a look at himself after 11 years of National Hockey League warfare and this is the injury chart the New York Ranger star came up with: Shoulder separation, left leg fractured twice and re-broken twice the same season; both big toes broken; thumb broken; nose broken eight times; 212 stitches taken on face and head and 25 more on other parts of the body.

But Gadsby says, "It's a good life . . . You get to meet fine people, you see the country and supposing you do get hurt. The club pays your medical bills and your salary, too."

NHL to Jell Final Issues

By KENNEDY WELLS, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The National Hockey League's 1956-57 season will be history after this weekend, but much rests on the outcome of the final five games.

Most important probably is the battle between Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins for second place and the $500 for each player that goes with it. Members of the third-place club get $300.

The two teams are tied and each one has one game left, but the Bruins are working under additional stress. They must win tonight against New York Rangers, but if Canadians win too, they will take second spot because of their better scoring record.

Besides second place, a bagful of personal awards and records will be decided.

HOWE HAS EDGE

The winner of this race will get $1,000 and the Art Ross Trophy; the runner-up collects $500.

The edge here must go to Howe and Lindsay since they have two games to play, while Beliveau must do all his scoring against Chicago Black Hawks tonight.

Red Wings play both their games against fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs. Lindsay, incidentally, is two assists away from Bert Olmstead's all-time record of 56 set last season.

Finally there is the goaltenders' battle between Wings' Glenn Hall and Montreal's Jacques Plante.

Here again the Detroit player would seem to have the edge. Hall has allowed two less goals than Plante this season, and while he has played one less game, his final two are against the low-scoring Maple Leafs, while Plante must face Chicago Black Hawks, who have showed surprising scoring muscle during the last half of the season.

The winner will get the Vezina Trophy and $1,000.

Cougars Nip Royals in Overtime

Victoria 5, Westminster 4

By DOUG PEDEN

If they had saved that one for next week, Memorial Arena might have been in the market for a new roof.

As it was, Friday night's Western Hockey League game will go down in the record books merely as a pleasantly-played 5-4 overtime victory for Victoria Cougars over New Westminster Royals that extended the Cats' home-ice winning streak through eight games.

The manner in which the Cougars clipped Hal Laycoe's Royals provided a spine-tingling final act to the "Shrine Night" program.

Playoff hockey being what it is, just imagine what the victory roar might do to the seams of that barrel roof if this script could be held over for another showing at the arena next Thursday, when the same two clubs tangle in the second game of their best-of-three western division semi-final.

Doug Macauley has scored midway in the third period to bring Cougars from behind and the teams are still tied at 3-3 heading into the final minute.

LAST MINUTE

Pete Durham carries the puck into the Victoria zone and feeds a pass to Denny Olson. The gangly forward stickhandles around two defenders and pushes the puck between Marcel Pelletier's skates at 19.03.

Royals are ahead, 4-3.

Cougars storm into Royals' end from the faceoff. Pelletier scrambles to the bench at 19.32 and is replaced by a sixth attacker. Cougars are still buzzing around Bentley but fans are heading for exits when Bruce Carmichael slides a six-footer into the net with two seconds remaining to force overtime.

Fans hurry back to seats.

Victoria misses three good chances and Pelletier, back in the nets, has a couple of scares before Lionel Heinrich starts a play that goes, by way of Doug Anderson and Don Chiupka, to Colin Kilburn.

The Victoria coach scores.

Cougars win, after six minutes of overtime.

That's how it ended up Friday, but they'll probably tear up the script before the playoff opens at New Westminster Tuesday.

SCHEDULE WINDUP

Both clubs round out their league schedule tonight, Cougars meeting Seattle Americans, who earned a bye into the final with their first-place finish, and the runner-up Royals hosting Vancouver Canucks.

Gordy Matheson, Vancouver junior who went to Melville Millionaires junior club after attending the Cougar training camp, took over a defence post for the injured Nelson Bulloch Friday and played so well he will miss tonight's game.

Matheson, who will lose his amateur status if he plays more than three professional games, impressed Kilburn in his first pro appearnace and will watch from the sidelines tonight. "We might want to use him against the Royals," said Kilburn.

Bentley is only one shutout away from Pelletier's league record of eight and Wayne Brown quickly snuffed his hopes of equalling the mark Friday when he beat the slim netminder at two minutes of the first period.

Brown, who also collected two assists, fired his 27th goal of the season, after rookie Alan Lloyd had evened the count, to make it 2-1 for Cougars at the end of the period.

Gordy Fashoway, with his 38th, and Olson scored the goals that gave Royals a 3-2, second-period lead.

LESTER PATRICK STORY

Cougars Win Stanley Cup

By ARCHIE WILLS

(Copyright, 1957, By The Victoria Daily Times)

(Seventh Instalment)

Lester was anxious to get back into Stanley Cup competition. He made his first move to fashion a winner with a master stroke in 1920 when he signed Frank Fredrickson, fresh from captaining the Winnipeg Falcons to victory in the Olympics. "Freddie" got $3,500 for his first season, the highest salary paid up to that time. He earned it, too.

Wills

Building a winner, however, takes time and Lester went through many periods of frustration. He even changed the name of his club. He thought Victoria no longer should be labelled "Aristocrats" and chose the name "Cougars," which still remains.

In 1924 the Seattle team had to be disbanded and Lester picked up Happy Holmes, Jack Walker, Frank Foyston and Gordon Fraser. This was all he needed.

By this time he had benched himself and confined his activities to coaching and managing the club. When the schedule ended Victoria were in third place and this always provides Lester with a sound argument for the value of the "playoffs," which the Patricks introduced.

"We went on to win the Stanley Cup," says Lester. "Had it not been for the playoffs we wouldn't have had the chance. We would have been eliminated earlier. However, playoffs add interest and the fans get more kick out of the season, not knowing which clubs will win out. Just take this season in the Coast League. Victoria and Vancouver have given their fans plenty of excitement as to which of them would make the third place. We thought up the playoffs for that reason. To keep the issue in doubt as long as possible. We introduced the playoffs in 1919 and they have been adopted by many other sports since. Certainly, it means more money in gate receipts, but, we are professionals, and honestly admit that we are out to make money, if we can."

Victoria swept through the playoffs, eliminating both Calgary and Edmonton.

Mighty Canadiens Struck Down

The mighty and colorful Canadiens were the eastern winners and came west to teach Lester's underestimated Cougars a lesson. But, what a surprise they got and what a thrill the fans here packed away in their memories.

It was the biggest sports event Victoria ever had, being the first and only time a world's series was staged in the Capital City.

Lester had scouted Canadiens and discovered that their three star forwards, Auriel Joliat, Howie Morenz and Billy Boucher, played 55 of the 60 minutes.

He built up two forward lines. The series became a shamble. Lester's two lines skated Canadiens into the ice and in the final, and deciding game, Victoria won 6-1.

The two forward lines were another of Lester's innovations and, changing them on the fly, added further zest to the increased tempo.

"Two forward lines made it like a relay race," says Lester. "The pace never let up. Today we have three forward lines which was a development from our experiment in 1925."

Naturally, Lester was pleased to hand Victoria the Stanley Cup and he went about getting his team in shape to retain it next year. When the Cougars were half way through the schedule two of their defence men were out of action. Lester had been skating in practice and decided he'd better get into the game.

'I know I was 42 but I figured, if I could conserve my old legs and use my noodle, I might get by although a lot of the players were half my age and pretty rugged," he recalls.

Get by he did. He single-handed won several games, including an important one against Vancouver in which he scored the only goal in overtime.

In Portland he deflected the puck off his leg into his own net and Hap Holmes, the goalie, was dejected.

"Never mind, Hap, I'll get that one back for you," consoled Lester.

Right down the ice he went and bagged a pippin.

Lester Denied Greatest Thrill

Victoria waltzed into the playoffs again, largely on the cagey stick of Lester. He saw visions of playing once more in a world's series.

But fate struck in the form of Bun Cook's hickory. Lester was breaking in on Saskatoon's net when Bun rapped him across his gloved right hand. Examination revealed that the thumb was broken.

Victoria knocked over Edmonton and Saskatoon in the playoffs and went to Montreal to play the millionaire Maroons in the world's series.

"It was a great disappointment for me not to be able to play in that series," comments Lester. "Just think, I would have been playing in my old backyard, before people I had been raised with. Just to have played in a world series at 42 would have been something. But it wasn't to be and maybe it was best that way. The Maroons were a very heavy and hard-bumping team and maybe I would have got something worse than a broken thumb. Anyway, I wish I could have had the chance to play just the same."

He probably was lucky he didn't play in that series. I remember the opening game as I was there to cover the series.

One of the players, Jocko Anderson, was doing a specialty of his, killing off a penalty, when he was heavily charged by Babe Seibert. Jocko's leg was broken.

That took the starch out of the Cougars and the series wound up in four games, Victoria winning the third.

Few knew it then, but that was the last game for Lester and his Cougars.

MONDAY: Lester moves to New York.

Seattle Goalie Injured

There were four victories in the Western Hockey League Friday night but the biggest news was made by a staggering loss.

The coast division champion Seattle Americans absorbed a painful jolt when they lost the services, for an indefinite time, of starry goal-tender Emil (The Cat) Francis.

Francis, former National Hockey League star, was put out of action when he suffered a shoulder dislocation. The injury occurred in Seattle's meaningless game with Vancouver Canucks and, if Francis is out for any length of time, may cost the Americans the coast division playoff championship.

The desperate Americans reached into the Vancouver crowd and plucked out 16-year-old Ken Noble, a Vancouver juvenile player who has played only three years of hockey.

Noble took over in the Amerks nets and stopped 30 shots, to ringing cheers from the Vancouver fans, as Canucks won the game, 9-7.

There was no indication this morning how seriously Francis was injured, how long he would be out or who would replace him if his injury is serious enough to shelve him.

On the prairies, veteran Tony Leswick scored the 200th goal of his pro career as Edmonton Flyers downed Calgary Stampeders, 4-1; and Brandon goalie Lucien Dechene was cut badly on the face as the Regals scored a 4-2 victory over Winnipeg

Dechene caught a puck on the face in the third period and was replaced by Winnipeg's spare goalie, Julian Klimkiw.

Plans for Inter-City Loop Stewing

Victoria tenpin bowlers may be competing in a traveling league next season.

Interest shown in the B.C. zone finals at Gibson's Bowladrome and Strathcona Alleys last weekend has hatched plans to enter two Victoria squads in a proposed six-team loop, which would include two entries from Vancouver and one each from New Westminster and Nanaimo.

Spectators were packed in like sardines at Strathcona last Sunday night as Wally Iverson came from behind to capture the provincial crown with a 24-game total of 4,499.

Also sizzling on the fire is a proposal to stage a series of doubles matches between Victoria and Vancouver duos. It appears certain the doubles competitions will be started next winter and their fate will probably depend on fan attendance.

* * *

Final major tenpin competition of the season gets under way at Gibson's Sunday with the running of the team event in the 17th annual city handicap championships.

Thirty-eight teams will start after the title won last year by Watson's Men's Wear and will roll in three shifts, starting at 1, 3 and 9 p.m.

Singles and doubles events will be held next Sunday.

Sunday's schedule follows:

1.00—Willshire Heat, King's Hotel, Drake Hotel, Six Mile Hotel, Day's Spring Works, Victoria Press, Tillicum A.C., Hocking & Forbes, VMD, Green's ANR, Totem Grill, Bapco, Thirteens, Fairfield Service.

3.00 — Suncrest Senior, Belaire Cabinets, Suncrest Commercial, Wagners News, Cigarette Vending, HBC Wholesale, Dominion Meat, Princess Mary Restaurant, Island Pacific Oil, Langford Furnaces.

9.00—Clubb's Tobacconists, Gorge Hotel, Grand Spot News, British Public Schools, Lucky Lager, Watson's Men's Wear, Shaw Sheet Metal, Strathcona Cafe, Sherwin-Williams Paint, Island Taxi, Dorman's Men's Wear, Sports, All-Stars, Meteors.

ICE CREAM MACHINES AND AUTOMATIC WASHERS, TOO!

Life in Navy's Newest Submarine Hunter Eye-Opener to Matelots of Former Skeena

Final acceptance trials for the new destroyer escort Skeena took place off Vancouver Friday. One of press party aboard was Times City Hall reporter Pete Loudon who made wartime cruise in original Skeena. Three of the crew of the old ship are serving in the new. Here are Loudon's impressions of Skeena's rebirth:

By PETE LOUDON

We used a toilet plunger and a bucket for our "dhobey," now they have automatic washers.

We had a record player and now they have television, hi-fi and a piano in the messdeck.

The reincarnation of HMCS Skeena, witnessed on a shakedown cruise Friday, couldn't have startled me more if the gunner's mate had served tea at high noon in the seamen's mess.

They go to sea now with special sea dutymen closed up on a breech-loading ice cream machine.

Where we used to de-spot our blues with fluids filched from fire extinguishers, now they have a dry-cleaning unit—complete with steam press.

They've got bunks mattressed with foam rubber—each one with a reading lamp.

Once we slept on the deck in the old Skeena when there was no room left to sling another hammock. Sea water, leaking into the messes, sloshed around us. We were as wet when we went on watch as when we came off.

It's a Far Cry

The Skeena that's bringing the name back to Esquimalt is a far cry from the Skeena that back-boned the west coast fleet from 1931 to 1939, or prowled the wartime Atlantic . . .

There were 10 of us, very ordinary seamen, in HMCS Assiniboine. We got a "jetty-jump" to Skeena, a loan draft for one trip, while the "Bones" was being patched.

It was August, 1942—a black time in the North Atlantic. We were in a blue funk. If Skeena didn't return from convoy duty in time, Assiniboine would sail to Canada, for refit and leave and we would be stuck for more months of escort.

But despite the discomforts of a cramped ship, the leaky ventilators, a night "flap" with star shells and depth charges, Skeena proved to be a "happy ship." That is the proudest title a ship can win. It's awarded by her severest critics—the men who sail in her.

She had a novel trick at the start that braced even the "scaredest" among us. She cleared harbor with Col. Bogey's march booming from her loud hailer, echoing back from the craggy rock gates of St. John's, Nfld.

Her grub was good. Her crew was tops. And her captain made a game of drills that would be tiresome on lesser ships.

In between the real actions, they'd pipe, "A, B and X guns' crews throw all torpedoemen down the lower messdeck" or "repel boarders" and with half the crew playing enemy and dropping from the rigging, there were battles Nelson would have cheered.

We left the convoy with the British at 30 West and came home in company with Saguenay. The 10 of us were drafted back to Assiniboine and Skeena went on with her war.

Her record shows she rescued over 300 men from the sea. She fought wolf packs that sent 16 of her merchantmen charges to the bottom in one engagement. She shared in sinking four subs, three flak ships, three armed trawlers.

Deserves the Best

Her battle honors were Atlantic 1939-44, Normandy 1944, and Biscay 1944. Twelve of her captains rose to flag rank.

She died in a gale on the rocks of Iceland in October, 1944, and 15 of her men rest there yet.

Now born again, she emerges as a $24,000,000 Buck Rogers fantasy, twice as big and with a Sunday punch that makes her one of the world's foremost potential sub-smashers.

And if her men mostly will stand their watches below decks, her officers direct her course from a bridge sealed from the weather, if they eat ice cream at sea, relax with TV and hi-fi, these privileges have been earned for them.

They go with the battle honors.

HERE'S LOUDON, 15 years ago aboard old Skeena, doing his wash as Nelson may have done it with a bucket of "hotters" and a plumber's friend.

MONTE ROBERTS

Some newspapermen are in the habit of keeping scrapbooks, in which are pasted the by-line stores of which they—the newspapermen—were reasonably proud at the moment of writing.

We have one such newspaperman on the staff of the Times. He is a man of many years experience in the writing business, and the other day he started leafing through his scrapbook.

Here are some of the statements he discovered he had written:

"There are several thousand people in this area I have not had the privilege of meeting."

"A pig could actually be said to have discovered New Brunswick's longest cave."

"Defence packaging in Canada has at last had its wraps removed."

"Chances are your milkman knows you better than you know him."

"There is a present dearth of first class Canadian zoologists."

"The year was only five days old when a tiny, frozen body of a boy came tumbling out of a bin of coal and landed at the feet of a workman."

"If your toothbrush has been around long enough to consider it an old family friend, give it the brush-off."

"Jenny trudged up the creaking stairs to the choir loft."

"Civilization has reached a pretty peak when Indians buy their canoes from the factory."

"Excuth me, but I'ff loht my teeth on t' train."

"No bird looks quite so natural when stuffed as an owl, as it's a stuffy bird anyway."

"Packaging breaks down into five groups: ream, skid, bundles, case and roll."

"Head of the Ukrainian Church has condemned absorption of the Uniate Church of the Western Ukraine by the Russian Orthodox."

"Here, Mrs. George Blackmore, the former Lena Miller, has been practicing her embalming profession since 1936."

There was more, much more, in the veteran newspaperman's scrapbook.

But the above is enough to make you understand why he has stopped keeping scrapbooks.

In fact, it's a wonder he doesn't try to get into some other line of work.

Esquimalt Man Badly Hurt In Car Crash

Condition Poor Says Hospital

One man is in poor condition and a second in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital, where both were taken late Friday with back injuries suffered in an auto smash on Sooke Road.

The seriously injured man was identified as Peter Hallas, 19, 625 Lampson. His companion was Howard Green, 18, 925 Arcadia, who is believed to have been driving.

Both were rushed to hospital in Langford ambulance, summoned by Colwood RCMP.

Their car, of which they were sole occupants, apparently missed a curve and stop sign on Metchosin Road at the intersection of Sooke Road about 10.20 p.m.

It had been traveling east on Metchosin Road and continued into the front yard of a house across the road before coming to rest.

Newsboy Warns Car Owners Garage Afire

A passing paper boy awoke occupants of a house at 2805 Cook about 4.50 a.m. today to tell them their two-car garage was afire.

A 1954 Pontiac was extensively damaged in the blaze. It is owned by Sam Pasacreta, upstairs occupant of the Cook Street house owned by Eric Naslund, who also kept his auto in the garage.

Mr. Naslund's car, a 1947 Plymouth, was moderately damaged, firemen said.

There was no known reason for the fire, which did little damage to the garage.

RAW MATERIAL FOR QUEEN'S TOTEM

Cedar log which will be carved into 100-foot totem as B.C.'s centennial gift to Queen Elizabeth was moved today to Thunderbird Park for ceremonial "first cut." Planning to watch carving as often as possible is Ken O'Coffey, 12 (foreground), who was on hand for ceremony. (Times Photo.)

Vancouver Wants Duplicate Of Totem Going to Queen

Work began officially today on British Columbia's centennial gift to Queen Elizabeth—a 100-foot totem pole to be carved by Chief Mungo Martin of the Kwakiutl Indian tribe.

The first cut in the giant cedar log was made by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at a ceremony in Thunderbird Park.

Prior to the ceremony it was learned that a group of Vancouver citizens hope to commission the Indian carvers to make a duplicate of the Queen's totem as one of the city's centennial projects.

TWO LOGS

Powell River Co., which donated the "raw material" for the royal totem, sent two almost-identical cedar logs from the Queen Charlotte Island.

Mungo Martin chose one for the Queen; the other, still at the Island Tug and Barge Co. wharf after being towed down the coast, is sought by the Vancouver group.

At today's official ceremony, Premier Bennett was represented by Lands and Forests Minister Ray G. Williston, who explained the carving on the pole would depict the Indian's idea of the beginning of life in the province.

REPRESENT ALL

Mr. Williston said there would be ten main phases to the design. It will be carved in the Kwakiutl art style, but would represent all the carving tribes in B.C.

Work will be done by Mungo and David Martin and Henry Hunt, the three native carvers who created the world's tallest totem, now standing in Beacon Hill Park.

Lieutenant-Governor Ross accepted the totem on behalf of the Queen before using a "D" adze to make the first cut.

Funeral Monday For Former City Liquor Vendor

Funeral service will be held Monday afternoon for William Robinson Pillar, 84, resident of Victoria for most of his life.

Mr. Pillar, formerly of 1150 Summit Avenue, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday. He was employed here as a liquor vendor prior to retirement in 1938.

Ottawa Blocks Park In Colwood

Ottawa has rejected an application from Colwood Ratepayers' Association to buy 62 acres on top of Triangle Mountain for development as a centennial park project.

Ted Botting, secretary-treasurer, said today Crown Assets Corporation had informed the association that it put the property on the open market in order to realize as much as possible through its sale, and had received several "good offers."

As a result, the association will proceed with plans for a children's playground as its alternate centennial project.

Fined $250 After Fort St. Crash

Convicted in city police court today for impaired driving about midnight Friday, Henry Bell, 1733 Amphion, was fined $250 and his driver's licence suspended.

Cons. Glen Short observed the accused drive at speeds estimated at between 40 and 45 miles an hour on Fort prior to hitting a pole on the wrong side of the street near Morrison, swinging back to the proper side and striking another pole at Morrison and Fort.

Shortly before, Bell had driven east on Pandora and struck a parked car at 1317 Pandora, after which he failed to stop and proceeded onto Fort, Cons. Short said.

Storage Firm Buys Former Roller Rink

Central Cartage Planning $500,000 Warehouse Trade

A $500,000 furniture storage and truck freight business will be established in the old Douglas Street Roller Skating Gardens, it was announced today.

The old roller rink, closed a month ago due to lack of business, has been purchased by Hill the Mover, a nation-wide firm, and will be operated by its Victoria subsidiary, Central Cartage Ltd.

Central Cartage president, J. C. Stinson, who announced the expansion plan, explained a merger with the national firm took place last December.

He said the firm has bought from various owners a complete city block, bounded on the north by a Home service station and on the south by Page the Cleaner. R. W. Page was former owner of the roller rink.

Mr. Stinson said trucks bearing the name of the parent company and the subsidiary will both work from the new warehouse.

The local freight branch will eventually be known as Canadian Motorways, the freight division of the organization. The furniture division will bear the name of Hill the Mover.

Plant to Cover Whole Block

Plans for renovations of the present building are now being studied. The roller rink will be extended to provide garage facilities and if warranted, the plant will be expanded in the future to cover the rest of the block.

"The new storage facilities will rank with the most modern in Canada," said Mr. Stinson.

He added that the investment involved in the extended services represents well over $500,000.

The firm in Victoria, still operating under the Central Cartage sign from a warehouse at 535 Yates, now operates about some 30 vehicles. The equipment was recently expanded by purchase of three tractor-trailer units and four more such units have been ordered.

At the same time, the branch will become a loading and clearing point for any of the 3,500 other company vehicles based in other parts of Canada. About 40 persons are employed by the organization here.

Opening of the new premises will in effect make Hill the Mover a coast-to-coast operation.

It was reported the closure of Douglas Roller Skating Gardens does not mean the end of roller skating commercially in Victoria.

A Vancouver businessman plans to re-establish the roller drome which operated in past years at Victoria ballroom.

LEGISLATURE'S CLERK COMMENTS

House Name-Calling ---Is It Good or Bad?

Is a name-calling, shouting debate such as happened in the legislature Wednesday night over the Cassiar Road a good thing or a bad thing in democracy?

E. K. (Ned) DeBeck, clerk of the House, expressed a dual view of it in a letter to the Times today.

As a private observer he believes such a debate is a good thing.

But as the official clerk — whose responsibilities include an endeavor to see that all proceedings are conducted in a regular and orderly manner"—he must disapprove.

NO ANIMOSITY

"In these rather rare occasions when there is a flare-up, there is no animosity," Mr. DeBeck said.

Speaking as an observer of the legislature for many years, Mr. DeBeck said he believes "such occasional scenes indicated that the members fight vigorously for their cause and are a healthy sign and commendable . . ."

Said Mr. DeBeck:

"If a member of the government feels that he is being wrongly accused, or a member of the opposition that an injustice is being done, each is insistent on having the floor to have his say—neither will give way—other members on each side chip in to help or even to have order—and the battle is on.

"Surely this is a demonstration of the earnestness of the proponents. . . . in the cause of British Columbia.

". . . I can assure our citizens . . . that from my experience, the members of our legislative assembly are as nearly as possible 100% out for the betterment of our province according to their various beliefs."

Citizen Thwarts Would-Be Burglar At Camosun Store

Attempted break-in of Camosun Grocery, 1436 Camosun, about 11.40 p.m. Friday, was thwarted by a citizen who saw a man throw a brick through a front door window.

Scared off, the man ran west on Pandora after smashing the glass, police were told.

Witnesses said three youths, about 18 years of age, wearing dark clothing, were near the store just before the window was broken, and scattered immediately.

Store owner Mrs. Jessie Imason was notified and attended. There was apparently no entry to the premises.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

There was broken glass and ginger ale all over the floor when grocer C. H. Holland, Mel-A-Mae Grocery, 1924 Davie, opened shop at 7.50 a.m. today.

He told police someone had tossed a full bottle of the bubbly drink through a $135 window sometime overnight.

SLEEP COSTS TIGHT DRIVER TIGHT MONEY

"Tight money" policy is felt at every level, including traffic court.

Michael Stanley Lenko, Sidney, was fined $250 in city police court today after pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving about 2.15 a.m. His licence was suspended.

Magistrate H. C. Hall asked:

"Do you wish time to pay?" (New Criminal Code allows for instalment payment of fines.)

"What is the maximum time allowed?" Lenko wanted to know.

"Don't ask me questions," cautioned the magistrate, "answer mine."

"One year?"

"Nonsense. I'll give you a week to pay," the court said.

Cons. Glen Short said he found Lenko asleep at the wheel of his car in the 3100 block Douglas, where it had crossed to the wrong side, mounted a curb and tore out 30 feet of fence at 3184 and 3190 Douglas, where it came to rest on the front lawn.

COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

Jewish God Judge, Creator, Redeemer

Jewish people don't owe their religion to anyone, a Vancouver rabbi said here Thursday.

"Judaism is not the religion of one man, nor the creative effort in the specific area of a single person," Rabbi B. Goldenberg told a "Comparative Religions" class at Victoria College evening division.

"It is a collective religion nurtured and developed by a group and modified by the group's collective historical experience," he said.

Although Moses is recognized as the "greatest Jew," the days of his birth and death are not celebrated and his name is "purposely" left out of the liturgy of the Passover, a Jewish holiday marking the exodus of the Jews, led by Moses, from Egypt.

Judaism recognizes God as creator of man and the universe, judge and redeemer of mankind and lawgiver, Rabbi Goldenberg said.

As creator, God's work has not been completed "because He wanted man to become His partner in co-creating the world," by carrying on His work.

As judge, "God cares for the passing parade . . . His care and His concern are constant and dynamic."

"God is judge of the individual, the group, and history," the rabbi said.

"As individuals, we can retard or fulfill God's plan for us."

As redeemer, God forgives us our sins when we are truly penitent.

"The sin of retarding our fulfillment is not necessarily a blot on our souls," he said.

"When we are truly penitent we remove the stumbling block of sin . . . and stand higher in the scale of values than the religious and the pious."

As lawgiver, God has given us "actual concrete revelations, telling us how to conduct our affairs in every situation—while sipping a coke in a drugstore, arranging a business deal or voting in the provincial election."

Rabbi Goldenberg will continue his discourse on Judaism at a meeting in the college next Thursday at 8 p.m.

"In the Beginning." Gen. 1:1.

YOU SAID TO ME-

By ETHEL TULL

A Sunday message of help and comfort for those puzzled, depressed or low in spirit.

You said to me, "I'm sure that God can make use of suffering and mistakes, if we leave the way open for Him."

You are young and you have just been through a very deep sorrow and disappointment, yet you can still say, "We are so grateful for this way of life."

The way you are speaking of is, in your case, that of a young husband and wife praying together each morning, and then being very still and lifting up your hearts to the great God who has shown you that if you are willing to listen with your minds He will send you the good thoughts by which you can direct your lives.

You have your note books in which you write down the thoughts which come to you in that time of quiet, for it is so easy to forget or to disregard what is not recorded in writing. Then you are able to check with each other to consider the best way to follow your guidance.

These early morning times together with God have kept your love for one another strong and beautiful, for you have been able to see more clearly each other's point of view in the light of the Holy Spirit's scrutiny, and to clear up any misunderstanding which may have arisen between you. You have not sought each for your own good, but for what will help to make the other great.

When sorrow came, you were able to face it together, and out of it has already grown a better understanding with someone outside your home. God is using and will use your suffering—yes, and your honest mistakes, too—to give to others a vision of His power and love they might never have had if you had not "left the way open for Him."

Terrors Renewed By 9 After-Shocks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nine more sharp aftershocks have jolted the San Francisco area so far today.

A three-alarm fire in San Francisco followed a tremor that jolted many residents out of their sleep shortly after midnight. But assistant fire chief Bruno Bassi said the fire "was probably not" caused by the shock.

The after-shock, followed by several which were less severe, hit at 12.14 a.m.

Friday's quakes jolted San Francisco and the bay area, injuring 30 persons and causing cumulative and widespread damage almost impossible to assess but probably ranging into the millions.

At 11.30 p.m. Friday, 49 tremors, many of them minor, had been reported.

Bassi said the first alarm today came eight minutes after the 12.14 shock was reported.

Fifty persons were routed and three suffered slight injuries in the fire.

The fire department urged all residents to check for gas leaks, cracks in chimney flues and broken water lines.

The smallest discernable gas or water leak must be reported and repaired immediately, the department said.

Friday's main temblor was the worst since the disastrous 1906 quake here.

The shocks tolled the big bell on St. Patrick's Church on Mission Street in San Francisco. They stopped the huge clock in the tower of the Ferry Building, landmark at the foot of Market Street.

Some office workers on Market Street said it appeared to them the Ferry Building tower had shifted. They said they now could see the faces of two of the four clocks on the tower where before they could see only one. But inspectors called it an optical illusion.

Million Strike In U.K.; Vital Industries Hit

LONDON (CP)—A million workers engaged in aircraft and other vital export industries began a wage strike at noon today.

Ten huge industrial belts through Britain were affected by today's walkout of engineering workers who are allied with striking shipyard men in a 40-union confederation.

The strike halted the manufacture of dozens of products ranging from sewing machines to Britain's world-selling "whispering giant," the turbo-prop Britannia. Bristol Airplane Company appealed in vain for its 16,000 workers to keep at work on the Britannia.

Work also stopped on one of the biggest single dollar contracts in Britain, $52,000,000 worth of pipeline materials for the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline. The materials were being prepared at Stockton-on-Tees.

(At Calgary, N. E. Tanner, president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, which is building the natural gas line from Alberta to Quebec, said he has no idea what effect the strike tie-up will have on building plans. His company plans to have the 2,287-mile pipeline completed by 1958, with the first leg from Alberta to Winnipeg in operation this fall.)

The walkout started a few hours after settlement of a railway labor dispute and announcement that a strike by 200,000 shipyard workers may soon be ended.

Unions representing the industrial workers plan a progressive expansion of their walkout to close 4-300 plants employing 3,000,000 persons by April 6 unless there is a settlement of demands for a 10 per cent pay increase.

Gunfire Kills Man In Cabaret

100 Terrorized At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A 21-year-old Vancouver carpenter was charged with murder and attempted murder today following a bizarre shooting in a Chinatown cabaret.

The wild gun slaying came when hard-pressed Vancouver police were in the midst of a major new campaign against a rising wave of crime.

Police charged Joseph McKenna and held his teenaged girl friend as a material witness in the nightclub slaying, but were still baffled as to the motive for the apparently senseless killing.

The incident occurred about 2 a.m. in the Mayling Cabaret on the fringe of Vancouver's Chinatwn. Shot dead with two bullets in the stomach was John Henry Donaldson, 25, a recent immigrant from Johannesburg, South Africa.

Hit in the hip by a third bullet from the gunman's revolver was Larry Brown, 26, of Burnaby, the father of three children. Hospital authorities described his condition as "good."

Both men were drivers for the Vancouver Ambulance Company and had gone to the club

Two Tots in Hospital After Crash

Two small children were thrown out of a car in a collision at Douglas and Saanich Road at 1.10 p.m. today and were taken to Jubilee Hospital with undetermined injuries. Driver of the car in which they were riding was their mother, Mrs. Olwen Cairns, 2881 Colquitz.

Police identified driver of the other car as John Glynn Frazer, 1019 Bank. They estimated damage at $1,000.

Amerks May Call on Pelletier

Seattle Americans' coach Keith Allen said today he was "uncertain" who would be brought into replace goalie Emile Francis, who was knocked out of action by a shoulder separation Friday night. Allen said that he might call on Victoria Cougars' Marcel Pelletier or New Westminster Royals' Bev Bentley to replace Francis for the coast division playoff final, depending which of the two, New Westminster or Victoria, is eliminated in the semifinals.

Derby Hope, Sir William Breaks Bone

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Sir William suffered a broken sesamoid bone in his left front ankle in a race Friday, but the prize three-year-old colt may be saved, it was announced today.

Dr. J. D. Walker, veterinarian for the famed Your Host, was called in after the accident to Sir William, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herb Armstrong of Harrington, Wash.

Saud's Brother Warns Ben-Gurion

CAIRO (AP)—Crown Prince Faisal of Saudi Arabia was quoted today as saying that "if Israeli premier Ben-Gurion wants war he knows the consequences." Faisal is a brother of King Saudi.

He was commenting on reports that Ben-Gurion intends to fight if necessary to obtain free passage for Israeli ships in the Gulf of Aqaba.

U.K. Won't Restrict Canadian Imports, Macmillan to Tell PM

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent will receive assurance from British Prime Minister Macmillan here next week that the United Kingdom has no intention of trying to restrict the flow of Canadian goods to European markets.

He also will likely be asked for Canada's views on participation—as a full member or only as an observer—in a North Atlantic parliamentary assembly, first proposed formally last December by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

The Canadian government has been worried about the possible effects of the European common market and the proposed free trade area on Canadian markets in Europe.

Britain is not a member of the common market, a principal feature of which is a customs union, but wants to participate in the free-trade area if certain conditions are met.

The chief conditions are that overseas territories of member nations be excluded from the area and that agricultural products be excepted from the agreement. An accord between the United Kingdom and other European nations on these con-

Quints Born None Survive

ROOSENDAAL, The Netherlands (Reuters)—A 28-year-old Dutch woman today gave birth to quintuplets, all of whom died within a few hours.

The mother was reported "reasonably well." The quintuplets were born three months prematurely.

A midwife was in charge of the births. The babies weighed between 10 and 18 ounces each.

The mother was identified only as a Mrs. van Hasselt.

Manchester U. Enters Final In Cup Play

LONDON (Reuters) — Manchester United, mighty giant of English soccer, today reached the finals of the Football Association Cup by defeating Birmingham 2-0 at Sheffield.

West Bromwich Albion and Aston Villa fought to a 2-2 draw in the other semi-final match at Wolverhampton. They will replay the game at Birmingham Thursday.

Manchester United is in a good position to accomplish the Soccer "double"—winning both the Association Cup and the First Division league title—a feat last done 60 years ago. It also is in the semi-final round in the fight for the European Cup championship.

Race Driver Killed

SEBRING, Fla. (UP)—Race driver Bob Goldich of Chicago was killed today when his Arnolt-Bristol sports car flipped on a turn in seventh annual 12-hour Sebring Grand Prix of Endurance.

A bright red Maserati alternately driven by Jean Behra of France and world champion Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina raced into the early lead with the Ferraris in hot pursuit.

Complete success of the big Rotary conference which gets underway here Sunday is already established.

So said Victoria's Jack Housez today, vice-chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

"It will be the finest Rotary conference Victoria has ever had."

There will be about 70 "Rotary-Ann's" present.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR ROSS NOW GWUITALAS OF KWAKIUTL

The newest member of the Kwakiutl Indian Tribe is Gwiutalas, pronounced Gwee-yu-tha-lasx. He is better known to residents of British Columbia as Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

The lieutenant-governor was made an honorary member of the tribe today by Chief Mungo Martin, in a colorful ceremony at Thunderbird Park.

The induction into the tribe came after Mr. Ross had made the first cut in the 100-foot cedar log which is to be carved as a totem gift for Queen Elizabeth.

Gwiutalas means "Man of great hospitality."

Winch's Memory Soothes House

The spirit of Ernest Winch, friend of the aged and unfortunate, seemed to linger over the House Friday on the occasion of what would have been his 78th birthday.

Not an angry word was spoken all day and both sides of the House seemed less acrimonious than usual.

In front of the Speaker's desk lay a small and inconspicuous wreath of violets and rosebuds—a silent tribute to a man who was respected by most and hated by none.

For, as Mr. Speaker Irwin said:

"Complete dedication to a cause is given to few men. It is well that we should keep green the memory of a man of whom it can be truly said that he gave all he had to the cause of the downtrodden, the aged and infirm . . ."

Mr. Irwin told the House that a similar floral tribute to the one in front of his desk had been sent to Mr. Winch's family in Burnaby.

"I sincerely feel I have correctly interpreted your wishes in this matter," he said.

★ ★ ★

The seat left by Ernest Winch has yet to be filled and CCF Opposition leader Robert Strachan raised the question as to when a by-election would be held in his constituency of Burnaby.

"The Premier as yet has given no thought to this by-election," said Mr. Bennett, using the third person to good effect. "But within reasonable limits it will be considered."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Lois Haggen (CCF-Grand Forks - Greenwood) never says anything in the House unless she feels that it has to be said.

Friday, when members were discussing the Elections Act, she asked:

"In my constituency a number of patients in hospital lost the vote. Could the returning officer visit hospitals to accept ballots from patients?"

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black replied there was no such provision at the moment.

"Could there not be?" Pursued Mrs. Haggen.

"We will consider this matter," Mr. Black replied.

Reopens Talk With Nasser

CAIRO (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold again met President Nasser today on the complex problems plaguing the Middle East.

Accompanied by his deputy, Ralph Bunche, the secretary-general went to Nasser's rest home on the Nile near here for talks expected to continue through the day. They discussions were expected to cover the issues of the Suez Canal, the Gaza Strip, the Gulf of Aqaba and the deployment of the UN Emergency Force.

Hammarskjold arrived here Thursday and held an opening six-hour session with Nasser. He [illegible] Friday with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi.

ditions would mean that Canadian agricultural products, chiefly wheat, would not be frozen out of the British market.

The Canadian prime minister, Trade Minister C. D. Howe and External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson are scheduled to arrive here Monday for a day and a half of meetings with Macmillan, Lloyd and other British officials.

British spokesmen here say Macmillan will assure Canadian leaders that the United Kingdom will continue to consult the Commonwealth at every step of the devolvement of the free trade area and will do nothing to damage the traditional Canadian markets in Britain.

Menawhile, warm British welcome of the United States decision to play a bigger role in the Baghdad Middle East Defence Pact was obvious as Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower neared conclusion of their talks on world strategy.

ATOM TALKS

Atomic aspects of military defence were expected to dominate what probably will be the last working day of a three-day conference of the Western Big Two.

Officials said there is a possibility Macmillan and Eisenhower will hold a final meeting Sunday morning, but it is hoped the main work will be concluded by tonight. Eisenhower plans to leave for Washington Sunday.

Macmillan will remain until the middle of next week to confer with Prime Minister St. Laurent, who is to arrive Monday.

Macmillan and Eisenhower, with their foreign secretaries and advisers, reviewed defence issues for 90 minutes Friday, and the main theme was believed to have been the streamlining of Britain's defence efforts by reducing manpower and increasing firepower.

LONDON (UP)—The United States decision to join the Baghdad Pact's military committee drew cheers from western nations and denunciations from the Soviet bloc.

Israeli sources saw the step as the most important move yet toward blocking both Egyptian and Communist expansion in the Middle East since the Israeli invasion of the Sinai Peninsula.

France, while not a member of the five-nation pact, welcomed the American decision as a guarantee against U.S. "go-it-alone" policy in the Middle East.

The Soviets maintained America was behind the pact, which Moscow says was conceived as an "aggressive, warmongering institution" to threaten the Soviet Union.

. . . ROTARIANS

cially at 8.15 p.m. Sunday in the Royal Theatre with a full-scale program of speeches and entertainment, featuring the Rotary Boys' Choir, Victoria Girls' Drill Team, and addresses by Dr. A. M. Trendell, rector of St. John's (Shaughnessy) Vancouver, and Mayor Percy Scurrah, member of Victoria Rotary and former district governor.

The action-filled three-day meeting will mark the final get-together of old Rotary District 151. Last year the district was split, with the offspring, District 152, embracing Vancouver Island and a major portion of Washington.

District 151 comprises about 2,200 members and District 152 about 2,700.

Rotarians here are playing hosts in the best traditions, with each club member responsible for entertainment in their own homes, and to see that the visiting delegates get a good look at the scenic spots in and surrounding the city.

Teamster Boss Faces New Charge in Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said today that teamsters union cash flowed to Dave Beck from the west coast even after he was promoted to the union's presidency in 1952.

Robert F. Kennedy said this is one of the points that will be brought out when Beck, the union's west coast boss until his promotion, is called as a witness Tuesday. Kennedy is chief counsel of a special Senate committee investigating racketeering in labor and industry.

Kennedy said $270,000-plus, which Beck repaid west coast units of the teamsters union starting in 1954, after income tax agents began digging into his affairs, is "by no means the end of the picture on Mr. Beck."

Kennedy also said the committee knows where Beck got the money to make the $270,000 repayments. He did not elaborate.

NO LOAN RECORD

Beck has said he borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 from the union, without interest or security. But he said he has repaid it all. Beck says he borrowed the money before he became president four and one-half years ago of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America.

Committee investigators testified Friday their study of union records indicates no loans to Beck.

On Friday committee chairman John McClellan (Dem., Arkansas) listed $709,420.14 in teamster union funds which he said were either lost, misappropriated, unaccounted for or used for questionable purposes. A big part of the total was the loan to Beck.

Viking Views

By ROBIN FARQUHAR

How about these Victoria College Vikings?

It has been said that a true champion is the one who can come from behind to win.

If this is the case, the Vikings are champions of the first order.

They came from behind in the Saskatoon series after losing the first game and went on to win the final two games and take the series.

They came from behind in the Winnipeg series—again after losing the first game—to win the next three, each by a larger margin, and won the best-of-five series.

And they came from behind in the final game of the Winnipeg series. After being down four points at half time, they went on to win the series-winning game by 20 points, scoring 50 points in the second half.

Our hats are off to our very own Vikings—Western Canadian junior basketball champions.

And speaking of hats, we have received word that all the boys bought Stetsons in Alberta. At least the people in Toronto will know that they are Westerners.

Toronto—city of the subways, CNE, Maple Leafs, and the Canadian junior basketball finals. That's where the Vikings are heading for Sunday morning. They spent Friday and today recuperating in Winnipeg from the most rugged of all their series so far.

And from all reports, they can use a little recuperation.

Not only have they been having trouble sleeping at nights, but they also had a bit of a rough time from the Winnipeg Imperials.

In the third game of the series, Waldo Skillings was ridden into the bleachers by a Winnipeg player, and on the same night Ken McCulloch found himself on the receiving end of a Marciano-type right to the midsection.

Following the final game, Waldo phoned home and disclosed the fact that he was a "mass of bruises."

However, they received more than enough reward for their pains when they found themselves holding the western Canada title.

And now, all eyes are turned to Toronto and the Canadian finals. It will be a best-of-five-game series starting Tuesday night.

The other big team at the College, the rugby XV, has been somewhat eclipsed by the successful basketballers, but nevertheless they go on winning games and trophies.

On Thursday they waltzed over the spunky Oak Bay High School ruggers to the tune of 22-6.

Next weekend they will hop a plane over to Vancouver to tangle with one of the numerous UBC teams in an exhibition game.

★ ★ ★

The ping pong tournament was finally completed at the College last week, with Bill Matkin beating out Gordie Wilkie in the men's bracket, and Laurel Beale downing Dot Hunt for the women's title.

★ ★ ★

Sunday the College golf tournament will be held at Gorge Vale starting at 1.30. Topping the list of 20 entrants are Mike Kolb and Doug Monroe.

★ ★ ★

And, finally, next Friday night will be the annual College awards banquet and dance.

At 6.30 the collegians will sit down to a big spread of edibles, following which the athletic and activity awards will be presented. After this the dance will go on until 1 a.m.

WINS LEGION RACE

Fraser Caps Prep Career

Ian Fraser capped a brilliant high school cross-country running career Friday at Victoria High School.

The slim runner loped across the finish line of the annual Canadian Legion 5.2-mile road race with a clean one-eighth of a mile lead over his nearest competitor in 26 minutes 17 seconds to win the event for the third time in three years.

It was his last distance race under the tutelage of Gordon Hartley, his coach of three years of running for Vic High.

Fraser's time, three seconds slower than his 1956 clocking in the same event, was established over a course that was one-quarter of a mile longer than last year's route.

In second spot was Lawrence Valiant, also of Vic High, with a time of 27.03—but he had to battle for his position.

Starting out strongly, Valiant pressed Fraser until the mid-point of the race, when the winner lengthened his stride and pulled away from all pursuers.

NAVY THREAT

Meanwhile, Joe Johnstone of Navy, the victim of a poor start, had been moving through the ranks of runners. He reached, and passed, the second-place finisher just as Fraser was shaking off all challengers.

Valiant then stepped up his pace to gain his runner-up position in the field of 22 runners. Johnstone's third-place time was 27.36.

In fourth spot was Ed Pomeroy of Vic High, who was followed by teammates Peter Jubb, Monty Vanden, Bill Williams and Bruce Simpson before John Gilliland of Victoria College captured ninth place.

Also competing were runners from Esquimalt and Langley High Schools.

Complete list of runners, with times, follows:

1, Ian Fraser, (Vic High) 26.17; 2, Lawrence Valiant (Vic High) 27.03; 3, Joe Johnstone (Navy) 27.36; 4, Ed Pomeroy (Vic High) 28.36; 5, Peter Jubb (Vic High) 28.45; 6, Monty Vanden (Vic High) 29.03; 7, Bill Williams (Vic High) 29.09; 8, Bruce Simpson (Vic High) 29.25; 9, John Gilliland (Vic College) 29.36; 10, Wager (Navy) 29.40; 11, Walton (Navy) 29.58; 12, Dave Shaw (Esquimalt) 30.06; 13, Norman Hamilton (Vic High) 30.40; 14, Terry Jones (Esquimalt) 30.50; 15, Andrew Black (Langley) 31.02; 16, Dan Langert (Langley) 32.14; 17, Gilbert Bussiere (Langley) 32.25; 18, Peter Roche (Vic High) 32.52; 19, Bill Johnson (Langley) 32.55; 20, Bill Hamilton (Vic High); 21, Bill Arkinstall (Langley); 22, Roy Ford (Vic High).

Tinling Bests Harper In Low-Scoring Duel

Toppling of the last unbeaten rink, Fred Tinling's win over Harvey Hodge, and another upset by Webster vied for elbow room under the spotlight as play in the fifth annual men's bonspiel at Victoria Curling Club headed into the final stretch Friday night.

Getting the most attention from the packed gallery was Tinling's battle of strategy with Glen Harper, skipping Hodge's Duncan quartet. The veteran Brier curler squeezed out a 3-2 victory in what may be the lowest score ever registered in a B.C. bonspiel.

Tinling was ahead, 2-1 after the fourth end, hitting singles on the second and fourth ends while Harper was counting on the third.

The fifth, sixth and seventh ends were blanked as the skips jockeyed to get the last rocks on even ends. Harper counted on the eighth to tie it up at 2-2 and Tinling fired through an empty house on the ninth to keep the last rock for the final end.

He needed another great shot to pull out the victory, drawing around a guard rock to the inner ring on his last toss to get the winning point.

Harry Spottiswood of Port Alberni, jumping into an 8-1 lead, knocked the Ed Valleau rink, skipped by Tony Folk, out of the unbeaten ranks with a 9-6 win over the Duncan foursome, leaving only Charlie Hodgson and Harold Hole of Victoria the only rinks still alive in two events.

Webster continued his string of upsets as he tripped Alf Milham's Vancouver rink, skipped by veteran Art Gooder, in an afternoon game, coming through with a difficult raise on his last rock to grab an 8-7 victory.

Most finals in the bonspiel are expected to be played tonight at 7.

AUSSIE LINCOLN BREAKS FOUR-MINUTE BARRIER

MELBOURNE (AP)—Mervyn Lincoln today became the second Australian to break the four-minute-mile barrier on home soil when he covered the distance in 3.58.9 in a special track meet.

He followed in the footsteps of John Landy who ran the mile in 3.58.6 Jan. 28, 1956, and matched that time in a special race April 7 the same year. Landy holds the world record of 3.58 set at Turku, Finland, in 1954.

Lincoln won today's race by more than 100 yards. He ran the quarter-mile in 59 seconds, the half-mile in 2.00.3 and the three-quarter in 3.00.

His official time was given as 3.58.9, but under International rules it will be recognized as 3.59.0.

JUST WANTS IMPROVEMENT

Names Don't Bother Lou

By The Associated Press

Kansas City manager Lou Boudreau isn't bothered by the tag his club carries:

"The Yanks' American League farm team."

The Athletics have no fewer than a dozen players who at one time or another were under contract to the New Yorkers.

"I don't care what they call us so long as we improve," the handsome pilot said after Friday's Yanks-KC game at West Palm Beach, Fla. "In fact, it wouldn't hurt us if some of the Yanks' class rubbed off on us. It's better than being a last-place team."

Boudreau's operatives had just been licked 3-0 by the Bombers, but just the same he said he thought the Athletics were going to improve because of their hitting. He also is high on Milt Graff, who hit .314 for Birmingham last year and came to Kansas City as a throw-in in the big mid-winter deal.

No matter how you look at it, the Athletics appear to be all the Yanks need. Off-season it's trading. In-season, it's playing. Until Friday the world champions had lost two in a row and had looked forlorn in both outings.

But Tom Sturdivant and rookie Jim Depalo combined to whitewash the Athletics on four hits. For Sturdivant, this was his third time on the mound. In a total of 14 innings, he has given up just eight hits and no runs.

Elsewhere the Cincinnati Redlegs whipped Detroit Tigers 2-1; Milwaukee Braves edged Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in 10 innings; Philadelphia Phillies licked St. Louis Cardinals, also 4-3; Chicago Cubs had to go 11 innings to beat Baltimore Orioles 5-2; New York Giants defeated Cleveland Indians 8-4; Washington whipped Brooklyn Dodgers 7-2 with Camilo Pascual going the route for the Senators, and San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League vanquished Boston Red Sox 5-2.

Chess Table Etiquette Explained

Have you been worried about your deportment at the chess table?

If so, your worries are over. The Chess Federation of Canada has just published a handbook, "Chess in Canada," which Lou Kellie of Victoria, in charge of its publication, calls the "Emily Post of Chess."

Kellie, recently appointed to the board of governors of the federation, has included laws governing the game, rules for all types of competitions, methods to be used in group play and the CFC system of rating players striving for the titles of "expert" or "master," in the handbook.

Continuing its program to encourage chess among schools and youth organizations, the CFC will assist in staging the world junior championship tournament at Toronto, Aug. 3-18, and will hold the first Canadian junior championship tourney at Quebec City in July.

The Canadian closed chess championships are scheduled for Vancouver early this fall.

Hidden-Hole Contest

Mrs. H. G. MacKenzie recorded a net score of 26½ to win the silver division of a women's hidden-hole competition at Colwood Golf Club Thursday.

Mrs. A. E. Bayliss took bronze division honors with a net 25 and Mrs. W. L. Burt topped "C" division with a net 24.

Up-Islanders Threaten City Golf Domination

Victoria golfers have dominated the seven previous Daily Times Vancouver Island Match Play Open golf tournaments, but they may have a struggle to extend their streak of successes this year.

Leading a three-man contingent from Courtenay for the qualifying round of the Open at Gorge Vale March 31, is Eph Robinson, two-time winner of the Gorge Vale crown, who is playing to a three handicap.

Also in the Courtenay trio are Wally Herman and Don Barton.

R. E. Evans is the only golfer entered from the Cowichan Golf and Country Club to date but steady Gordon Whan and Clayton Wright, perennial threats from the Duncan club, are expected to be in the fold before entries close March 28.

Match play will start after the 18-hole qualifying round, beginning at Uplands April 7, and continuing at Victoria Golf Club, Colwood and Gorge, in order, on successive weekends. Finals are slated for Uplands May 5.

The starting field will be limited to the first 120 divoters to submit entries.

PLAY AL, MARLENE FOR A BUCK

TORONTO (CP) — National Golf Day will be held in Canada Saturday, June 1, with Marlene Stewart and Al Balding playing against the weekend golfers.

Miss Stewart, from Fonthill, Ont., won the American amateur in 1956, and Balding, Toronto pro, has been playing the winter circuit for more than three years. They will play at Toronto St. George's Club.

Golfers competing against Miss Stewart and Balding donate $1 for the development of juniors in Canada.

Leaf's Smith Ends Brief 'Retirement'

TORONTO (BUP) — Left-winger Sid Smith, 31, today was back from a planned retirement from the National Hockey League which he never even started.

Smith, an all-star forward with the Toronto Maple Leafs two seasons ago, announced earlier this week he would play his last NHL game when the Leafs meet the Red Wings at Detroit Sunday.

Yesterday, however, he signed a contract for next season. The terms were not disclosed but Smith was wreathed in a big smile when he came out of general manager Conn Smythe's office.

"I'm certainly very pleased with the contract," Smith said. "It was a pleasant surprise."

Smith has been with the Leafs for the past eight seasons. So far this season he has scored 17 goals, compared with the dismal four counters to his name last season.

Button Matches At Gorge Sunday

Vic Painter and Bill McColl of Colwood will make their first defence of the city open golf buttons at Gorge Vale Golf Club Sunday when they face the challenge of the Uplands pair of Bob Morrison and Frank Scroggs.

Cliff Horwood and Jack Walker of Victoria Golf Club will also be making a first button defence when they meet Gorge Vale's Norm Boden and Ted Bradshaw in a junior match.

The senior tee off at 1 p.m. with the juniors starting 15 minutes later.

Costa, Heem Run Too Much--- Miguel Weens for the Keeds

NEW YORK (UP) — Little Miguel Berrios, brand new American featherweight champion and semi-finalist in the tourney for the vacant world crown, said today, "I must ween the beeg title for my four keeds."

Stocky, broad-shouldered Miguel—a V-shaped Puerto Rican terrier—attained his new promience by chasing Brooklyn's speedy Carmelo Costa about Madison Square Garden's ring Friday night and flooring him once while en route to a single-point, 12-round, split decision.

Each weighed 125 pounds, just one under the feather limit. Miguel was favored at 8-5.

Victory in the nationally-televised and broadcast fight, which drew 4,204 cash customers and $12,061, earned 24-year-old Berrios the right to meet Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria, Africa, in the semi-final 12-rounder at Washington, D.C., April 26.

Later the Washington winner will fight Cherif Hamia of France, European champion, for the world title left vacant by Sandy Saddler's recent retirement. Hamia, Bassey, Berrios and Costa were ranked in that order as top contenders when the four-man tourney was arranged.

Puerto Rico-born Miguel, who has lived in New York five years, is the father of three sons and one daughter.

"I must ween for the keeds," he said. "I was poor boy in Puerto Rico—never had much. I want'a geeve those keeds all the theengs I never had. When I ween worl' title I kin do eet."

Miguel was surprised at last night's split decision. "I thought I ween beeg," he said. "Costa, heem run too much all night."

A United Press poll of 11 ringside writers favored Berrios, 11-7.

But Costa was yelling today, "I thought I won easy. But they just won't give me a decision in my home town."

It was an interesting fight, but hard to score at times because of the contrasting styles and tactics. The three ring officials were in agreement upon only four rounds—the second and 10th for Berrios and the fourth and fifth for Costa.

SCHOOLS DRAMA FESTIVAL

Juniors Chosen For Honor Show

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Nominated for the first time to an honor performance of a Greater Victoria Schools' Drama Festival, students of Mount Douglas High School and James Bay Elementary were "thrilled to the eyebrows" Friday night with adjudicator Mrs. Dorothy Goldrick's choice of their respective entries, "Make Room for Rodney," a comedy, and "Make Him Smile," a fantasy.

Announcement came at conclusion of Friday night's session at Oak Bay Junior High School. Act 1 of "The Cradle Song," Oak Bay Senior High's entry, directed by Miss K. B. Youdall, will complete the program of three plays tonight at Victoria High School.

Miss Mary Miller's Grade III-size actors will create a delightful contrast to the quite mature casts of the two high school plays. Director of the family comedy, "Make Room for Rodney," is Alan E. Jones.

The difficult choice of three honor plays was made from a list of seven out of the total entry of 29. Others named as possible selections were University School's "Julius Caesar" and "In the Zone"; S. J. Willis Junior High's "Pinocchio" and George Jay's "Guki, the Moon Boy."

Senior high schools took the stage Friday night, with three light comedies.

Good Diction Noticeable

"Roughly Speaking," by Emmett Smiley. Presented by Victoria High School.

Sherry Fenton ..... Wendy Love
Andy Fenton ..... Barry Stovel
Mrs. Ella Fenton ..... Pat Cromie
Mrs. Harrison ..... Marilyn Young
Mr. Henry Fenton ..... Bob Smith
Elmer Gorsuch ..... Charlie Luxton
Larrable Chatworth ..... Roger Steed
Fay Fenton ..... Pat Horne
James Fenton ..... Ian Norie
Margie ..... Colleen MacGillycuddy
Uncle Ford Fenton ..... Tom Hosie

Director: T. W. Mayne.
Stage Manager: Paul Butterworth.

Characters in this amusing comedy were taken well, Mrs. Goldrick considered. All voices were clear and diction good. She felt that, at the denoeument, there might have been a more general stirring of excitement. Interpretation had been satisfactory and teamwork was good, she commented.

"Make Room for Rodney," by Marion Holbrook. Presented by Mt. Douglas High.

Rodney Lodge ..... Jerry Booth
Katie ..... Aria Smalley
Phyllis Lodge ..... Judy Worthington
Mr. Lodge ..... Tom Rogers
Mrs. Lodge ..... Edna Sudlow
Josephine ..... Margot Tomlin
Lyman Cunningham ..... Sandy Pogson
Bill Thompson ..... Trevar Gibson

Director: Alan E. Jones.
Stage Manager: Tom Rogers.

This was a finished performance, Mrs. Goldrick considered. Cues were picked up smartly, voices were good and characterizations extremely well done, she commended, adding that she had liked the way the actors used all parts of the large stage in their movements. She particularly praised Jerry Booth for his musicianship.

Period Sets Complimented

"Finders Keepers," by George Kelly. Presented by Oak Bay Senior High School.

Mrs. Aldrid ..... Diane Beale
Eugene Aldrid ..... John Anderson
Mrs. Hampton ..... Diana Livesey

Directors: Miss K. B. Youdall.
Stage Manager: Michael Rankin.

The adjudicator liked the clever idea of using screens to indicate the character of a turn-of-the-century drawing room. She considered the use of the period set and costumes was a considerable help to play and actors.

She thought the cast of three excellent, praticularly Diane Beale in the timing of her speech and movement, and Diana Livesey, who had shown "just the right amount of distress."

Friday afternoon session was held at George Jay Elementary School.

"Guki, The Moon Boy," by Beulah Folsbee. Presented by George Jay Elementary.

Anton Antinov ..... Adrian Andrew
Guki, the Moon Boy ..... Darryl Stokes
Vaska Nikolv ..... Valerie Coel
Leo Nikolv ..... Barry Whitelaw
Peter ..... Tommy Beesley
Nicola ..... June Smythe
Alexis ..... Shiela Duggan
Beam ..... David Squires

In warmly praising this entry, the adjudicator termed it "a fascinating play, very well done." All movements was good and there was some nice grouping, she considered. There had been a particularly good transition, Mrs. Goldrick noted, and really fine use of light and shade throughout.

Darryl Stokes in the title role had been most expressive, she felt. Adrian Andrew was commended for his sustained and realistic portrayal of an old man.

"Let's Pretend," by H. H. Hall. Presented by Gordon Head Elementary School.

Psyche ..... Raye Collins
Denny ..... Harold Sutton
Bully Bill ..... Terry Gains
Tom Toady ..... Bobby Baldwin
Mr. Riddler ..... Brian Painter
Miss Method ..... Judy McMahon
Naria ..... Norma Valiant
Mrs. Randall ..... Sharon Rosson
Mr. Randell ..... Frank Basham
Guiseppe ..... Billy Burkholder
Jacko ..... Tom Hopkins
Honka ..... Ann Hammond
Tim Burns ..... David Gill
The Quail Family ..... Tony Cosier, Elaine Valiant, Anita Bissenden.
The Flowers ..... Jean Ritz, Jean Young, Angela Gibb, Anne Warburton, Dale Okano, Brenda Hatch.

Director: H. H. Hall.

This was a rather confusing play and altogether too strong meat for the children, Mrs. Goldrick felt. She advised that the young actors should learn to speak to each other and not out to the audience; also that they must pretend to be the people in the play.

Voices had been too light to carry well, she found. Raye Collins was praised for the clear quality of her voice; Brian Painter for making a really good exit, and Tom Hopkins for his delightful representation of a monkey.

"The King's Creampuffs," by Martha Swintz. Presented by Brentwood Elementary.

King ..... Roddy MacDonald
Queen ..... Nancy Tidman
Algernon ..... Jacqueline Rice
Princess ..... Wendy Brown
Page ..... Peter Gardner
First Witch ..... Esther Koppel
Second Witch ..... Peggy Forsberg
Herald ..... Michael Woods
Baker ..... Henry Baade
Ladies-in-Waiting ..... Maureen Crampton, Alice Cameron, Pamela Lowres.

Director: E. W. Hatch.
Stage Managers: Alan Shiner and John Keel.

This was a light, gay, jolly type of play which she had enjoyed seeing the children do, said Mrs. Goldrick. All voices were good and cues picked up well. Teamwork and climax were well done, she considered and there had been good reactions from the attendants. Particularly commended was an excellent scene between the two witches.

Forest Product 'Safety Week' Set for May 6

The B.C. government has proclaimed the week beginning May 6 as "Forest Products Safety Week," Premier Bennett announced Friday.

Last year's week-long campaign resulted in a large reduction of accidents in the forest products industry, he said, "and it is vital that the 1957 campaign should be an even greater success."

Mr. Bennett said the success of safety week depends on teamwork.

"Labor and management leaders, press, radio and TV can do much in educating workmen to follow safe working practices. Forest products workers must be helped to develop the maximum safety consciousness, for success or failure of the campaign will hinge largely on the workman himself."

The premier said he would call on everyone engaged in the forest products industry to support the efforts of their safety committees during safety week and throughout the year.

"We want everyone to join in the war against accidents," he declared.

. . . KILLING

as patrons after finishing work at midnight.

Sally Phillips, a North Vancouver waitress, told police she was three feet from the gunman when he stood up and screamed "everybody sit down or I'll let you have it."

"His first shot went wild," she said. "Then the second shot hit the tall fellow (Donaldson). A third shot whistled right past my head and hit the back of one of the booth seats."

She said the gunman was tackled by a club employee and two off-duty police constables, William T. Daley and Jerry Myers.

"They hit him hard but he managed to squeeze off two more shots before they knocked the gun from his hand."

GRABS GUNMAN

Ernest Vlaovito, employee of the Mayling Club, said he was the first man to reach the suspect after the shooting, during which about 100 persons sat frozen in horror.

"I grabbed him and chopped him a couple of times across the bridge of the nose," he said.

"One of the police officers was trying to grab his gun arm, but he still fired a couple more shots."

Vlaovito, a one-time ambulance driver, was a friend of Donaldson's and had been talking to him a few minutes before.

"Then I heard a couple of shots and saw Johnny stagger and grab the railing around the dance floor.

He staggered about 15 feet holding on to the railing, then fell in a heap on the floor."

Constables Daley and Myers jumped the suspect as he headed for the door.

Another waitress, Mrs. Evelyn Robinson, said one of the shots "just missed" her head. She said the suspect was awfully calm while waiting for detectives to arrive. He was complaining to the police because they wouldn't let him have a cigaret."

Pensioners

WEST COAST ADVOCATE —During the present controversy over old age pensions, one particular aspect has not received the attention it deserves, and that is the fact that pensioners lose their right to pension payments if they establish residence anywhere outside Canada.

They have earned their place by the fire, they have established their claim to being Canadians and should not be required to give further proof of their affection for their homeland.

The United States has obviously recognized this fact and pays pensions anywhere on the globe.

But our own older citizens, who perhaps wish to spend the twilight of their lives with relatives in the old country, or who for reasons of health —and economy!—would like to live in Mexico or Jamaica, cannot do so without forfeiting their pensions.

No increase in expenditures or taxes is connected with the abolition of this arbitrary limitation, and we can see no reason why the government should not take the appropriate steps immediately.

Festivals

PARKSVILLE-QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS — Eleventh annual Drama Festival, opening next Tuesday night at Errington, offers residents of this district still another insight into the frailties of human nature—or, as William Saroyan puts it, the whole human comedy.

By sponsoring this annual series of plays, Errington dramatists and the community program branch of the Department of Education take us into the land of make-believe.

Those who attend the festival next week will leave with a broader viewpoint . . . with a greater recognition of the fact that it takes all kinds to make a world, even in the land of make-believe.

In short, drama festivals present an entertainment and enlightenment package deal which has few rivals.

Take a Bow

SIDNEY REVIEW — Athletic achievement by a co-ordinated group is usually commendable, despite the very obvious fact that some group must win every contest.

Brentwood Community Club has held a place close to the top or at the top in various Island and provincial sports contests. The players themselves are to be highly commended, but beyond this commendation lies an even more significant factor.

To come to success in a regular pattern over the years means that the teams, which inevitably change with age groups among juvenile participants, are provided with exceptional training.

The teams and trainers can take a bow for a very gratifying performance culminating in the winning of the Island championship by the juvenile girls' basketball team.

Brentwood Boatyard Plans Sidney Move

BRENTWOOD—Firm of Clark Bros. Boat Works is considering closing its plant on Beach Drive at the foot of Marchants Road and moving to Shoal Harbor, near Sidney.

Henry Clark, a partner, stated the date of transfer is still indefinite. Stanley Clark, other partner in the firm, has built a home at Shoal Harbor, and it is understood the property will be developed as an industrial site.

In the 20 years the firm operated here it built both pleasure and commercial fishing craft, and during the Second World War turned out a fleet of freighter lifeboats especially designed for use in areas under submarine attack.

The firm hopes to sell the Brentwood plant as a "going concern" serving sport fishing interests.

Sooke Considered As Refugee Area For 18,000

SOOKE — Civil defence officer, Capt. P. W. deP. Taylor, addressed members of the first aid class at the final session of the nine-week course in the Sooke Elementary School this week.

Capt. Taylor appealed for more sector wardens and cooks for emergency feeding.

He said: "We in this area might have to house and feed 5,000 to 18,000 people should disaster come to Victoria; it would not be a happy 'All Sooke Day'.

Examinations for those completing the course will be conducted by the St. John Ambulance Society in the Sooke Elementary School next Wednesday.

ONE REBEL

Jaycee Club In Uproar Over Shirts

NANAIMO — Junior Chamber of Commerce "uniform" here will from now on consist of a blue shirt with yellow trimmings.

Most of the 30 Jaycees agreed on this at a recent meeting but one did not and will, instead, wear a bowler hat.

Before members decided on the shirt colors, a committee chairman twice resigned and was reinstated and the selection of shirt colors became a temporarily turbulent affair.

COURTENAY COUPLES SHARE PRIZE

Rock 'n' Rollers Gyrate 4½ Hours

COURTENAY—Two couples split the $50 prize money as winners of the rock 'n roll marathon here Friday night—and early this morning—in the Native Sons Hall.

Bernie and Rosie Sinclair, brother and sister, agreed with Ronnie Parks and Donna Wilson, only couples left on the floor, to pack it up after four hours, 35 minutes and 54 seconds of gyrating.

The marathon started at 9.30 p.m.

Three of the four seemed tired, but Donna Wilson showed surprising exuberance, right up to the last seconds.

Competitors were in a roped-off section of the hall, and nearly 1,000 spectators jammed space left.

Nanaimo Jaycees Advocate 'Holiday' Plan for Island

NANAIMO — The Junior Chamber of Commerce is to prepare a brief advocating long-term development of Newcastle Island as "Holiday Island."

The Jaycees' promotion director, Laurie Patten, in urging preparation of the brief for Mayor Pete Maffeo, said "There is Nanaimo's new industry—and it can be a big one."

He said the island development should include tenting and trailer space and cabins at the south end, with an amusement park near the small lake on the island.

J. R. Dudley, executive manager of the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce, said a 20 per cent increase in tourists to the Vancouver Island city is expected this year. He said 53,000 tourists visited the chamber's tourist bureau last year.
